Gen. Plow Stresses
A large number of citizens lined the sidewalks and in front of the Cundall Home to watch the proceedings and later packed the Armories to hear Gen. Plow. He spoke of the development of "home stations" for battalions, meaning that each battalion would always return from duty to its own home station and that would permit of married personnel being able to leave their families knowing they would be returned to that point. He cited the big new army camp under construction at Gagetown to house upwards of 7,000 soldiers with over 1,000 housing units for married people.

elections, like four others in the last seven years, will be under United Nations supervision.

SUPPORTS NORTH KOREA
Molotov, who spoke before Pym, declared the United Nations had disqualified itself as an impartial international body to supervise elections because it "became a belligerent in Korea." He supported the North Korean proposal for elections supervised by a north-south commission "free from foreign interference."
At the opening of the Korea debate April 27, Pym had proposed UN-supervised elections in North Korea only. Certain Western delegates had spoken up for all-Korea elections under UN auspices. Tuesday's surprise proposal was aimed at meeting this request.
Molotov assailed the proposed Southeast Asia defence pact, saying: "The main purpose of such military plans is to preserve and perpetuate by every possible means the colonial regime of all the nations that strive for national liberty and independence."
Molotov supported Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's suggestion here for a unified effort of Asian people to ensure peace.
"The Soviet Union completely shares the aspiration for ensuring the collective security of all the states allied to it in the same way it strives for ensuring the conclusion of an agreement on collective security for all the European peoples," Molotov said.

His remarks at a press conference constituted the first official disclosure he was considering a "united action" formula which would permit the United States and allied countries to intervene in the Indo-China war.
NO SPECIFIC PROPOSAL
Dulles added, however, that he did not know whether Britain and other key allies would agree to any such plan. No specific proposal has been developed yet in secret diplomatic talks, he said.
In answering a series of questions, Dulles sought to clear up some confusion about his Indo-China policy.
He said any pledges made by governments participating should make it evident they would be prepared to fight if the Reds openly challenged the alliance.
Later Dulles said he favors including the three Indo-Chinese states of Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam in the pact—and that if they were members it would be appropriate to use force to put down Red rebel attacks such as are now going on there.
Present American policy, he said is based on a drive to save Southeast Asia from Communist domination. But, if parts are lost because of conditions beyond American control, the aim would be to save what he termed the essential parts.

400 Potato Growers Attend Meeting At O'Leary; Hear Plebiscite Discussed

The O'Leary public hall was filling to capacity last night when over 400 potato growers assembled for the second time in a series of meetings sponsored by the Prince Edward Island Federation of Agriculture to discuss problems of the industry and the forthcoming plebiscite.
Mr. John P. Wallace of Elm-dale opened the meeting with a short address and called on Mr. Roland MacDonald, president of the Provincial Federation to preside. Mr. Donald A. MacDonald, chairman of the Potato Marketing Board gave a comprehensive account of his stewardship and the many problems facing the Board last fall in handling the potato crop. He stressed the importance of the plebiscite stating if the farmers of the province do not want a marketing board it would be dismantled.
Mr. Lincoln Dewar spoke on membership and the accident insurance scheme sponsored by the Federation.
A great deal of discussion centred around the wording of the plebiscite and in reply to a large number of queries Mr. Donald MacDonald said that only one question appears on the ballot forms which are being mailed out to farmers to vote for or against it but that if it was voted out some other agency in which they had no voice would likely take its place.
Mr. Ben Thomas questioned as to whether a compulsory pool would be established next year. Mr. MacDonald would not commit himself regarding next year's policy as there are ten members on the board. Mr. Keir Ramsay also brought up the question of a compulsory pool and considered that Mr. Thomas should have a definite answer in order that those present would know what they were voting for.

Discuss New Agreement
Mr. Frank Bryan asked if the board would guarantee a similar agreement with the Federal Government this year and expressed the opinion that without an agreement the board had nothing to offer.
Mr. Charles Yeo spoke strongly on behalf of the Marketing Board and a central selling agency and said it was entirely up to the farmers to vote for or against it but that if it was voted out some other agency in which they had no voice would likely take its place.

Vote Down Second Question
It was moved by John Rayner, seconded by Keir Ramsay, that the second question be placed on the ballot as follows: Are you in favor of a central selling agency?
After a heated discussion during which Mr. MacDonald said he would sooner see the board voted out than to have its hands tied.

Shoe And Slipper Factory May Be Established In S'side In Few Weeks

The establishment of a shoe and slipper manufacturing factory at Summerside may be undertaken in a few weeks.
If organized the new industry will be strictly an Island enterprise, owned by Islanders and financed by Island capital.
At the present time Mr. Herbert Hatch of the Frank Hatch Shoe Company of Quebec City is in Summerside in an advisory capacity in connection with the proposed new factory.
In discussing the matter yesterday Mr. Hatch said that if the factory is organized, the establishment of a shoe and slipper factory would be a boon to the Island industry, much more than the Potato Marketing Board.
