

ORIENTATION: 'Goon Squad' Gets Underway

by:Rick Teersteeg

At this point in time, this schedule has been "almost" officially finalized. Therefore, unless something unforeseen occurs, Orientation '79 will follow this program of events.

There is one major change in format that should be exposed. The previous article on orientation requested that all upperclasspeople become involved in the goings on. This concept remains intact but it has been somewhat modified. Now, instead of every person on campus having the authority to supervise initiation events and sign 'Task Completed' cards, there will be formed a "Goon Squad". It will be the responsibility of the officially appointed members of this squad to supervise all initiation events. The squad will have fifteen to twenty members although "Honorary Goons" may be required for certain events. The reasons for this development stem from the necessity for control over the program. What with everybody signing cards, verifying signatures would become extremely time consuming. However, with a limited number of people delegated to sign cards, authenticity of signatures will be readily verifiable. Upperclass participation is still vital as we need you to spot any Freshmen who are not behaving according to the requirements of a given day. If you do spot some poor creature being neglectful of his or her duty, simply report him or her to a Goon or Committee member and leave the rest to us. Those students accepting positions on the Goon Squad will be issued special I.D.'s and badges which must be shown to the criminal Freshman before a card is signed.

Another major aspect of Orientation '79 is the Booby and Boobette Awards. These awards will be presented at some point during the Freshman Banquet to the two students (male and female) who made the most boo-boos during the week. Upperclass-people are crucial to the success of this aspect of the program.

For further information, stay tuned for the Summer SUN which will contain more details regarding the before-mentioned and other events.
