City Council Replies To Employees Union Request

Basing its action on the grounds that such a meeting was "not permissible" under present legislation, Charlottetown's City Council has declined to negotiate further with the Civic Employees Union.

This was learned yesterday when correspondence between the union and City Hall was released following a special meeting of the union membership which was held Tuesday night at union District Headquarters.

The request to negotiate a new wage and working agreement had been forwarded to the Mayor and City Council on October 18th, following a regular meeting of the city employees local.

The reply to this request received by the Union president, Staff Sgt. A.J. Dowling from His Worship Mayor Stewart, stated: "I had thought that it was understood that a meeting for that purpose is not permissible, as a judgement of the Supreme Court in the Town of Summerside suit still exists denying the right of the Town Council to negotiate against the wording of the Incorporation Act, which is similar to that of Charlottetown. This judgement is under appeal, but until it is reversed or otherwise avoided the situation is that our City Council is compelled to refuse to negotiate."

"If and when during my tenure of office," the Mayor added, "the City Council receives, or has confirmed to it, authority to negotiate, I will promptly call a meeting as requested."

At Tuesday night's meeting called to consider the City Council reply, the Union membership decided to (a) request Council to provide the necessary legislation for the amending of the present City Charter in order that any legal obstacle to negotiation might be removed; (b), ask the Commissioners of Sewers and Water Supply to arrange a meeting to disuss a new wage and working agreement for the year 1958; and (c), ask the Provincial Government to appoint a conciliator to negotiate their dispute with the City.

To this end, the membership authorized the despatch of letters to all three parties concerned: Mr. Bevan and the members of his Commission; the Mayor and City Council; and Hon. Forrest Phillips, provincial Minister of Labor.

In their letter to the Mayor and Council, the Union emphasized that the necessary amendments to the City Charter should be prepared in sufficient time to be placed before the Legislature of the Province at the next sitting.

Hon. Mr. Phillips was furnished with a copy of the Mayor's letter as quoted above, and urged to appoint a mediator in view of the fact that "Local Union No. 501 considers negotiations broken down."

Speaks To Club On Farm Problem

S.C. Wright, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Winsloe United Church Men's Association held on Thursday, October 24th in the Highfield church basement. Mr. Wright spoke on "Some farm problems on Prince Edward Island" and gave comparative figures on farm production in the Province this year and last.

The Deputy Minister also answered questions from those seeking information on the organization of a 4-H Calf Club, and the keen interest shown seemed to indicate the possibility of a club being organized in the area in the near future.

Mr. Wright was introduced by Lea Toombs, association secretary, and thanked by Rev. E.A. Betts, pastor of the church.

The members and guest were served a delightful turkey supper by the Highfield Women's Association. Grace was said by A.S. Frizzell and the supper was followed by a hymn sing with Mrs. A.S. Frizzell at the piano.

The meeting closed with worship conducted by Rev. Mr. Betts. Russel Diamond, president of the Association, presided.

I.B.E.W. Local Presented With Blood Donor Shield

Previous to last May's successful Red Cross Blood Donor clinics in Charlottetown, the Charlottetown District and Labor Council purchased a very fine shield, with contributions made by the different groups within the council, to be awarded to the local having the highest percentage of attendance of "Life Savers" at the clinics.

This shield was won by Local 1492 I.B.E.W. (Maritime Electric) with 102 per cent attendance, and was presented to Mr. Jack Brown, president of the winning local at a meeting of the Charlottetown Red Cross Blood Donor Committee held at Red Cross Headquarters last evening at which initial plan were made for the clinics to be held in Charlottetown on Dec. 4th and 5th.

Mr. A. Fremont Archer, chairman of the Charlottetown Blood Donor Committee, presided at last night's meeting which was attended by representatives of various Charlottetown organizations who have been appointed by their groups to this committee.

Little Theatre Presents Its Opening Series Of 3 Plays

The Charlottetown Little Theatre Guild ended the season's opening at the Community Centre last evening in a Hallowe'en atmosphere of graveyard and ghosts. The final play of the evening was Elda Cadogan's "Rise and Shine" directed by Cecilia Blatch. The eerie setting was very simply, but dramatically, achieved by the stage crew. In spite of the weird background the play proved to be rollicking comedy.

The cast was as follows: Philip Sandford Grant, Weston Carmody; Hepzibah Mercy Jones, Margaret Dolliver; Henry Joseph Jones, Arthur MacLean; Jane Morrison Jones, Etta Bell. Gabriel, —'

Annual Coronation Ceremony Held Last Night At P. W. C.

Bob Lund and Renee Cotton were chosen King and Queen of the Campus at the annual student coronation ceremonies held last night.

Elected Prince and Princess of the P.W.C. Royal Court were Hugh MacLean and Florence Douglas.

Festivities commenced with a triumphant parade through the streets of the city, lead by the College Band the students conducted their Royal Family from the College to the heart of the downtown business district and back again.

The King, Queen, Prince and Princess were enthroned in cars, while the students paraded on foot.

The College archbishop, Frank Burke, accompanied the Royal Group on their tour of the city.

On return to the College Campus, the King and Queen were officially crowned by the archbishop.

Prior to the coronation, the King and Queen were introduced to the student assembly by Dr. Frank MacKinnon, Principal of Prince of Wales College.

In his introductory remarks Dr. MacKinnon observed that this was the only monarchy in the world elected to the throne by a popular vote.

Following Dr. MacKinnon's introduction the Royal Family received their loyal subjects, who filed past and paid their homage to the first lady and gentleman of P.W.C. society.
