THE BIBLE AND HUMAN WELFARE

The Bible holds the key to human welfare; it offers the solution to human problems. It not only teaches us what to believe and to do but it also imparts the powers to believe and to do. It brings men down to the same level; it lifts them; it raises them up. The New Testament removes the partitions between races and colours and nations and states of life. What would our situation be if the Bible and all that is derived from it did not exist in the world? We cannot realize the aridity of such a desert and the darkness of such a night. July 10 & 11 Dates of W. I. Convention

The Provincial Executive of the Women's Institutes met recently to discuss plans for the annual convention and to transact routine business matters.

Mrs. Herring gave a summary of the F. W. I. C. Executive meeting, which was held in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa from April 24 to 27. Business pertaining to Agriculture, Citizenship, Home Economics, and Cultural activities was dealt with. A new F. W. I. C. brochure was prepared to be used in Citizenship work, particularly for new Canadians. Plans for the A. C. W. W. Conference in Copenhagen were finalized, and policy agreed on. Tentative plans for the next biennial convention were made, and a resolution committee was appointed for same. Several resolutions were presented and sent to the proper authorities; among these being requests for fortified flour and vitaminized apple juice.

Plans for Annual Convention were discussed. Several names of guest speakers were submitted. Tentative dates chosen were July 10 and 11 at which time it is hoped to have our National President, Mrs. E. E. Morton of Vegreville, Alberta, present with us.

Details concerning Provincial Life Memberships were cleared up for the satisfaction of all who had requested information.

Literature with regard to sanitary equipment for rural schools, was distributed and a brief talk on same was given by a visiting gentleman.

IN MEMORIAM

In cherished memory of David McDowell, aged 6 years, who was killed one year ago today. Near shady wall a rose once grew, Budded and blossomed in God's free light, Watered and fed by morning dew, Shedding its sweetness day and night,

As it grew and blossomed fair and tall, Slowly rising to loftier height, It came to a crevice in the wall Through which there shone a beam of light, Onward it crept with added strength With never a thought of fear or pride, It followed the light through the crevice's length And unfolded itself on the other side.

The light, the dew, the broadening view Were found the same as they were before, And it lost itself in beauties new, Breathing its fragrance more and more.

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve And make our courage faint and fair? Nay! Let us faith and hope receive— The rose still grows beyond the wall, Scattering its fragrance far and wide Just as it did in days of yore, Just as it did on the other side, Just as it will forevermore.

Literature And Life By BOOKMAN WHEELS

all works for the best. The wheels of the gods may grind slowly, but they do grind. Change is a law of life and progress; the world does move; the setting of truth changes, theories become out-of-date, and, inasmuch as new facts are to be taken into the reckoning, new statements are necessary. God may well be in all this change. The Bible does not envy the man who has no changes. Verily, God is in the wheels that shape your lot and mine. The wheels of Change or Chance, as they are sometimes called, the mere whirling of destiny as though the world were some blind irresponsible machine, grinding on in the dark, and heedless as to how many lives were broken in its teeth. We are not the victims of blind mechanism of law. Law and mechanism there are but they are not blind nor soulless. With Mattie Babcock we sing — "This is my Father's world".
