

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

FEBRUARY 14, 1894.

LEUTENANT-GOVERNOR CARVELL.

The news this morning of the death of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will not have surprised anyone who was at all acquainted with the nature of his illness. For several years he had an affection of the heart which caused him to anticipate a shortened life and a sudden end. Not long after he was appointed to the gubernatorial office he expressed the opinion to his friends that he would not live out his term. The prediction was scouted by those who heard it. But it has proved to be true. His gradually-failing health, broken by repeated severe illnesses, from which he wonderfully recovered, caused him to spend last winter in the Southern States. After his return to Government House in June last he was confined to his room. Since then he has not been able to do more than drive out occasionally. He was many times, apparently at the point of death, his partial recovery upon each occasion being at once proof of the skill of his physician, the care of those in attendance upon him, and the great recuperative powers of his constitution. For several weeks and months past his death has been expected at any moment. Last evening he was not worse than usual. His interest in public affairs and in every event affecting his fellow-citizens, was lively to the last. The evening papers were, as usual, read to him. No sign or evidence of the immediate approach of the dread messenger was given. But about half past two o'clock this morning the message came. There was no pain or distress on his part at the last. His spirit passed quietly away.

The deceased, Lieutenant-Governor Carvell, was undoubtedly a man possessed of unusual mental gifts. In a larger sphere he would, we believe, have exerted a greater influence than in Prince Edward Island. He was born at Miramichi on the 16th of March, 1832, and after travelling in Australia and other parts of the world arrived at Charlottetown in the year 1860. Here he began business, and here, after a few years, he established the enterprising and now widely-known firm of Carvell Brothers. It is unnecessary to say that the firm was generally successful. The deceased displayed great energy and ability, and soon obtained a foremost position among the merchants of the Province. While engaged in business he became deeply interested in the public wants of the country. He was a great promoter of improvements. He gave his personal influence and the influence of THE EXAMINER (of which he became owner shortly after the death of the Hon. Edward Whelan) to the railway agitation, the passage of the Railway Act, and the railway construction. He was, indeed, one of the chief supporters of the late Hon. James C. Pope in the prosecution of the great work of his public life. He was also interested in the removal of abuses. Of a generous and philanthropic disposition, he gave his attention to the improvement of the condition of the poor, and he took an active interest in the Provincial Poorhouse and Hospital for the Insane. It will be remembered that he was foreman of the Grand Jury which made the famous presentation of the abuses of the Old Asylum, resulting in the erection of the ample structure which now adorns Falconwood. In the year 1877 he was elected Mayor of Charlottetown, and at once proceeded to institute a civic reform, the advantages of which are seen to-day. He enlisted the services of Mr. Lewis Carvell, who carefully investigated the city accounts and established a system of book-keeping which rendered impossible the peculation of former years, and enabled the City Clerk for the time being to set forth in his annual report the exact financial position of the corporation. About the same time, although he had parted with the ownership of the paper some years previously, he gave his aid to the establishment of THE DAILY EXAMINER—the first daily newspaper published in Prince Edward Island. In the year 1879 he was called to the Senate, of which he was a prominent member, until, in 1889, he was appointed to the high office of Lieutenant-Governor.

A generous, wholesome, independent honest man, has passed away. He leaves a large number of warm friends to regret his death and to sympathize with his bereaved wife and family.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Has the fact that the editor of that journal has not been able to secure a seat in the Government had anything to do with the inspiration of those wonderful articles on retrenchment which the last two numbers of the Pioneer contain? Peters and Peters may look for more suggestions than they are likely to relish from the father of the mortgage clause and sundry long speeches which have tried even their own author, since he now openly advises the abolition of the parliamentary reporter, who is only "an incentive to long-winded speeches."

Montreal Star.—The return of Bismarck to Berlin, the doubt as to Mr. Gladstone's retention of office, the insubordination of the Khedive of Egypt, the fluster as to the condition of the French fleet, are not signs of peace. It is difficult to believe that Mr. Gladstone would allow any doubt to prevail as to his intentions at the present supercritical time, unless he, as a patriotic Briton, saw national trouble ahead that he felt to be too serious for an eighty-four-year-old Premier to steer into. Then the young German Emperor has not extended his hand to Bismarck out of sunny good-will. His character and career do not permit of such a more probable explanation presents itself when it is remembered that since the quarrel with the Iron Chancellor, the Ministerial party in the Reichstag has gone to pieces, new and disturbing elements have arisen and gained force in German politics, new states in the Confederation have begun to revolt at Prussian supremacy, and, worse than all, Russia has abandoned its historic friendly position and formed a threatening alliance with France. Under Bismarck none of these things were so much as foreshadowed; and his recall may easily mean that the Emperor would like him to repeat the masterful strategy of the seventies. The appearance of Russia in alliance with France forces a closer interest in the situation upon Britain, especially if the report be true that the Czar is concentrating his troops on Herat.

REV. MR. ARCHIBALD'S LECTURE.

The reputation which the Y. M. L. A. of St. James' Church has gained for its course of lectures was fully sustained, and we venture to think, increased by the effort of last evening. Rev. Mr. Archibald, whose very able lecture on "John Bright" is remembered with pleasure by all who heard it, showed himself a master-hand at analysis of the elements of true greatness, as he enlarged upon the topic, "A Man's Man for a' That." Taking the different departments of life, commercial, political, social and professional, he showed clearly in what true manhood consists. Truth, self-control, moral courage and generosity were put forward as the leading elements in true greatness, and many of the practices of the present day, in all departments of life, were held up to deserved scorn and lashed with keen satire. Those who enjoyed the privilege of listening to the eloquent lecture cannot but feel the stimulus of the noble thoughts and the high ideal of true manhood presented to them. Lectures, such as Mr. Archibald's, are needed to-day when too often success seems to alone for everything, and when the slimy and tortuous paths by which, in not a few instances, distinction is sought are forgotten in the insatiable ambition which waits upon high position.

Not the least welcome portion of the lecture was Mr. Archibald's promise in response to a hearty vote of thanks that "the mild and genial" of his last appearance before a Charlottetown audience.

THE FRENCH CUT TO PIECES.

Col. Boulier, Officers and Men Slaughtered in South Africa.

The Secretary of the Colonial Department at Paris, on Thursday afternoon received a telegram from St. Louis, Senegal, stating that Col. Boulier, eleven officers and 250 privates were massacred by the Tuaregs.

A despatch from the Governor of Senegal states that the information which he had received came from Capt. Hill, the French commander at Timbuctoo, and the following facts of the disaster to the French column were given out. The Tuaregs, Captain Phillips says, were armed with knives, which they used with terrible effect. They made their first attack upon the leading portion of the French column. It was so desperate and well sustained that the division was apparently cut to pieces.

The news of the disaster was brought to the second portion of the column, or rear guard, by Captain Naget, a French officer, who, badly wounded in the head, managed to escape from the crowds of natives which assailed the advance guard.

The second division was encamped a few miles to the rear of the advance guard; which seems to have been surprised during the darkness of early morning. As soon as the rear guard commander heard of the Tuaregs' ferocity, he ordered a retreat upon Timbuctoo, leaving the unfortunate advance guard, which was commanded by Col. Boulier, to its fate. The official reports admit that at least nine French officers, including Col. Boulier, two European non-commissioned officers, and sixty-eight native soldiers were killed.

The unofficial reports, originating in rumors emanating from the minor employees of the war department and colonial office, say that the loss is at least three hundred.

The rear-guard, after enduring considerable hardships and being badly pressed by the enemy, succeeded in regaining Timbuctoo on Dec. 11, carrying with them a number of wounded. A number of men are said to be lying dead or dying along the route.

Capt. Phillips sent several scouting parties with instructions to see after any sufferers left on the ground. They succeeded in finding many survivors, but the men were in a pitiable condition, suffering fearfully from the loss of blood. These survivors told terrible tales of the desperate fighting which had taken place after the vanguard had been cut to pieces, and five troops sprang to their arms and encouraged by the example of their officers opened fire on the enemy. But the Tuaregs were already within the French camp, and the French officers were being killed by the efforts of the French officers to rally the native soldiers were entirely useless. The French officers are said to have fought most gallantly.

The scouting parties had pushed onward, but the Tuaregs began closing around them and eventually drove them back into Timbuctoo, following this up by assembling in large masses preparatory to making a combined attack upon the city itself.

Captain Phillips upon hearing this gathered his entire force together and began the work of crowding up the reinforcements. The Tuaregs became aggressive and pushed up close to the French soldiers at work on the entrenchments and killed and wounded a great number. Capt. Phillips to organize two small parties of picked soldiers, to protect the men at work in the trenches. They made several spirited attempts upon the Tuaregs, driving them backward and killing a number of them, but the French troops were harassed and became thoroughly exhausted with work, day and night, and being compelled to be continually on the alert in order to be ready for some new attack, especially at night, when the Tuaregs were active and audacious. Every night they killed or wounded several of the small garrison.

Opposed to an enemy estimated to number from fourteen thousand the French only had three hundred men, and this force was only supported by six small field pieces. The famous rapid firing gun, which has proved so effective when used against the natives of different parts of Africa, seems to have been missing. But admirably commanded and encouraged by Capt. Phillips and the French officers, the native soldiers managed to hold out while awaiting the arrival of the relief column, commanded by Colonel Jeffrey. When Capt. Phillips was informed by native messengers that the Jeffrey column was on its way to relieve him, he sent a messenger to Col. Jeffrey to warn him that they were in danger of being attacked by the Tuaregs.

Capt. Phillips also sent a request to the governor of Senegal that the French troops in the Niger should not leave that district until the Jeffrey column had reached Timbuctoo.

Capt. Phillips also reported that the population of Timbuctoo, estimated to number about 12,000 people, principally negroes and some Moors, was favorable to the attitude towards the French, but was cowed by the Arabs, who make slaves of all prisoners who fall into their hands.

The news of the disaster to the Barrier column has caused a decided sensation in Paris.

CIVIC ELECTION.

The Figures Up to Half-past Two O'clock this Afternoon.

The Civic Election is in progress to-day. As the Councilors were all elected by acclamation on Wednesday last, the contest to-day is for the Mayorality and the Water Commissionership only. The interest in the election is, therefore, not so great as it would be if there was an election for Councilors, and the vote polled is comparatively small. The poll opened at nine o'clock this morning and will close at five this afternoon. Below is the result up to half-past two:—

Table with columns for candidates (Dawson, McLean, Smith, McKinnon) and their respective vote counts for Mayor and Water Commissioner positions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE REASON WHY.

Sir,—I clip the following from the Royal Gazette of this Province:—

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL. Prince Edward Island, 2nd January, 1894. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in Council has been pleased to reappoint Archibald Kennedy, Esquire, a member of the Board of School Trustees of the City of Charlottetown, his term of office having expired on the Third Tuesday in June last.

ARTHUR NEWBURY, Clerk Executive Council.

Would Premier Peters kindly inform the public why this appointment was held over for six months? Surely this is not another evidence of the prostitution of the Education Department of the Government to political exigencies! The despatch when it comes, not only of this, but of hundreds of other acts of the machine, will be a day of revelation for grit andatory alike. Peters & Peters are equal to any emergency.

MOCK PARLIAMENT AT EMERALD.

Sir,—The establishment of the above institution at Emerald is one which has encountered a marked degree of success. When the weather and travelling are favorable, the meetings on Thursday evenings are largely attended. The discussion when it comes, not only of this, but of hundreds of other acts of the machine, will be a day of revelation for grit andatory alike. Peters & Peters are equal to any emergency.

PERSONAL.

The English pilgrims to Jerusalem, under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Lunn, have started on their journey. Among the pilgrims are the Bishop of Worcester, who will preach in Jerusalem. A. Farrar, who will lecture in Rome, and Professor Mahaffy, who will lecture in Athens. They will first visit Milan, Rome and Naples and then sail for Greece and Palestine aboard the steamer yacht Sunitia, which was recently chartered from Baron Rothschild.

Rev. A. C. A. Hall, D.D., was consecrated Anglican Bishop of Vermont on the 2nd inst. at St. Paul's Church, Burlington, Vt., with impressive ceremony. It is said that the demand for tickets by those who wished to attend exceeded by thousands the accommodation.

The consecrating prelate was Bishop Neely, of Maine, and the co-consecrators were Bishops Niles, of New Hampshire, Coleman, of Delaware, Grafton, of Fond du Lac, Lawrence, of Massachusetts, and His Grace Archbishop Lewis, of Ontario. The Bishop of Delaware was the preacher. Previous to leaving England Bishop Hall was presented with an illuminated address and a cheque for £1500, which he had been subscribed in small amounts in various parts of the country where he as "Father" Hall, had conducted missions.

MOCK PARLIAMENT.—There was an interesting session of the Mock Parliament last evening, and a lively discussion took place over a resolution prohibiting personal canvassing at elections, and abolishing special votes, and introducing the secret ballot. Mr. John Macdonald acted as Leader of the Government. The debate will be resumed on Tuesday evening next.

TERRIBLE TALE OF SUFFERING.—Towards the end of last month, a young man of the name of Soire, with two companions, was chopping wood in the forests of the River Pentecost, on the north shore. In crossing the lake they got their feet wet, and, as the cold was intense, they were frozen, subsequently. His two companions succeeded with great difficulty in making their way to the nearest village, but Soire got lost in the bush and was not recovered till the next day, when four men setting out to look for him found him in a state of insensibility at the foot of a tree and brought him in. All three were so badly frozen that the amputation of their feet will be found necessary, but the nearest doctor, who has been sent for resides at Equinox Point, a distance of between 90 and 100 miles, and may not arrive before gangrene sets in, in which case the heroic method of amputation will have to be resorted to as the last chance to save their lives.

GENERAL TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The Temps has a despatch from Constantinople which says Alexander W. Tyrell, U. S. minister, demanded the immediate liberation of two Armenians, American citizens, imprisoned in Iskanderun, Northern Syria. He threatened in the event of a refusal to send an ironclad to Iskanderun. Serious riots occurred in the Angora district and 2000 cavalry started from Constantinople for Ypsal. The population of Amassa on Yeshit Irmak broke into the jail recently and freed several Armenian prisoners. In Sivas and Caesarea they also distributed placards posted in both cities. The authorities arrested many persons, including 17 Mussulmans who plotted to massacre Christians.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 9.—As a result of a conference between Superintendent Van Etten and Division Master Bosc of the New York Central Railroad, this week a large corps of employees have been laid off temporarily here. This includes mechanics, operators, freight-handlers, switchmen and yard employees. Running expenses have thereby been cut down $1,900 a month at this point. Reductions are being made all along the line.

NANTUCKET, Tenn., Feb. 9.—The Cumberland river in Boonville has already reached the danger line. During the past 24 hours nearly three inches of water fell. Lowlands around the city are flooded and hundreds of people are fleeing their effects to higher grounds. The water invades the country post houses and a number of small post patients were carried to-day to New Orleans. The danger line is forty feet. The Weather Bureau officials predict that the water will soon reach 45 feet.

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., Feb. 9.—On Wednesday night, three men entered the house of James Clayton, who does not believe in banks. After gagging the family, they fired pistols close to Clayton's head, choked him and burned him with hot stones. He held his place until they were hurried to a crisis. This conquered Clayton, who told where his money was. The robbers got $1,800 and escaped on three of Clayton's horses. Clayton will probably die.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—U. S. Engineer Wm. S. Penck, who conducted the survey for the International Railroad through Mexico and the South American States, has finished his report after eight months of hard labor. The estimated cost of the railroad and bridges is $22,000,000. This of course does not include the road. It will require 10 years to complete the road.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—The preliminary investigation into the charge of conspiracy to murder Walter Evans, a Sharon, Cork County hotel keeper, which has been going on here the last two or three days was concluded this evening. Mrs. Lottie Evans, the victim's wife, a handsome woman of 35 years of age, and George O'Keefe, of Sharon, were all committed for trial. Evidence of a most damaging character against Mr. Evans and the other prisoner was brought out, showing that they had repeatedly tried to poison Evans by mixing strychnine with his food. Evans had been very ill for some time but eventually recovered.
