Growth of the Anglican Church.

About 45 years ago there began a decided revival in the English Church. It pleased the Holy Ghost to pour forth His grace on the church in a wonderful way inspiring it with new life and energy. Like all other lasting reformations its course has been from below upwards. Like all other great reformations it has gone on silently and steadily—Year after year the movement has continued in an accelerated ratio. And a vast change for the better has been wrought in the English church.

Clergy and laity alike have begun to realize what has always been true, that the English Church is not a mere state establishment set up by men and by men to be thrown down, but that her origin and life are Divine.

Many now are the signs of life and zeal and energy and earnestness in the English Church.

The Spiritual character of a Bishop's Office is now no longer ignored, and in England the number of Bishops has been increased and will very shortly be still further augmented.

America, which had vainly petitioned for one Bishop, has now

59 Dioceses and Missionary Bishoprics, 63 Bishops, 314,000 Communicants, and

An income of about £1,360,000. (The American Church receives no State aid.)

India, where the preaching of the Gospel had been forbidden under the severest penalties, has now six Bishops and a large number of native clergy. In the English colonies there are now altogether sixty-two Bishops, whereas even forty years ago there was only two or three. The number of clergy in England has been very largely increased, and parishes formerly in charge of one or two are now worked by ten or a dozen clergy with numerous lay-helpers. The Bishops and Priests of the English Church now act with a greater sense of the responsibilities of their office. Whereas a few years ago hardly a Church except the Cathedrals, had daily service, and celebrations of the Holy Communion were few and far between, now in London alone there are nearly 250 churches with daily service.

There are service on Saints' day in 415.

A weekly celebration of the Holy Communion in 300.

A daily celebration in 42.

In the disestablished Church of Scotland to take as an example one diocese—the Diocese of Brechin—will show how much has been done in less than 30 years.

In 1847 (when Bishop Forbes was consecrated) there were 11 charges and 12 clergy; 1,710 communicants and 62 celebrations during the year. At the time of his death in 1875 there were 17 charges, 22 clergy, 3,754 communicants, and 1,004 celebrations. The only place of worship which Bishop Forbes found on coming into residence in the chief town of his diocese, Dundee, was an ugly room over a bank. At his death there were three churches in the town itself and two in the suburbs, none of them architecturally contemptible.—Ceylon Gazette.

Ante-Nuptial Indebtedness of Married Women.

A correspondent of the Moncton Times inquires as follows:—

"In the case of a man marrying a woman who is in debt, does the law hold him responsible for her indebtedness?"

ANSWER.—In a general sense, no. Section 17 of the Married Women's Property Act says clearly that "a husband shall not, by reason of any marriage solemnized after the second day of March, 1872, be liable for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, but the wife shall be liable to be sued therefor, and any property belonging to her shall be liable to satisfy such debts, as if she had continued unmarried." A husband is liable for his wife's pre-nuptial debts only where he takes an interest in her property under any contract of settlement on marriage, and then only to the extent or value of such interest and no more. At the same time, a woman having real or personal property in her own right before marriage holds the same position in regard to it after marriage as if she had continued a feme sole. A married woman may engage in business or employment on her own behalf, and her interests therein are the same as if she were single. She can sue and be sued in her own person. Further, any married woman may become a stockholder or member of any bank, insurance company, or any other incorporated company or association, as fully and effectually as if she were a feme sole, and may vote by proxy or otherwise, and enjoy the like rights as other stockholders and members, and so on.

D. J. McGill, of Galt, Ont., and J. Harris, of San Francisco, tackled each other at Denver, Colorado, in a three hundred yard race, for $1,000 a side. The Galt man won in 33½ seconds. About $20,000 changed hands.

THE Toronto Mail says: It is gratifying to learn that sound and healthy Canadian and American cattle are still permitted to land in England, and, after passing an examination made by Government inspectors, to be transported to inland markets. So long as this practice continues, shipments of Dominion-raised stock can be made with confidence, and the spring may witness a rapid development of our trade.

I ord Lorne at Eton.

His one scrape at Eton occurred in connection with an adventure about a white rat. Lord Lorne was standing on the steps of Upper School, one morning, waiting for 11 o'clock school, when one Campbell, a namesake of his, but no relative, asked him to hold a pet rat for a moment, while he—the owner of the beast—ran back to his dame's to fetch a book which he had forgotten. On receiving the assurance that the rat was perfectly tame, and would not even bite a kitten, Lorne put him into the pocket of his jacket, and told the owner to make haste, but just at that moment the masters came out of "Chambers," and ascended the staircase, so Lorne was obliged to go into school with the brute. All went well for five minutes, but soon the rat, indifferent to the honor of inhabiting a Marquis' pocket, crept out and jumped on to the floor. Some boys saw it and set up a titter, which excited the attention of the form master, Mr. Y—, nicknamed "Stiggins," a strict disciplinarian. "Who brought that rat into school?" he asked. Lorne confessed that the was the culprit. "Well, make haste to catch him and carry him out, or I shall complain of you," said Mr. Y—. My lord laid down his Homer, but to catch the rat was not easy. Seeing himself an object of general attention, the animal darted under the scarlet curtain which separated one division from another, and rushing amid a new lot of boys provoked an uproar. In a minute all the boys in the upper school room, some two hundred odd, were on their feet shouting, laughing, and preparing to throw their books at the rat, who, however, spared them this trouble by ducking down a hole, where he disappeared for good and a' Lorne had to come back red and breathless, declaring that his game had eluded pursuit; whereupon Mr. Y., who disliked riots, proceeded to make out a "bill" which consigned his lordship after school to the care of the Sixth Form Prae poster. Luckily Dr. Goodford took a merciful view of the affair, and, as Lorne had not yet had "first fault," absolved him from kneeling on the block. It is to be noted that Lorne might easily have exonerated himself by explaining under what circumstances he had taken charge of the rat; but he was not the kind of boy to back out of a scrape by betraying a friend, and if Dr. Goodford had refused him the benefit of a first fault, he would certainly have taken his flogging without a murmur.

Miscellaneous.

In England they play cricket on the ice.
Prussia, according to the last census, had 300 centenarians.

A late census accords to Calcutta nearly half a million inhabitants.

England imports 126,000,000 pounds of tea annually. A most incredible amount.

The stove trade of the United States keeps 350 foundries in operation, and uses up over 500,000 tons of iron a year.

The Island of Barbadoes comprises an area of 106,470 acres, and has a mixed population of 162,042 inhabitants.

A young doctor in Paris recently fell senseless before the altar where he was being married, and soon after died.

Mr. T. C. Patterson, formerly of the Toronto Mail, has been appointed Postmaster of Toronto, succeeding Leslie, superannuated.

The Birmingham Central Library, which has just been destroyed by fire, was built about fourteen years ago, and contained about 50,000 volumes.

The population of Vienna, according to the most recent census, is 1,020,770, including troops in garrison.

The value of the new buildings put up in New York within the last ten years is $297,000, an average of nearly $30,000 a year.

The order of the Privy Council of England was a great surprise to the cattle trade. All cattle from the United States after March 3rd will have to be slaughtered on the dock within ten days after landing.

Over 5,000,000 letters were received at the Toronto Post Office last year for delivery in the city. 7,500,000 were posted, 7,800,000 were mailed, and 2,000,000 received. Twenty eight letter carriers are employed.

The Death-rate of

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year, especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find, too late, that a Fever or Lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.
