Junior Club News

The Morell Junior Poultry Club held their regular meeting on March 16th.

The President for this year is Mr. Merlin McDonald (a member of the team sent to Toronto Winter Fair last year). Mr. James Robbins is Vice-President and Miss Mary E'Brien is Secretary-Treasurer.

The orders of chickens was the topic of the evening and it is to be noted that the members are ordering considerably more chickens than 50 per member, the minimum as per regulations. It is believed that when all orders are in that the final figure will be over 3,000 chickens for this club.

Plans for constructing range sheds were obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, by the secretary and were distributed among the members.

Hugh MacLean, Fieldman, Department of Agriculture was present and outlined the year's work and distributed study material.

The next meeting will be held on April 6th at 7.30 p. m.

A re-organizational meeting of the Baldwin's Road Poultry Club was held on March 22nd. A new slate of officers was appointed and seven new members joined this year bringing total membership up to 22.

Mr. Joseph Trainor and Mr. Merlin McKenna were appointed Adult Directors. All the members have their orders in for chickens with a minimum of 100 chickens to each 1949 member and 50 to each new member.

Plans have been made to obtain the use of the hall at St. Theresa for future meetings, films and recreation. Another project is the building of range shelters to house their poultry when on range this summer. The members are showing very keen interest in the club and it appears they are going to have a good club year.

Mr. Hugh MacLean, Fieldman, Department of Agriculture was present at this meeting. The next meeting is to be held on April 6th.

Second Inter-Class Debate At P. W. C.

Yesterday the second of the series of inter-class debates was held at Prince of Wales College in Room 26. The topic under discussion was "Resolved that Maritime Union would be advantageous to Prince Edward Island."

Miss Phyllis Cutcliffe with her supporters, Mr. Lloyd Cutcliffe and Miss Maureen Blake, Section 2A upheld the affirmative. The leader of the negative, Miss Anna Matheson, had as her supporters the Misses Aletha MacLeod and Uldine White of Teacher Training Section "B". The affirmative won the decision.

The judges, as in the case of the previous week's debate, were three young lawyers, Messrs. Gerald Foster, John Nicholson and William Gaudet. Mr. Foster as spokesman for the judges heartily commended all the speakers for the amount of research they had undertaken and congratulated them on the excellence of their delivery. He also complimented the chairman, Mr. Albert Johnston, a student of the Third Year, on the capable manner in which he conducted the debate.

Mr. Gorham Cook Passes in Hospital

There passed peacefully away in the Prince Edward Island Hospital on Sunday, March 26th, 1950, Mr. Gorham Cook, in his 86th year.

Although not enjoying the best of health for the past six months, his many friends expected his recovery and the news of his death came as a shock to the whole community.

The late Mr. Cook was born in York, and moved to East Royalty about 46 years ago, from where he operated a successful meat business and was the first man to hold a stall in the present market building. His kind and genial manner endeared him to all with whom he did business; and he will be greatly missed by everyone.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, the former Lena D'Amico, of Cornwall, England, one son Earl, predeceased him five years ago last Christmas day.

The funeral takes place tomorrow, (Wednesday), from his late residence with a short service at 2.30 p. m. followed by service in Trinity United Church at 3.00 p. m. Interment in the People's Cemetery.

Discusses Western Oil Development At Rotary Meeting

"The economic effect of the western development is largely felt in that immediate area, but affects Canada as a whole through the saving of American dollars—about 1,000,000 last year, and after the pipe line goes into operation it is expected that the replacement of imported oil in the area served by Ontario refineries will increase the saving in dollars to $140,000,000. Canada will eventually have a supply of oil equivalent to our total needs but eastern Canada and British Columbia will still have to depend on outside sources for their supplies of crude." This was the opinion expressed by Rotarian Crin MacGregor, Halifax, sales manager, Maritime Division of the Imperial Oil Company at the Charlottetown Rotary Club yesterday.

President Reuel LePage presented the clubs cheque for $4,500.00 proceeds of their auction to Rotarian R. H. Rogers, President of the Red Cross Society.

Rotarian Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan noted the very successful show put on by the Charlottetown Figure Skating Club. It is a wonderful thing that these young people have the opportunity to develop their skating abilities, and he believed that several of them may be future Barbara Ann Scotts. Entire credit is due to the years of work that Rotarian W. E. Scantlebury has given to teaching these youngsters, and he hoped the Rotary Club would take note of the good work and express appreciation.

Rotarians Gordon Foster and Newman McLellan were chairmen. Guests included Rotarian the Hon. Walter Darby, Summerside, and Messrs. Arthur Roper, C. W. Milton, George Ives, Ralph M. Jones, E. M. Robinson.

Rotarian MacGregor traced the discovery and development of Canada's oil reserves, and said that the James Williams well in Ontario was producing two years before the Drake well in Pennsylvania which is being claimed as the first oil well on the American continent. The C.P.R. while drilling for water in 1885 struck natural gas at Medicine Hat which encouraged oil seekers to look to the prairies. The first real discovery was at Turner Valley. Nearly 1000 wildcat wells were drilled in the plains without noticeable success.

Personal Messages of Inspiration and Faith
Edited by Norman Vincent Peale

HOW TO ACQUIRE FAITH

By Dr. Smiley Blanton

Dr. Blanton is an eminent psychiatrist whose training included the greatest universities of Europe. He is one of the pioneers in the working partnership of religion and psychiatry. He understands people, and his wife and kindly insight will help you.

Most people crawl through life on hands and knees. They have no faith to sustain themselves, to give themselves confidence in other people or trust in the Creator.

The spirit in them to do—to live to the full—repeats continuously, like the ticking of the clock: "I should have done... I should have done... I should have done..."

"But you have not," says the sum of their accomplishments, "and now it is too late."

Too late, indeed? It is never too late through faith to tap the reserves of strength that are forever accumulating deep in everyone; never too late through faith to find the sources of power which give men courage; never too late to acquire faith in one's self, and above all, faith in other people, in other causes, other ideals. With this faith, people very often do the impossible.

Without faith to rise and carry on, life is empty. To some people even the void of death seems more desirable, for one cannot be physically or mentally healthy without faith. If you believe in nothing, why make the sacrifices for others? Why endure pain and hardship?

Fatal Loss of Faith

Lack of faith, or loss of it, can also mean the end of even life itself.

Recently I saw a woman who was recovering satisfactorily from a major operation. She thought her marriage had been happy, but about a week after the operation her husband came to the hospital and told her he wanted a divorce. Suddenly there was nothing left for the woman to believe in; life collapsed with a black crash. She began to run a temperature, and refused to eat. In a few days she became unconscious, and died.

No physical reason for her death could be discovered. But her faith had been destroyed, and life was not worth the effort of living without it.

But some adults fail to understand the cause of their inability to acquire faith. Speak to them about it, and they will give you a multitude of reasons other than the true one. They alibi that they lost their jobs because their work was unappreciated and they were not treated fairly. Actually they might have been inefficient.

Leduc Discovery

"It was not until February 13, 1947, that the determination and efforts of the oil seekers were rewarded when the first oil well was found at Leduc near Edmonton, and even then they were not sure that a field of major proportions had been found, said Mr. MacGregor, so accustomed had they become to repeated disappointments. After the success had been repeated at Woodbend, which seems to be an extension of the Leduc field, and Redwater now proven to be double the size of Leduc, were they sure that at last a find of importance had been located, but other successes followed such as Simmond's, an extension of Redwater, with reserves now estimated at more than 500,000,000 barrels.

"Late last year an even more dramatic discovery was made at Golden Spike. So far only two producing wells have been drilled but in both, the oil bearing zone is in excess of 545 feet as compared with Leduc 33 feet and Redwater 65 feet. Although the extent of the field is not yet known, we believe reserves will be measured in hundreds of millions of barrels, said Mr. MacGregor.

Pipe Line

"Oil in the ground has little economic value except that gained from local consumption continued the speaker, and in order to extend the market a pipe line is now in the early stages of construction. The legal work covering a right-of-way is nearly completed and part of the pipe is now on location. The first leg of the line will be completed by autumn 1950 from Edmonton to Regina, and will be continued on to the Lakehead at Superior, Wisconsin, a total distance of 1150 miles, and will be ready to operate by April, 1951. Two large tankers now under construction will carry the oil from Superior to Sarnia and other refinery points. It is worth noting that this line will require 1,800,000 barrels to fill before any oil can be delivered to the Lakehead refinery. A new refinery of 18,000 barrels daily is completed and operating at Edmonton, and more are expected to be built in the near future. A new refinery of 10,000 barrels daily will be built at St. Paul, just outside Winnipeg, at a cost of $10,000,000.

"The rate of discovery should increase during 1950, for at present there is greatly increased activity with more than 100 Canadian and United States companies and syndicates operating in the general area with dozens of geological crews and 104 seismograph and gravity meter crews. Last year more than $100,000,000 were spent and during 1950 it is expected that $150,000,000 will be spent. No one can say concluded Mr. MacGregor what the results will be but we do know that only a small portion of Canada's 475,000 square miles of prospective oil territory has been tested. It may be that Canada will have a supply of oil equal to our total current requirements, but before such a volume could be established, it would require the expenditure of many millions of dollars."

Can Help Selves

But many people can help themselves to faith through self-examination. Make a habit of spending some time by yourself every day, of relaxing in an easy chair, or on a couch, where the cares and multiple little pinpricks of life can't take your attention, where the telephone can't call you and the radio can't make you tense with the latest news.

Then think about yourself—honestly. Let your intelligence melt away the barriers to faith—the self-deception which says that bad fortune was never your fault, the negative attitude which prevents you from taking any suggestions from other people, and the self-sufficiency which drives you to try to do everything yourself.

Then, when you realize these barriers to faith, and these mental attitudes which get you flustered with life, relax even more—even beyond thinking. Slip into that thoughtless other world of reverie where lies the power to fortify you for the tasks of tomorrow.

Rebirth of faith comes to us only if we find the courage for self-examination. The vision of our own deeper selves is purely personal, but there is a yearning in all of us to think that we are new-born into a world of fresh opportunity. And new life, in a new world, can come to you—in the impulse to have it as old as man, and as persistent.

FOUR KEYS TO FAITH

1. Neither physical nor mental health is possible without faith—faith not only in ourselves, but also in ideals above and beyond us.
2. Through faith, it is never too late to tap the reservoirs of strength forever accumulating in each and every one of us.
3. You can acquire faith if you lay aside the cares of life, each day in a quiet hour of relaxation and self-examination dispel the barriers of self-deception and let your deeper creative forces restore you.
4. In difficult cases faith can be restored through psychological medicine and teaching.
