ITS THE LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT.

The true philosophy of happiness is to be well fed and warmly clad and not to realize that there is anything else to desire. We say, indeed, have dined well and be warmly dressed without being contented, but we certainly can't be contented while we are hungry and cold. Life is a non-stop on our grind at best and we can only equip ourselves as comfortably as possible for the inevitable work, taking pleasure out of any new idea which aids us in our quest.

For Saturday only—20 per cent. discount this evening on all lines of boots and shoes. Be sure and call at J. B. Macdonald & Co's.
