Amalgamation Plebiscite

By their votes yesterday the residents of Spring Park and Central Park areas endorsed the plan for amalgamation with the City of Charlottetown.

For Civilized Traffic

Christmas is on its way, and so is the prospect of increased accidents on our streets and highways.

Some Progress

While the Federal-Provincial conference on fiscal matters has adjourned without having arrived at definite agreements in respect of tax sharing arrangements, at least two proposals, one of them of special interest and value to the Maritimes, were brought forward by Federal officials.

The extra tax for the capital coverage will, of course, be on a co-operative basis. The Federal share, however, will be very helpful and will relieve Provincial treasuries of a fair size burden.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Governmental departments which try to be helpful get all sorts of intriguing requests. For example, the other day the wild life conservation office in Lansing, Mich., received this note from a young man:

My wife told me she could cook, but I find she can't. I shot a bird yesterday and she cooked it with the feathers on and the insides still in it. Boy, was that a mess!

No More Headhunters

When U.N. delegates feel the need of a little diversion from their daily round of toil and trouble one of them as likely to bring up a subject which has no direct bearing on current tensions.

In one way, this may indicate considerable social progress. In another way, it may not. Not that headhunters ever contributed much, or anything, to the sum total of civilization.

Now that the fraternity has been integrated into the body politic, goodness knows what they will find to do for recreation of their liking.

OUR YESTERDAYS

Twenty-five years ago (Nov. 28, 1932) the work consisted of two projects, the first, experiments in oyster farming at the Malpeque Bay area.

THE GREAT PRAYER

I have a thought that there is some great prayer. First, I want to make a note of it. I have a thought that there is some great prayer.

SMILE RETURNS

Minutes later the menace can be softened by a big amiable grin. When Krushchev grins, his broad Russian face wrinkles with mirth.

OTTAWA REPORT

Employment Proposal
By Patrick Nicholson
Special Correspondent For The Guardian

Ottawa. The bold concept of a "paid Canada work program" to combat seasonal unemployment this winter has been suggested in the House of Commons by Frank Christian, the union's social credit member from B.C.'s Okanagan Boundary.

What can Mother Nature be thinking of? With the trend toward a m a l l e r motors and more crowded classrooms and keeps on turning out bigger children—Winipeg Tribune

Children, remember, can be very attractive. They are so you must be certain that the frames of your youngster's glasses are as attractive as the child's own features.

Don't worry about a family life doctor writing in a British medical association booklet asserts, and solved, is a new breed support a marriage. It can be very satisfying. The only change most of us get to do any dramatic play acting. A fine, constructive thing to see North America apparently come to realize that what is really important to our future is brain power and its development.—Calgary Herald

Walter Dinsdale, member for Brandon and the new parliamentary assistant for the department of veterans affairs, is a member of the Salvation Army, as was first reported in this paper.
