

MR. AND MRS. DAVID SMITH
Shirley Parker Becomes Bride Of David Smith

Spring Park United Church was the scene of a colorful summer wedding recently when Shirley Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Parker of North Carleton, became the bride of David Kenneth Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.P. Smith of Pownal, P.E.I.

Rev. Clayton C. Lewis officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church was attractively decorated with baskets of pink peonies and other summer flowers.

The soloist, Dianne Rodd of Milton was accompanied by organists Mrs. J. D. Herdman, as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" prior to the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, entering the church to the strains of the traditional wedding march on her father's arm, was in a floor length gown of sateen fashioned with a scalloped neckline trimmed with chantilly tulle lace and sleeves were three quarter length. The semi-controlled skirt was highlighted at the back with a detachable cathedral train edged with matching lace. Her headpiece was one large rose holding a three tiered elbow length veil of tulle illusion with scalloped edges. The bride's jewelry was a single strand of cultured pearls and pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of pink roses, stephanotis and white carnations. The maid of honor, Shelly Huestis of Charlottetown was in a sheath style dress of pink, turquoise and white silk print with an overskirt of pink organza. Her headpiece was of turquoise tinted carnations holding a double pink veil, and she carried a nosegay of carnations to match.

Barbara Parker of North Carleton, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Marilyn Nelson, sister of the groom were the bridesmaids.

Their dresses were similar to that of the maid of honor. Their headpieces were of pink tinted carnations holding double pink veils and they carried matching nosegays of carnations.

Donald Smith, brother of the groom, was best man. Ian Smith, brother of the groom, and John Parker, brother of the bride, acted as the ring bearers. The guests at the reception were seated at round tables in the dining room of the hotel. The bride's mother received wearing a sheath jacket dress of blue lace over silk with elbow length sleeves. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mary Nelson, sister of the groom, was seated at the head of the table with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The guest book was circulated by Dorothy Ann Parker of North Wilshire, cousin of the bride.

Rev. Lewis asked the blessing before the meal. The toast to the bride was proposed by Judson Clow, Jr., brother-in-law of the groom, and responded to by the groom. Congratulatory telegrams were read by the best man, Donald Smith.

For a honeymoon to Ontario and through the New England States, the bride chose a sheath dress with matching three quarter duster of deep pink flowered organza over pink silk and white accessories. Her corsage was of white sweetbriar roses.

The newlyweds will reside at 1 Belvedere Trailer Park, Charlottetown. The groom is employed by the Department of Agriculture and the bride is on the nursing staff of the P.E.I. Hospital.

Out of province guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Francis, Sharon and Robin Windsor, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Judson Clow, Jr., Stoneham, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Smith, Ottawa, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Halifax, Nova Scotia. (Photo by R. B. Hamblly)

Gauthier-Richards Vows Solemnized At N. Rustico

Summer flowers decorated the altar in Stella Maris Church, North Rustico on July 31, when Teresa, Linda, North-Rustico, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Revel Gauthier was united in Holy Matrimony to Charles Irving Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richards of Pictou, N.S.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Francis Corcoran. The women's choir accompanied by Bernadette Gaudin as organist sang "Pans Angelicus", "Heart of Jesus" and "On This Day".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white gown of rayon peau de soie with sweetheart neckline. A flowered headpiece held her shoulder-length veil, and she wore pearls with matching earrings. She carried a white prayer book with red roses.

The matron-of-honour was Carolyn Gauthier and the bridesmaid, Margaret Gauthier, sisters of the bride. They wore short gowns of yellow and pink lace with matching hats with short veils. They carried bouquets of yellow and white and pink and white carnations.

The best man was Leonard Richards, Pictou, brother of the groom. Ushers were Wayne Gauthier, North Rustico and Alvin Richards, Kinkora.

For the reception held at the Legion Home, North Rustico, the bride's mother received wearing a dress of light blue lace with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a yellow flowered dress with white accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Arthur E. Pineau, godfather of the bride.

For a honeymoon to the Cabot Trail, the bride chose a pink suit with white accessories. The newlyweds will reside in Toronto, Ont. at 354 Annette St.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Edw. and Mr. Gallant and granddaughter Cathy have returned to their home in Fredericton after visiting with friends and relatives in North Bay, Ont.

While there they attended the wedding of LeRoy Gallant and Rosetta Gallant, which was solemnized in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church.

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling MacLeod, Dundas Centre, recently when friends and relatives gathered to honor the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin MacDonald, Montague and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ross, Lower Montague have returned from a short vacation through N.S. which included a trip over the Cabot trail and a visit with relatives in Port-Hillier.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Banks recently spent a weekend with her mother in Rusticville. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hackett and Cindy of Halifax, N.S.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald of Providence, R.I. are visiting friends and relatives in St. Louis and vicinity.

ELLEN'S DIARY

There Is Fragrance Now Of Clean Washed Earth

And then today, a miracle washed earth, of air cleansed. Islanders beheld. From a sky on which clouds had massed quietly this afternoon, a well-come rain fell! We came with James to the front verandah to watch its silver fall between us and the house on the hill, to see the rain run in rivulets from an eave's spout, and hear again its beat on roof, and in leaves.

"It's good!" James smiled, doubtless wondering for a moment as we were after all the sun-parched days we had, if this could be real or was it only a dream?

"You'll get wet—better take along your jacket," we called after Gage (grandson) who, owing to a sudden urge to go fishing, was facing down the shortcut to the stream below.

"I shan't mind that," he smiled. "Isn't that what we've been hoping for? It feels good! We'll let it rain."

"It's a long time since we had such a down-pour!" James offered presently.

And watching, it beat, with some poetess, I almost thought that I could hear the sound of tiny thankful roots below the ground. The eager drinking up of root and stem— As the warm moisture drifted down to them. The drenched sweet flowers folded dim and tight. Giving their faint fragrance to the night.

There is sweet fragrance now of "drenched flowers," of clean

MARY HAWORTH

Courtship And Marriage Demand Close Rapport

Dear Mary Haworth: I've been intending for some time to write, applauding your advice to the widow whose widower friend was making improper aggressive suggestions to her.

You gave her the very good counsel that she can't expect marriage from a man who is campaigning for an affair, and that she had better terminate the association.

Our experience of nearly 12 years, as a non-profit friend-finders' institute in Hollywood—making introductions between reputable men and women seeking marriage partners—corroborates the historical fact (sometimes forgotten by women, due to emotional stress or wishful thinking) that a man who intends to marry a woman will treat her with respect. It is that simple. You pleased us exceptionally, too, in your reply to the English man, going into the psychology that motivates the considerate, helpful attitudes of most American men to their wives, which he derides as weakness.

It seems to us that too many advice-givers in various categories overlook what you brought out so well, namely, the natural interdependency of marriage, and the comforting thought that it is appropriate for the man to put aside his outer-world armor of (supposed) invulnerability and be co-equal with his wife, at the domestic core of their life together.

We are continually so brain-washed with warning against dependency that this truth about the nature of marriage is often overlooked. Thank you again for your excellent column. A.B.

Dear A.B.: To really widen and deepen your perspective on the revolutionary and evolutionary changes that are coming about, subtly and inexorably, in man-woman relationships in the Western world, in this century, you might read Florida Maxwell's remarkable book: "Women and Sometimes Men" (Knopf, 1957).

Pearl Buck, Anne Morrow Lindbergh and Sarah Gibson Blanding (president of Vassar), among others, hailed this book as "getting to the core of the existing situation between men and women... taking the conflict out of the relationship between the sexes... (and) pushing forward the dim frontier of our understanding of ourselves and each other."

American-born, married to a Scotsman, taking root in England eventually, Mrs. Scott Maxwell became a practising analytical-psychologist in her fifties, after intensive study in London and Zurich. She retired from active practice at 70, and turned to authorship and BBC lecturing.

The focus of her book is on "the balance between male and female," which she believes could be better than it is.

Writing with warmth, worldly wisdom and deep psychological understanding, she points the way to a new rapport between men and women: to a new ease in giving the love that each longs to receive. M.H.
