Four Occupants Sent To Hospital

An accident on the west side of the Morell Bridge late Sunday night sent Tilly Eldershaw, 17, of Morell and three other occupants of the vehicle in which she was driving to the Charlottetown Hospital. Miss Eldershaw received injuries to both her legs and is reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Admitted to the hospital for observation were Vincent McGrath, 13, James Kelly, 18, both of Morell and Barry Yates, 18, of Cardigan Road.

The accident occurred at about 9.15 when the 1954 Ford owned by Mr. Yates apparently went out of control as it was proceeding west into Morell, struck two or three hydro poles and rolled. The car was demolished. The source detachment of the RCMP investigated the accident.

Atlantic Sunday To Be Observed

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday, commemorating those who served and gave their lives in the war at sea, will be observed this year on Sunday, May 1.

Across Canada, serving and former members of the navy and merchant marine and sea cadets will attend Battle of the Atlantic church services and ceremonies. In ships of the Royal Canadian Navy, in harbour and at sea, special services will be held.

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday is named for the Second World War struggle to maintain the ocean lifeline between North America and Europe. It was to this battle that Canada's main naval effort was directed, and it was here that thousands of Canadians, from all parts of the country and all walks of life, contributed in sizeable measure to the ultimate victory.

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday will mark also the beginning of the Navy League Week, held usually under the sponsorship of the Navy League of Canada to emphasize the importance of maritime affairs, encourage interest and recruiting in sea cadet organizations and seek support for the sea cadet movement.

ment in its truest sense, for what is entertainment but an escape from the reality of the present. It is indeed a unique experience and a completely satisfying one that awaits the audience at Confederation Centre Tuesday night.

Yass Hakoshima, internationally known Japanese pantomimist, will appear at the Confederation Centre in a special engagement to mark World Theatre observances tonight.

Pantomime is the silent art, the distillation of the dramatic to its purest visual sense requiring the complete mastery of time, space and body control.

The Pantomimist ordinarily works alone, eliminating time and space and the reality of the moment to transport the viewer into the world of the imagination.

For the artist it requires the complete mastery of all the techniques and a distillation into the most perfect simplicity possible.

For the audience, it is a rare experience into one of the most ancient and honorable art forms.

It is a particularly apt way of expressing the world wide appeal of the theatre in all its many forms, for in Hakoshima is embodied the stylized tradition of the East in perfect fusion with the mime tradition of the Western World.

The mime must be a magician opening the door of the imagination to the world of the unknown and as one reviewer put it "...during these magical moments Hakoshima clearly brings forth a pure but human art...he simplifies the difficult, starkly impressing upon one without using theatrical gimmicks."

Indeed starkness is the essence of the art. In Hakoshima's case this means a dark need stage, stripped of sets and decoration, a bright spotlight from above and the artist in classic white make-up. A face of oriental cast, but yet removed from any specific time and place.

The music as well is restrained, and with just one proper sense of the oriental to heighten the atmosphere of the unknown, and then the artist is ready to work his magic.

It is not only art that Hakoshima presents, it is entertainment.

Summer Festival Gets Comment

The Confederation Centre, Charlottetown, and the Charlottetown Summer Festival have been the subject of an important story and favorable comment in one of the leading theatrical magazines in the country for the second time in recent months. The magazine is Opera Canada, a journal with wide national and international distribution prestige.

Last month the magazine Performing Arts devoted a three-page picture and words spread to the Festival production of Anne of Green Gables. In the spring issue of "Opera Canada" the Summer Festival again comes under favorable view.

In a section devoted to the "Annual Coast to Coast Review" of important happenings in the world of opera and musical comedy, Anne of Green Gables received prominent mention along with plans for the production scheduled for the 1966 edition.

The articles notes that Jack Duffy will star in "The Adventures of Private Turvey" and says that "...this fact in itself would seem to guarantee the show's success."

The magazine goes on to lavish praise of the Festival and its contribution to Canadian theatre. In the process it also pays tribute to the people of the Island and their forward-looking spirit.

Says Opera Canada: "For the third consecutive season the Charlottetown Festival will present new, specially commissioned Canadian works, and again Director Mavor Moore plans to draw his performers from the abundance of native-born Canadian talent. A highlight of the 1966 Festival will be the production of a new musical comedy by Donald Harron and Norman Campbell. Their last year's hit 'Anne of Green Gables', also will be revived."

"The Charlottetown Festival, as though in prelude to Canada's Centennial, already has proven the value of Canadian talent both creative and performing, and the fact that Canadian audiences go to the theatre, not for the lure of a foreign-sounding name, but for the true value of a presentation. Charlottetown has indicated that the time is now ripe to begin the build-up of exchange programs along different sections of the country, the promotion of new works, and recognition of the stature of Canadian artists, writers, composers and directors. Many people predict for example that 'Anne of Green Gables' will become a standard work in Canadian theatres."

"Charlottetown is proud of the fact that in 100 years she has lost none of her pioneer and forward-looking spirit that in 1864, just as in 1864, when the Founding Fathers met, it is Charlottetown that has taken the lead in expressing faith and belief in Canada and Canadians."

Rebellion-Torn Congo Returning To Normal

By GERALD RATZIN UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)

The Congo, torn by rebellion and tribal differences since its independence in 1960, is gradually moving towards the stage of economic rehabilitation, the head of the United Nations technical assistance program to that country said here.

After 5 1/2 years, the UN program, the largest of its kind in any single nation, is reducing the scope of its activities and aiming to hand over greater responsibility to Congolese personnel, the official, Bibiano Osorio-Tafall, told a press conference.

The UN stepped into the vacuum created by the mass departure of Belgian technicians at the time of independence to maintain the Congo's essential services. Already it has cut back the number of its experts to 700 from a peak of 2,500 in 1964.

As an example of the way things are going, Osorio-Tafall said Congolese had replaced UN officials as judges and magistrates by the end of 1964.

REBELLION CRIPPLED Over the over-all situation, he said: "Political stability and national security are improving and the rebellion as an organized movement has been crippled."

"If the promises made by the present administration are kept, the Congo may be able to embark on a period of economic rehabilitation."

He confessed uncertainty of the future if the army commander, Gen. Joseph Mobutu, falls as a political leader.

Osorio-Tafall said the Congo, a country four times the size of France and with a population of more than 14,000,000, still lacks "a true national identity and the army is the 'one coherent force.'"

A promising factor was the "resilient" nature of the Congolese economy. Exports were at about the same level as before independence and the most important mining areas in Kasai, Kivu and Katanga had not been "over-affected" by the rebellion.

NEED TWO MORE YEARS As for the UN technical assistance program, "maybe in two years we will have a conventional program, as in other African countries, such as Senegal and Ghana."

"But at the moment, if we withdrew from civil aviation operations, for example, the main airports in the Congo would not function."

The UN effort was concentrated in three main areas:

1. Supplying to Congolese ministries and government departments principal advisers who took part in the formulation of policy.

2. Supplying experts at a lower level in such fields as public health, education, civil aviation and meteorology.

3. Training Congolese personnel at an accelerated pace to enable them to take over from the UN experts.

Variety Show Held Sunday

On Sunday evening a group of Charlottetown entertainers presented a variety show for the residents of Sacred Heart Home. Guests of honor were the men and women in the Home celebrating birthdays in March.

Featured soloists were George MacDonald, Helen Bradley and Jacqueline Doyle who were accompanied by Jackie Doyle. The accordion solo of Jacqueline Doyle and step dancing by Alena Cahill, Mary Beth Doyle, M. Rush and Mrs. F. Kelly with the accompaniment of F. Doyle on the violin and Mrs. Cahill at the piano won applause.

Making sure the variety of this show left nobody's tastes unsatisfied, MC Wilfred Smith called on J. J. MacDougall (one of the residents) to sing some of Harry Lauder's favorites and then topped off the program with a group-singing of Alouette.

A door-prize for the performers went to Pat King—a tiger for his trumpet. Reverend Dr. Bernard Gillis thanked the performers on behalf of the residents and assured them of a welcome any time they came back.

Mrs. E. C. Taylor Dies Suddenly

The wife of Canadian National Railways Prince Edward Island superintendent, Mrs. E. C. Taylor, died on the ice lanes of the Charlottetown Curling Club yesterday morning.

Mrs. Taylor, well known in golf and curling circles here, had just stepped on the ice to begin a mixed curling game in the Confederation Bospital, when she suffered the fatal seizure.

Her husband, playing on the same rink which was skipped by Frank 'Duck' Acorn, had just delivered his first stone when his wife fell to the ice.

Mrs. Taylor was prominent in women's activities of both Charlottetown Curling Club and Belvedere Golf and Winter Club. She was a member of the First Baptist Church, Charlottetown.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are a son James, Dartmouth, N. S., and a daughter, Wanda Vancouver, B. C.
