Pomology.

It is pleasing fact that a taste for fruit growing is increasing on Prince Edward Island. The kinds of fruit best adapted to our climate and soil are becoming better known. When the Society of Fruit Growers is established, as we believe it will be, discussion and the relation of experiences will still further spread the desire to grow fruit, and that, too, in the most intelligent manner. Growers will discover what kinds to propagate, and what sorts to discard; what kinds our soil and climate will bring best to perfection, and what are not suitable or profitable to cultivate. The display of fruits at our Exhibition showed that we can produce most excellent varieties, and with profit. This is the case particularly in the apple exhibit. As five specimens of autumn varieties of apples are shown as can be found almost anywhere. In the United States they produce summer, fall and winter apples. We notice that Mr. Benjamin Wright grows one of the best American varieties of summer apples, the Red Williams, quite a red apple, as its name indicates, and shaped like the Porter apple and Bishop Pippin. The flavor is spicy and pleasant, and the flesh partakes somewhat of a reddish color. Here, in our climate, it becomes an early fall apple, and judging from the quantity which Mr. Wright disposes of every fall, we think it must be prolific.

Our great apple raising forte is the production of autumn varieties. Judging from the samples at the exhibitions, the raising of winter varieties will never prove a marked success, as our season is too short to develop and mature them sufficiently. But for fall varieties, our climate and soil seems particularly adapted, and we believe that the time is not far distant when very large quantities of many choice sorts will be produced here and sold by the barrel instead of being peddled out by the dozen and half peck as is now the case. The varieties we speak of may be divided into early and late fall apples. Some of the latter may be made to keep by proper storage through the winter. We would not discourage the raising of the Russett and Ribston Pippin, but we believe they cannot be grown profitably. Of the autumn kinds, the Emperor Alexander, seems to flourish here particularly; if we may judge from the many samples at exhibitions. The show of New Brunswickers is increasing, and while only a few as yet have exhibited Gravensteins, yet the samples have been very fine. The Gravenstein, here, becomes a late fall or early winter apple. There are also several varieties of seedling or native apples, of excellent flavor, for eating and cooking purposes. A taste for this home fruit has been cultivated, and we think some steps should be taken to propagate the best varieties, so far as appearance, flavor and abundance are concerned. Those of our readers interested in pomology, will find the columns of THE EXAMINER open to them to discuss the question of fruit growing on our Island, and state facts and experience.

A Montreal exchange remarks that "It speaks poorly for the working of the Democratic principle in the United States that no less than six Presidents went into office on a minority of the popular vote. These were Adams, Federalist; Polk, Democrat; Taylor, Whig; Buchanan, Democrat; Lincoln, Republican; and Garfield, Republican. The highest percentage of popular vote received by any President was 55.97 for Jackson, carried to success by the Democrats in 1828. The lowest popular vote by which the presidency was secured was that by which Lincoln defeated his three opponents in 1860. The people's vote in his case was only 39.91, while that of Hayes, the next lowest, was 47.95. Hayes, however, was the only president (except J. Q. Adams who was chosen by the House of Representatives) who did not have a majority over his principal competitor. Tilden, on the other hand, who was defeated, had a popular majority over his elected rival and over all the votes cast. Hayes actually ruled, therefore, over an unrepresented majority of the nation."

Holstein Cattle.

The first importation of Holstein Cattle made to the Province reached this city on Wednesday night. It consisted of three yearlings—a bull and two heifers—specially selected by a London agent for Benjamin Heartz, Esq. They were examined yesterday and to-day by the leading stock raisers of Charlottetown, Royalty, who one and all pronounced them to be the finest specimens of live stock they have seen here. The Holstein will be a valuable addition to the Island stock. They are first-class milkers, and not much inferior to the Durhams as breeders. Those imported by Mr. Heartz seem well adapted to the climate, as they do not appear to be affected by the long fall voyage. The Halifax Herald says:—

"The steamer Boston City, which arrived on Sunday from London, G. B., brought, besides other cargo, three thoroughbred Holstein cattle—a bull and two yearlings. They are owned by Mr. Benjamin Heartz, of Charlottetown, and will be the first Holsteins ever imported into P. E. Island. They are fine-looking animals and are worth about $1,500. The stock comes from a pedigree of great prize-winners, the sire and grandsire of the bull having carried off a large number of prizes. The Boston City has also on board forty head of the same breed of cattle for Boston."

Mr. Heartz is to be congratulated on his enterprise, and also on his endeavors to improve the stock of this Province.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Dairymen's Association.

SIR,—Through the kindness of Senators Carvell and Haythorne, I have received a number of copies of the report of the committee on immigration and colonization, having direct bearing on dairying, which have been distributed with good effect among a number of our farmers. This week I have received another lot, about fifty, from Mr. L. H. Davies. Anyone wishing to get a copy will please call at my store, and while there, I hope they will sign the roll of the P. E. Island Dairymen's Association. We are doing a good work and want help.

R. K. BRACE, Sec'y P. E. I. Dairymen's Association.

The steamer Coban, Capt. R. Fraser, of the Black Diamond Line, arrived from Montreal on Wednesday evening en route to St. John's, Newfoundland, with merchandise, and sailed early this morning. She took a quantity of freight from this port, consisting in part of 1,207 bushels of barley shipped by H. Longworth and Wheatley & Son, 400 bushels of oats shipped by Davison & Co., and Patrick Traitor, 46 barrels of beef and pork shipped by Blake & Rattenbury, 46 1/2 lbs of fresh beef shipped by Messrs. Wheatley, Boyle and Hunt, 110 sheep shipped by James A. Laaman, of Truro, and Barrett Henderson, North Wiltshire. 5 head of cattle shipped by Barrett Henderson, 2 cows and 1 calf shipped by Blake Bros., and sundry other produce.

The steamer Bonavista, Capt. Anderson, of the Black Diamond Line, called at this port on Thursday morning, en route for Montreal, from St. John's, Nfld. She could not proceed on account of the strong gale which prevailed, and laid at anchor in "Three Tides" until this morning, when she proceeded. Miss Duff, of Toronto, was a passenger by her to Montreal.

BURNED TO DEATH.—An old lady named McDonald, living alone on Souris Line Road, was burned to death last night. No particulars have been received, but it appears the house accidentally took fire when she was asleep, and she, through infirmity, was unable to escape.

An Islander Murdered.

John Cameron, aged 28, a native of Cra-paud, P. E. I., was murdered during a melee near a house of ill-fame in Winnipeg on Sunday morning, October 26th. It appears that on the night previous Cameron with three others was on a drunk, and visited a shanty near Ogilvie's flour mills, occupied by an American named Welsh, and a woman of loose reputation who passed for his wife. Welsh was absent at the time, but a sixteen year old girl named McPherson was also in the shanty. Welsh arrived there after midnight, drunk. There had been some quarrelling between the women and men previous to this, and after the arrival of Welsh some fighting took place. According to the evidence of one Peter Cowie, at the coroner's inquest, Welsh accused the party of abusing his woman, and said he could whip any three men in the house. Cameron replied that he himself was as good as any man in Manitoba, and Mat Ward said he was a foot shorter than either of them, but could whip either of them. Welsh then rushed into a room, as they supposed, to get a revolver and

THEY ALL RUSHED OUT OF THE HOUSE, but Cameron. They went a short distance up the sidewalk, when one of them suggested going back to get Cameron. Andrews and Ward went back and the others sat down on the sidewalk. They sat there a short time and he got up and walked towards the house. Welsh came out and order-d him away and gave similar instructions to Ward. They retorted that they were minding their own business and were not interfering with him, but waiting for some friends who were inside. He said they had insulted the woman in the house, but if they would be civil they could go back. They told him they would go back, get the boys and go home. They went back, remained half an hour or so and then started for home. They got outside of the house, leaving only the women inside. The others tried to get Cameron and Ward to go home. They would not go and Ward said he would go home and leave them, and did so. He spoke to Cameron and Ward and seeing that they did not intend to go home, followed Ward. He had got about half way between the house and the railway track and then started back and when he got back Cameron had hold of Welsh and Welsh and Ward had hold of one another. Ward got away from Walsh, whom

CAMERON THREW ON THE GROUND and struck a couple of times. Welsh then got up, and Cameron told him that he must not strike his chum. Welsh replied that he could take any one of them alone. After talking a few minutes Ward stepped up to Welsh, who hit him in the face. Cameron then made for Welsh and fell down, and Welsh ran for the door, which was locked. He called to the woman to let him in. She unlocked the door, and all started away but Ward, and the witness caught hold of him and drew him along. They all got pretty close together, and after getting about twenty-five or thirty yards, a shot was fired from behind. Cameron shouted out that he was shot, and ran a short distance and fell. They picked him up, and he was apparently dead. He heard the revolver click before the shot was fired, but did not see the shot fired. He believed Welsh fired into the crowd without taking aim. Ward, Cameron, and Andrews were drunk, and the witness and Alward were sober. Welsh was drunk when he came home. The shooting took place about half past three o'clock. There were no threats of shooting made during the night."

AFTER THE MURDER Welsh returned to the shanty, threw the revolver on the bed and lay on the floor in a drunken sleep. He was awakened two hours later by the bluecoat chief of police, Murray, and jailed. The girl McPherson testified that Mrs. Welsh loaded the revolver and gave it to Welsh. He went out of the shanty, and immediately afterward she heard a shot fired. The last previous murder committed in Winnipeg was two years ago, when an Elmstide man named McDonald was murdered by an American rough in a liquor shanty kept by a Cape Bretoner named Munroe. Welsh has been committed for trial for wilful murder, and the woman for aiding him by loading the weapon.
