Stanley's Return to England.

HE POINTS OUT TWO ROUTES BY WHICH GEN.
GORDON CAN ESCAPE FROM KHARTOUM.

H. M. Stanley, the African explorer, has arrived at Plymouth. In an interview with an Associated Press representative Mr.
Stanley said he had returned to England considering that he had completed the work of establishing satisfactory trading stations along the Congo River, from its mouth to Stanley Pool, a distance of 1,460 miles by water. When he left the Congo country he was suffering badly from bronchitis, but was much benefited by the sea voyage. He eulogized the trading prospects of the country in the vicinity of the Congo River. Mr. Stanley considered that Gen.
Gordon commands practical routes of escape from Khartoum, whether by way of Zanzibar on the east, or down the Congo to the west coast, if the Nile is blocked. Mr.
Stanley considers that Gen. Gordon can during the present season ascend the Nile in steamers from Khartoum to Gondokera, a distance of 500 miles, in eight days; thence proceed to Bahar and Fagahzel and join Lupton Bey, who commands 400 troops having in their possession £40,000 worth ivory. Gordon could then proceed with this addition to his force in Zanzibar.
Should the soldiers refuse to take this journey, or should some other cause prevent the plan, Gordon could cross to Aden, reach the Stanley stations, and proceed down the Congo. Should the garrisons at intermediate ports along the Nile be endangered Gordon could take them along with him. If they refused to accompany him at first they would be sure to follow after he had gone on. Mr.
Stanley believes the sending of a large English force to extricate Gordon would be a most perilous undertaking, and would be likely to attend a with great loss of life and great expense. The English troops would be unable to stand the climate. Mr.
Stanley commends the abandoning of the Congo treaty. He considers the leaving of the Congo in the hands of the Portuguese very inimical to English interests.

Unsuccessful Attempt to beat Deerfoot's Running Record.

Great excitement attended the effort at London, on the 28th ult., of W. G. George, the amateur champion runner of the world, to beat the running record for one hour.
On April 7 last, at the annual meeting of the London Athletic Club, at Lillie Bridge, Mr. George undertook to beat the best ten-mile record—that of the American Deer-foot—who had lowered all previous records by running ten miles in 51 minutes and 26 seconds. It was not believed that George could equal this performance, and much money was wagered on the result. The amateur, however, had confidence in himself, and went to the scratch in perfect condition, after a thorough training. He ran apparently within his powers over the whole distance, and finished in good form six seconds ahead of Deerfoot's time, running the ten miles in 51 minutes and 20 seconds.
His condition at the finish astonished every one, and it was freely asserted that if he had not been running against time, but had been pushed by a competitor, he would have lowered the record several seconds more, and put it down possibly to 51 minutes. On the other hand, it was asserted that when Deerfoot made his record he ran more within his speed than George did, and that the latter, to prove himself the better runner, would have to beat Deer-foot's distance for an hour. This was 11 miles 970 yards, and was made with such apparent ease that scores of sporting men were ready to wager that Deerfoot could make twelve miles. George was put on his mettle, and consented to train for a public attempt to beat the hour record. The attempt was set down for the 28th ult., was extensively advertised, and drew an immense crowd. George went to the mark in fine condition, and ran with great confidence and strength. He finished fresh and with plenty of wind, but fell short of Deer-foot's distance by 38 yards, having accomplished 11 miles and 932 yards only. George, it is said, was surprised at the result, having supposed that he had slightly exceeded the record. He is said to be determined to make another trial.

A Singular Elopement.

A TORONTO MAN ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF ABDUCTING HIS OWN WIFE.

A curious case occurred at Toronto on the 26th July, when St. Clair Rutland was arrested for the abduction of his own wife, Minnie Edno Geare, aged 18. She became engaged to Rutland, and was subsequently married to him without the consent of her parents. As Rutland is a mere boy he had no means of supporting his wife, and she went back to her parents' house. Rutland then signed an agreement to take no advantage of the marriage contract if Edna's parents would allow him to see her in their presence, and to correspond. This arrangement was carried out till last Thursday, when he took the extraordinary step of eloping with his own wife by taking her to the suburbs. The girl's father then swore out a warrant against the young man for abduction. A constable went to the house of young Rutland's father at four o'clock in the morning, when he found the young couple occupying the same room. He took both into custody.
The case was consequently tried by a justice of the peace, and young Rutland was acquitted on the ground that as the girl was over eighteen the charge could not be for her abduction, and Minnie Edna St.
Clair Rutland went back to live with the elder Rutland.

Crop reports from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are that wheat is the best in quantity and quality gathered in years.
Other crops are in generally good condition.

A Somnambulist Lady.

The residents of a little village not far distant from Montreal are greatly excited over the strange actions of a young lady who is at present stopping at the residence of her uncle. It appears that within the past few months she has exhibited all the symptoms of somnambulism. While apparently asleep she would rise, and, with her eyes tightly closed, walk down stairs in perfect safety. It was found that after performing these singular feats she would return to her bed, and on awakening in the morning could not recall the circumstance to mind. A short time ago her friends, who regard her present state with great anxiety, tried an experiment. One evening recently, when she was found walking in her sleep, a gentleman, procuring pen and paper, requested her to write a letter.
She obeyed mechanically, and sitting down wrote a note to an absent friend, correct in every respect, although her eyes at the same time were closed. A singular fact was that the writing throughout was excellent, the words being written precisely along the lines. At times she converses while in this state quite freely and correctly. Recently, though exhibiting the same symptoms, she has kept her eyes open, which, however, only gave a vacant stare.
On one occasion while starting out for a drive she became unconscious and the next moment revived, only to be found in her old state. She was asked to drive, and at the bidding of a friend took the reins. On returning home she became herself again, and when acquainted with her strange actions, felt greatly surprised. The young lady is about eighteen years of age.

Several doctors have expressed themselves as puzzled with the case, and she will be taken to Boston to visit some of the lights of the medical profession to see if any relief can be afforded.

The Kolapore Cup.

Says the New York Sun editorially—"The winning of the Kolapore Cup by the Canadians at Wimbledon is the reward of very earnest effort for this coveted trophy of marksmanship. But why do not our friends and neighbors of the Dominion sometimes send their sharp shooters to contend with ours at Creedmoor? We need very much the stimulus of international competition on the Long Island range, and apparently shall have none there this year.
It is true that the prizes offered at Wimbledon are most coveted, while those at Creedmoor would hardly repay the expenses of a journey from Canada, even were there a chance of sweeping off a good share of them. But if the Canadians are tempted to the long ocean voyage, year after year, by the material rewards as well as the honors of Wimbledon, they would at least be sure of as sharp competition as they desired at Creedmoor."

Dr. Chapman's Cholera Cure.

The St. James' Gazette says: "One of the numerous correspondents who write about cholera treatment express the hope that the method which Dr. John Chapman, of Paris, went to Southampton (and perhaps elsewhere) to introduce during the epidemic of 1865, and which produced such astonishing recoveries from the pulchreous stage of collapse by the simultaneous application of external cold and heat to the body, will not be lost sight of by English physicians, should we unhappily be visited by the plague this autumn. The medical men of Southampton were at that time unanimous in their praise of Dr. Chapman's discovery; and Sir Andrew Clarke and many others wrote at considerable length in its favor in 1866."

Maud S. has made some remarkable performances in Cleveland, not in efforts to beat her record, as erroneously stated, but simply while exercising and from pure love of going. Capt. George M. Stone, who has the mare in charge, received an order from Mr. Vanderbilt to send Maud S. to Saratoga without delay. This is a great disappointment to horsemen in Cleveland who have watched her, and who say she is really faster to-day than she ever was before, and that if she should be really sent to lower the record, she could do it without straining herself. "I will show you what she did the other day," said Capt. Stone, taking out his note book. "We gave her two miles for exercise, which she took with the utmost ease, going to the first quarter in the first mile in 32 1/2 seconds, the half mile in 1.03 1/2, the three quarters in 1.36 1/2, and the mile in 2.12 1/2. She reached the quarter on the second mile in 32 1/2 seconds, the half in 1.04, the three-quarters in 1.36 1/2, and the mile in 2.12 1/2, making the second mile in exactly the same time as the first without turning a hair."

An extraordinary session of the Bulgarian Parliament opened on the 9th inst.
The prince in his speech said that its chief object was to reach an understanding as to
