NEW WONDERS! EVERY DAY!!
WITH ABUNDANT PROOF THAT HERE IS A CURE! FOR ALL!!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

An almost miraculous Cure of a Bad Leg! of Five Years' standing. The Patient had been discharged from Guy's Hospital, without deriving THE LEAST BENEFIT from that Institution.

Mrs. FRY, residing at No. 35, Trafalgar Street, Walworth, London, was some time since admitted as an In-door Patient at Guy's Hospital, with a Bad Leg of Five Years' standing. The flesh on the Leg was in some places nearly as hard as bone; it resembled in appearance the trunk of an old tree, being in knots and lumps; it was greatly swollen, and had NINE FRIGHTFUL ULCERS in it; she derived no benefit whatever at the Hospital, and returned to her home. Her case was so bad that for Three Years she was carried up and down stairs every day like a child, being perfectly helpless. She was in this deplorable state when she commenced the use of HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS, which, in the course of about Three Months, performed a perfect cure when every other means proved unavailing.

A case of a Loathsome Skin Disease, attended with Dreadful Swellings of the Whole Body, that had resisted the treatment of nearly all the Hospitals in London, cured by Holloway's Ointment and Pills.

A child, Five years of age, named JONES, whose father is a shoemaker, living at No. 4, Horse Shoe Alley, Wilson Street, Finsbury, London, have been afflicted from the age of Sixteen Months old, with fearful and dreadful swellings all over her body, which used to affect her periodically; at such times her face would change its colour and remain perfectly BLACK; her body was always covered with large malignant sores. For this unknown complaint, the child was taken by her mother to nearly all the Hospitals in London, and most of the Surgeons of eminence; none appeared to understand her disease, and she got no better from their treatment. As a forlorn hope HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS were tried, which not only gave relief, but completely eradicated the disease from the system, so that the child is now restored to perfect health and not the least vestige of the former Complaint remains.

IN ALL DISEASES OF THE SKIN,

Bad Legs, Old Wounds and Ulcers, Bad Breasts, Sore Nipples, Stoney and Ulcerated Cancri, Tumours, Swellings, Gout, Rheumatism, and Lumbago, likewise in cases of Piles; the Pills, in all the above cases, ought to be used with the Ointment; as by this means cures will be effected with a much greater certainty, and in half the time that it would require by using the Ointment alone. The Ointment is proved to be a certain remedy for the bite of mosquitoes, Sand-flies, Chigoe-foot, Yaws, and Coco-bay.

Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Chapped Hands and Lips, also Bunions and Soft Corns will be immediately cured by the use of the Ointment.

THE PILLS ARE NOT ONLY THE FINEST REMEDY KNOWN.

When used with the Ointment, but as a General Medicine there is nothing equal to them. In nervous affections they will be found of the greatest service. These Pills are, without exception, the finest Purifier of the Blood ever discovered, and OUGHT to be USED BY ALL!!!

THE FAMILY LIFE MEDICINES.

THE celebrated Life Pills and Phoenix Bitters, prepared and sold by Dr. Wm. B. Moffat, 375, Broadway, New York, may now be said to be the most respectfully established and extensively adopted family medicines in the United States. They have not only won the sanction and recommendation of all the candid and philanthropic portion of the medical profession, who have observed their invariable efficacy in general derangements of the stomach and bowels, and their astonishing effects in many varieties of acute and chronic disease, but that is far better, these medicines have recommended themselves, and fully and fairly achieved the distinguished and now certainly pre-eminent position which they now occupy in public and domestic estimation. They are proved by their works, and make no appeals to vulgar credulity. If the proprietor were disposed to make an invidious comparison between these self-established medicines and any others, he might confidently assert and challenge contradiction that there is no medicine known to the medical profession, or named in their books, concerning which so many clear, unquestionable and conclusive evidences of usefulness and remarkable cures are recorded as those which he can adduce concerning the Life Pills and Phoenix Bitters. If it be admitted that sufferers are the best judges as to whether a remedy has relieved them and restored them to health and strength, then is the evidence in behalf of these medicines decisive and irresistible. Dr. Moffat is in possession of an immense accumulation of voluntary testimonials from respectable persons and families in all parts of the Union, far and near, who give their names and residence to the unsolicited statement that they have been completely and speedily cured of the following diseases, and of many others not here enumerated, by these Life Medicines alone, when other medicines had been long employed in vain, viz: Scrofula, in its most dreadfully advanced and destructive stages, when large portions of the flesh and bones of the face had been destroyed; Piles of five, ten, twenty, thirty and even thirty-five years standing; Rheumatism, both acute and chronic, of the most hopeless character; Turgescence of the Liver, and various other liver complaints; Bilious Cholera, and every conceivable variety of bilious affections; Marasmus Tabes, or Decline, and Marasmus Phthisis, or Consumption, in more advanced stages than any on record; Dyspepsia, in all its chronic and acute varieties, with its frightful train of distressing symptoms; Worms of all kinds, both in children and grown persons; Diarrhoea, both serous and bilious; Costiveness, both habitual and occasional; Fever and Ague, in its three principal varieties, and intermittent and remittent fevers, of all kinds; Hypochondriasis, and other extremely complicated nervous affections, with nervous debility in general; Salt Rheum, Running Scald, and eruptive diseases generally, including Ecthyma, Erysipelas or St. Anthony's fire, and scald; unhealthy complexion; Palpitation of the heart, and Determination of blood to the head, settled pains in the organs, limbs, back, head and side; affections of the bladder, kidneys, spleen, throat, and pleura; jaundice, dropsy and gout; together with those general affections of the system which arise from complicated causes.

The certificates of these cures are in the proprietor's possession, and will readily be shown to all who desire to see them. A small selection from them have been published in Moffat's Medical Manual, of which a new and enlarged edition is preparing for the press. The reason why these medicines, which in ordinary family use operate merely as mild and effectual laxatives, cure so great a variety of formidable diseases is, that while as cathartics, cleansing the alimentary canal, and relieving the liver and the absorbent vessels of all impurities, they lay the foundation for the cure of all specific diseases, they are compounded of unique and unprecedented variety of choice and exquisite ingredients, some of which are almost unknown to the profession, which exert a specific action upon many complaints, without in the slightest degree affecting the general system, otherwise than as a simple purifier, when those complaints are not present. Both the Pills and the Bitters are mild and agreeable in their operation, causing neither prostrations nor nausea, and requiring neither confinement nor peculiar diet. Their effects are uniformly to produce an immediate sense of renovated health, and new life and vigour to both body and mind. They cannot be taken without benefit, and they should be procured both by individuals and heads of families, and constantly kept on hand, not only as remedies, but as preventives of disease. They are prepared and sold wholesale and retail, by Dr. William B. Moffat, 375 Broadway, N. Y., and also by the AGENTS—NEW YORK, May 30.

THE TEXAS QUESTION.

(From the London Pictorial Times.)

By the last arrivals from the United States we learn that the treaty for the annexation of Texas has been rejected. This result was generally anticipated; but the historical iniquity of the original conception is still the same.

The Americans wonder why the British are always heaping ridicule and contempt upon them; their wonder would cease if they could look in upon themselves, and see how criminally absurd they invariably contrive to make themselves appear, whenever they get an opportunity. This Texan negotiation, from beginning to end, is a conspicuous instance. Here is a republic that has all along declared foreign aggrandisement and territorial acquisition to be in direct opposition to the spirit, and even the safety, of her institutions; yet, the very moment when a neighbouring state seems to be in a condition to bear the process of grafting, this mendacious republic pounces upon it with the avidity of a bird of prey. But this is only a small part of the violation of the specific character to which this annexation must have inevitably led. If the slave states had been thus strengthened by the addition of Texas, the free states must have sought a counterpoise elsewhere. Can any man foresee where this headlong career would have ended?

There is another curious anomaly in this case. America, as a whole, professes neutrality on the question of Slavery. Her language is this—"Do not interfere with us, and we will take no measures to extend the practice of slavery." Upon this understanding, a sort of compact has been entered into between the slave and non-slave holding states, by which the discussion of Slavery is prohibited in the House of Representatives. Yet in the face of this solemn pledge to the civilised world, the Federal Government openly traffics for the annexation of a new slave state to its territory, and even authorises its secretary of state to announce and justify its intention in a public manifesto addressed to the British envoy. If this be not a palpable extension of the practice of Slavery, and a distinct recognition of the principle by a Government pledged to neutrality on the subject, all we can say is, that the American interpretation of the English language must be something very different from ours. We suppose we call things by different names—political morality amongst the rest.

But a still more remarkable perplexity remains behind. This treaty of negotiation was in fact a treaty of purchase. For nearly half a century America has had a longing after Texas. The passion was as strong, though not quite so grand in its aim, as the old Russian lust after Constantinople. This hawking to possess Texas has partly arisen from a notion that a section of the country was included in the boundaries of Louisiana, acquired from France in 1803; but chiefly from its tempting contiguity to the rich valley of the Mississippi. So long ago as 1805 this desire was first exhibited; and every administration from that time to 1835 has followed it up with more or less energy. In 1825 they offered to purchase Texas for 5,000,000 dollars; on this last occasion they bid double the sum. The debts and liabilities of Texas amount to no less than 10,000,000 dollars. By the terms of the treaty, the Federal Government assumed the whole of this responsibility. Considering that America either cannot, or will not, pay her own debts, the munificent generosity of this voluntary undertaking to pay the debts of another cannot be sufficiently admired. The arrangement would have been vastly convenient to everybody concerned—except the unfortunate creditors. The Texan security is bad enough, but the American is worse. How the United States proposed to discharge these new incumbrances is a profound secret; but it is clear enough that, whether they were ever to be discharged or not, Texas would have been relieved from them. We suspect that this same Texan diplomacy is a thought deeper than that of their neighbours.

The whole history of Texan independence bears a close resemblance to the short but brilliant career of a flash tradesman, who accumulates goods as fast as he can while his credit lasts, and is then ready to sell them off for cash at less than cost price. There was a wonderful splash made about Texas, when she declared her independence; she would fight to the death against Mexico—any thing rather than surrender her rights as a separate state. She was Protestant, too—that was made a great point in England. Then she had the finest climate in the world—such rivers, lakes, and valleys—such vegetation. All she wanted was population. This was easily supplied. Grants of land were made and guaranteed by the President, and companies were got up, and shares were actually issued for forming locations in this fine independent country. There was no end to the fuss about acts of recognition and treaties of amity and commerce. First, the American union recognised the independence of Texas; then followed Holland and Belgium and Britain, and other European powers; and amongst a variety of engagements of different kinds, a treaty was entered into with Britain for the suppression of the Slave Trade by the mutual right of search. One would suppose, from all this, that Texas was going on flourishingly; that she was in a fair way to "realise" a good business. But now mark the sequel! She had no sooner surrounded herself with all these types of independence—grave commercial treaties and solid European alliances—had no sooner brought herself up to a certain value, than she offers herself for sale to America for whatever she can fetch, leaving her creditors to shift for themselves! This new specimen of Mississippi integrity will not be forgotten when Texas next makes her appearance upon the Bourse of Europe. We do not believe that the question of annexation is abandoned, although it is set aside for the present. A writer in a recent number of one of the leading American reviews makes this significant observation:—"That Texas must sooner or later, from the very nature and necessity of things, coalesce into one political unity with the rest of the great confederacy, can scarcely fail to strike the most careless eye that will cast a glance over any map of the continent of North America." The
