MARTIN SNARED

Key man in the deal between Detroit and Kansas City is hustling Billy Martin.

Martin was traded to "A" last June by the Yankees in a package deal.

GOLF CLUB MEMBERS

The annual meeting of the Charlottetown Golf Club was held last night at the Charlottetown Hotel.

Present in attendance: C. H. Saunders, R. Manning, H. J. Carr, W. A. Bee, C. H. Trainer, and W. F. Williams.

Reports from the principal camps: sent two entirely different pictures. Hamilton Tiger-Cats are looking their chips in anticipation of a big win Saturday and the amazing Winnipeg Blue Bombers are snoring their wounds.

Third-up winners are the healthiest they've been all season. Little consolation to Bomber supporters whose team is crippled after the bruising three-game Western Interprovincial football Union final.

Tiger-Cats sent supporters into high gear on Saturday in their 39-1 conquest of Montreal Alouettes.

Officials are confident the club can meet any Western threat and they ridiculed reports that the Cats should be favored because the Bombers have injuries.

The Blue Bombers proved they were the best in the West, one official said, "and if they won it on their own, we must credit them. We'll treat them as the Western champions, and not a crippled hull club."

SWITCH TO EAST

The Bombers were impressed by Hamilton's all-round performance against the A's and, coupled with reports of Winnipeg's wailing wounded, quickly changed their minds. Two weeks ago they had installed the West as 5-to-1 favorites.

SPORT OF KING'S Prince Of Wales College Beats Souris High School

The first game of a two game exhibition series between Souris and Prince of Wales. Second has come and gone. It was a fast affair, with the more experienced College boys pretty well controlling the play. They scored almost all and played sound defensive ball.

The best quarter for the locals was the second, when they were outscored 12-0. They tried hard, but a zone defense set up by the College kept them almost impossible to penetrate. Mel Walsh and Mel LaBreach were the top point-gainers for the locals, while Prince of Wales, the scoring evenly divided among the team.

This division of the scoring by the Collegians, show what a smooth working unit they are. No one player was outstanding, nor did any one player stand out as a smooth working unit. They worked together quite well, both offensively and defensively.

The second game of this series will be played some time this week at the College courts, with all possible it will be part of a double bill, with two teams from the City League as the other half of the bill.

Scantlebury left a lot of good ideas behind him for furthering basketball on this end of the island.

Sure Of Travel To Moon, Mars

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller said Monday he has certain people who eventually travel to the moon and to the planet Mars. He said he would like to go to the moon himself, but doesn't know why except that he is curious.

The physicist spoke of moon travel by way of illustration in a panel discussion that scientists must undertake "impractical" experiments to gain knowledge leading later to practical developments.

"The Russians are advertising in the newspapers that they are going to the moon," Teller said. "When men gets there, they certainly will learn a great number of things the practical consequences of which he will learn later."

In reply to a question, Teller said that, if he wants to go to the moon, he would like to go to the moon, and look at the universe.

"I'd like to put an observatory on the moon, and put at the universe," Teller said. "I don't really know why, I'm just curious."

Teller said last January as a key figure in the apprehension of a Soviet spy ring in the United States. He has said he served the United States for 12 years as a counter-spy member of an international spy ring.

The word "bridge" in the company's name is misleading, because bridge-building today is a relatively small part of its output, even though still an important one.

More indicative of inter-day operations are some of the large structures whose steel frames it erected—such structures as the Sun Life Building and New Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal; the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa; the Marine Building and new Port office, Vancouver.

Machinery and plants More indicative, too, are machinery and plants in various Canadian mining operations, and such things as cranes, car dumpers, hoists, water pipe, oil-fueled tankers, pressure vessels, hydraulic lifts, diesel engines, rolling mills and other industrial machinery and equipment.

Of some 4,000 shareholders, about 95 per cent are Canadian. Summing up the company's past and future, R. C. Pearce, vice-president and manager of the company's Ontario division, said at a press conference: "We started in a small way when our founders had only their faith in the future of Canada to guide them and our faith in Canadian industry."

"We hope that the present haul which has been known by the name of business will be short-lived. But regardless of its duration, the $200,000 expansion program announced over a year ago—which is expected to increase the company's output by 20 per cent—is going ahead as planned, although it may be slightly delayed because of the shortage of steel."

When the company started in 1922 it was a small concern employing a handful of men, including an engineering staff of six. Now it has assets of $70,000,000 and either through itself or subsidiaries employs more than 4,000 people in 15 plants.

They were even matched, team strange to say I cannot recall the playing of Roy (Dick) MacIntyre.
