Weather Change Blessed As Canada Greet's Queen

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The weather was the star of the first day of the Royal Tour and everybody blessed it, including a happy and laughing Queen and a relaxed and informal Prince.

tion and then started to talk as the Queen moved back. She was heard to ask the Queen in a piping voice: "How is Princess Anne?" The Queen was almost out of range by that time but she returned and asked Dale to repeat. "And what did the Queen say?" a reporter asked. "I won't tell you," said the dame miss, and that was that. Even her mother couldn't get the story.

Liberal's Want Frost To Voice CBC 'Beefs'

OTTAWA (CP) — A new liberal move to have Premier Frost of Ontario called before the Commons broadcasting committee to air his grievances against the CBC failed Thursday, and the committee finally agreed to shelve the issue until it has completed work on its entire agenda. "Division in the ranks," cried Douglas Fisher (OCF—Port Arthur) as Progressive Conservatives split on various amendments and sub-amendments raised to modify or revise the effect of the original motion by J. M. Forgie (L—Renfrew North). Tempers flared. Richard Bell (PC—Carleton) pinpointed J.W. Pickersgill (L—Bonaville-Twillingate) as the strategist behind the Liberal motion and said this was purely a political manoeuvre. "I'm not going to waste my breath on Mr. Bell," Mr. Pickersgill shot back. CRITICIZED COVERAGE The Liberals' demand that Mr. Frost be called followed a statement issued by the Ontario premier after his Progressive Conservative party returned to power a week ago, criticizing CBC election coverage. Mr. Pickersgill said he realized Mr. Frost was "a very busy man" and found it difficult to "tear himself away" from his Lindsay, Ont., home. He suggested Mr. Frost be given lots of notice, though he added with a biting touch: "I do not suggest we should adjourn to Lindsay."

New Course Is Added At Vocational School

A new course for the training of technicians in the field of electronics and television will be included in the syllabus of the Provincial Vocational School when it opens for the fall term this year. In making the announcement, Education Minister Keir Clark said yesterday it was felt that a need exists for such training in the province, especially in the field of television and radio repair.

The new wing of the school. It will be known as "a course in electronics to include radio and TV. It will be of 10 months duration and will specialize in radio and TV repair. Prerequisite of students desiring to take the course is grade 10 complete.

Appointed to the position of instructor for the new course is Gerald Howatt of Charlottetown. Before beginning his duties, he will be sent to the Vocational and Technical Institute at Moncton for a six weeks course on teaching methods as they apply to vocational training; the study of electronics and the setting up of a shop here.

It was also announced that Albert N. Stairs of Charlottetown has been appointed electrical instructor in the school. He succeeds Arthur LeBlanc who has resigned.

Mr. Stairs will be sent to University of Toronto for a six weeks course on methods of teaching vocational training subjects.

10 MONTH COURSE The radio and TV course will be conducted on the third floor of Gerald Howatt is a graduate technician of the Radio College of Canada in Toronto. He holds a group three rating as a signal instructor in the Canadian Army Active Force. He has had three years experience in appliance repairs in Toronto.

He worked for two years with Fairley Aviation on radio and radar and for three years ran a radio and TV repair shop at Dartmouth, N.S.

Albert N. Stairs completed grade XII at Prince of Wales College before taking the electrical course at the Vocational School. He took a course with the Radio College of Canada and attended the RETS course conducted in Charlottetown a few years ago. He has had three years experience in running his own repair shop in Charlottetown.

HON. MR. MacKINNON

Retirement Announced

Hon. Dougald MacKinnon last night announced his retirement from active politics. Mr. MacKinnon will carry on as representative of 4th Queens and Minister of Fisheries and Labor until the next provincial election. He declined an offer of nomination at the 4th Queens Liberal District convention where Stewart Ross of Flat River was nominated as his successor. Harold Smith was nominated for the third time on the Councilor ticket.

The people of 4th Queens who supported Mr. MacKinnon for twenty four years as a member of the district showed their appreciation by presenting him last night with a beautiful "lazy-boy" chair at Eldon. The address was read by the secretary of the association, Milton Furness, a lifelong friend of the Minister. In reply to the presentation, Mr. MacKinnon said that anything he might have gained from his elections was of little account when compared to the loyalty and confidence that his friends had placed in him.

Mr. MacKinnon was first nominated by the district in 1935 along with J. Walter Jones who later became premier. Both won their seats in an impressive triumph. Mr. MacKinnon was re-elected in the elections of 1939, 1943, 1947. (Continued on page 2 Col. 3.)

No Objection Says Premier

Premier A.W. Matheson said yesterday that he has notified federal Health Minister Waldo Monketh that he has no objection to his tabling in the House of Commons. The correspondence which passed between the health minister and the Premier regarding the Prince Edward Island Hospital Insurance Plan.

In the House of Commons on June 12th, Mr. Monketh was asked by Dr. Orville Phillips, MP for Prince, whether it was the minister's intention to table the correspondence. At that time Mr. Monketh said he didn't have Premier Matheson's permission to do so. Now the premier's permission has been given.

Maritime Flavor Marks Ayrshire Field Day Here

An interprovincial flavour marked the annual Ayrshire Field Day of the P.E. Island Ayrshire breeders held yesterday at the Experimental Farm when a large number of New Brunswick breeders with a smaller representation from Nova Scotia visited the province and joined in the day's activities.

Edward Boswell vice-president of the Island breeders, acting in place of President Andrew B. MacRae, in hospital in Halifax, extended a welcome to the visitors and read a message from the President.

R. C. Parent, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm welcomed the visitors, noting that this was the Farm's 50th anniversary and the Ayrshire field day was the first celebration among many that will mark the occasion. He spoke in both English and French.

Mr. Parent said two of the main aims of the experimental farm were to maintain the fertility of the Island soil and to promote the livestock industry and in particular the dairy industry.

Communism And Arab Nationalism Are Locked In 'Intense Struggle'

This interpretative on the current situation in the Middle East comes from an Associated Press news analyst who has just completed his eighth tour of that area. On the current tour he visited Iraq, Lebanon, Jordan, Iran and Egypt.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
CAIRO (AP) — Throughout the Arab East an intense contest is developing between Communism and Arab nationalism.

This nationalism, or pan-Arabism, subscribes to the idea that the Arabs as a whole are a nation, whether in Egypt or Iraq. It is more theory than actuality, but is a powerful force.

Without pan-Arab nationalism, little would stand in the way of swift Communist success in the Arab East.

Islam, the religion of Moslems, is no shield.

The contest between nationalism and communism centres on a relatively small group of educated men. These men, mostly young, are the ones who will decide issues. The great unlettered, unwashed and often unshod masses have no say in what is going to happen. Arab nationalists apparently believe they will win the contest. Yet, while Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser fights Communists as such, his United Arab Republic still welcomes Soviet economic and military help and has a good chance of getting away with it.

The U.A.R. already is deeply in hock to Moscow for arms and is going in for more of the same by committing itself to Soviet construction of the first phase of its dream project, the high Aswan Dam. While the Russians proceed with plans for the dam, Nasser continues to blast Communists and communism, rallying other Arabs against them.

This Nasser has accomplished something all the dollars of the United States could not do—brought about the beginnings of an Arab anti-Communist front. This is not out of love or respect for the United States, since Nasser is far from pro-Western. It is an expression of the developing war between nationalism and communism not only in the Arab East but in many other developing countries.

As they are now designed, railiners cannot negotiate the ferry approach without striking them at extreme of high and low tides. The tests this weekend will enable technical personnel to see whether design changes could be made to solve these problems in the event that railiner operation on Prince Edward Island should prove economically justified.

Railiner Tests Set On Sunday

MONCTON, — Feasibility of transferring a railiner to and from a ferry under extreme tide conditions will be tested by the CNR ferry Sunday, it was announced here Thursday. David Blair, general superintendent of the company's Maritime District, said the studies will be conducted by a railiner from Moncton on both the Cape Tormentine, N. B., and Borden, P.E.I., sides of Northumberland Strait.

Africans Run Riot In Orgy Of Arson

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — Several thousand Africans ran riot in an orgy of arson here Thursday night.

Government and other buildings were set ablaze and police fired at Africans trying to outflank them.

The violent outbreak, worsening as the night wore on, followed a clash at the native quarter of Cato Manor during the day when police fired into a crowd of 5,000 wildly demonstrating Africans after the rioters had attacked them with stones.

Two Africans were killed Thursday night and several more were wounded by police bullets. White residents living near trouble areas were evacuating their homes, reports said.

Deputy Police Commissioner R.D. Jenkins said that in the Chesterville African Township a recreation hall, municipal offices and two or three other buildings were ablaze.

ELECTRIC SITUATION Jenkins said the situation in Cato Manor and Chesterville was "electric and fluid" as thousands of Africans assembled on a soccer field.

The rest of Durban, he said, was "exceptionally quiet."

The burned-out wrecks of buses and other vehicles were spotted throughout the riot areas.

White reporters trying to enter one area were told: "Go quickly or you will be killed."

In Chesterville, a medical clinic and several stores also were in flames.

Other reports said the disturbances in Durban, a major port on the southeast coast, had spread three miles away to Rossburgh, where Africans were stoning vehicles.

RAID BEER HALL The riots started after women raided a beer hall and police tried to break them up.

Officials said the women made the raid because they claim police action against home-brewing keeps their men from drinking at home.

Guns, clubs and rocks were used on both sides in hours of clashes between several hundred policemen and non-whites.
