

A NEGATIVE AFFIRMATIVE.—Mr. Timms, a farmer up in the country, had a habit of putting in "Yes yes, yes yes," at every pause in his speaking, which sometimes had a ludicrous effect.

"So you want my horse, young man? yes yes, yes yes," said Timms; "and you say you'll ride him gently? yes yes, yes yes; and rub him down well when you get where you are going? yes yes, yes yes; and will give me a dollar for the use of him? yes yes, yes yes. Well, upon the whole, you can't have him,—yes yes, yes yes."

The young man left sorrowing. So there's been a rupture of Mount Vesuvius! said Mrs. Partington, as she read in the Journal an account of the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, and she put down the paper and put up her specs.

There was a whole broadside of commendation of the fire company in the impressive gesture accompanying her words. "Time and space" for a moment became annihilated, and imagination figured the city engine pouring its subduing stream upon the flames of Vesuvius, and "Hold on seving!" "Break her down twelve!" rising above the vain roarings of the smothering crater.

"I haven't got any money," said Mrs. Partington, as the box came round at the close of a charity lecture; "but here's a couple of elegant sausages I have brought that you can give the poor creturs!" The box-holder looked confounded—the people smiled. With her view of charity, she saw nothing wrong in the act.

"I keep the best bread," said a certain baker the other day to a poor fellow who complained of the inferior quality of the article he had purchased of him the day before. "I do not doubt it," replied the customer. "Then why do you complain?" asked the baker. "Because I would suggest that you sell the best and keep the bad," was the reply.

During the recent session of the Equal Rights Convention, a strong-minded female entered a crowded street-railroad car. An old gent rose to give her a seat but asked, "Be you one of those women's rightsers?" "I be." "You believe a woman should have all the rights of a man?" "Yes, I do." Then stand up and enjoy them like a man. And stand up she had to do.

The remains of the bachelor who burst into tears on reading a description of married life, have been found, and secured by a set of hoops.

"See there," exclaimed a returned Irish soldier to a gaping crowd, as he exhibited with some pride his tall hat with a bullet hole in it. "Look at that hole, will you? You see that if it had been a low crowned hat, I should have been killed outright."

The most recent case of absence of mind is that of an editor who recently copied from a hostile paper one of his own articles and headed it, "Wretched attempt at wit." If a girl thinks more of her heels than her head, depend upon it, she will never amount to much. Brains which settle in the shoes never get above them.—Young gentlemen will please put this down.

A chap out West, who had been severely afflicted with the palpitation of the heart, says he found instant relief by the application of another palpitating heart. Another triumph of homeopathy. "Like cures like."

An Oxford saddler sold a saddle, but forgot who was the customer, so he told his clerk to charge it in all the bills sent out. He afterwards confessed that thirty two had paid him for it.

Home! sweet home! as the bee said when he entered his hive.

A Chinese thief having stolen a missionary's watch, brought it back to him the next day to be shown how to wind it up!

What word will make you sick if you leave one of the letters out?—Music.

What is that which is full of holes and yet holds water?—A sponge.

Why is a prudent man like a pin?—Because his head prevents him from going too far.

A young stock broker having married a fat old widow with $100,000 says it wasn't his wife's face that attracted him so much as the figure.

"WHERE SHALL I DINE?"—One evening Sheridan, not knowing where to go for a dinner, sat down by Michael Angelo Taylor in the House of Commons, and said, "There is a law question likely to arise presently, on which, from your legal knowledge, you will be wanted to reply to Mr. Pitt; so I hope you will not think of leaving the House." So saying, Sheridan slipped out, walked over to Michael's house, and ordered up dinner, saying to the servant, "Your master is not coming home this evening." He made an excellent dinner, came back to the House, and seeing Michael looking expectant, went to release him, saying, "I am sorry to have kept you, for, after all, I believe this matter will not come off to-night." Michael instantly walked home, and learned, to his consternation, when he rang for dinner, "Mr. Sheridan had it, sir, about two hours ago."—Life of Wilberforce.

SAVE YOUR PLUMS.—A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker says:—I have had some experience in the raising of plums. In my former efforts, when I let them take care of themselves, my trees produced nothing but a crop of worms and disappointment. But for the last three years I have succeeded in raising as fine and as full a crop of plums as could be desired. My treatment was this: In the spring, as soon as the blossoms began to fall from the fruit, I prepared a large sheet-iron pan on which were placed a few chips or any such thing as would burn readily, and after they had commenced burning freely, smothered the blaze down with grass, which produced a dense smoke. This I would carry around under the trees, and perfectly befog the entire top with smoke. I made this application of smoke each evening and morning, and continued it until about the first of July. Fresh grass should be frequently added, so as to continue a heavy volume of smoke.

I think the advantage derived from the smoke is from the deposits upon the fruit, leaves and branches, and producing a scent which is offensive to such insects as are wont to prey upon the young fruit. But whatever the effect of the smoke may be, it has been a successful protection to the fruit during my three years' experiment. It may be well to remember that I always gave my trees a thorough smoking; I doubt the success of Homeopathy treatment in such cases.

VARIETIES.—It is of great importance to have good seeds of good kinds. Do not delay getting at once all that may be needful.

BEANS.—Plant bush sorts as soon as danger of frost is past. Limas should be left until the ground is warm.

BEETS AND CARROTS.—Sow early sorts in drills a foot apart, or in two-foot drills with radishes between.

CRESS, OR PEPPERGRASS.—Sow a small quantity every ten days to keep up the supply. Dust the young plants with air-slaked lime, if insects trouble them.

Cucumbers may be had quite early by planting seed in frames from which other plants have been removed, giving of course plenty of manure.

PEAS.—The distance will depend upon the height the variety grows. Dwarfs will do a foot or 18 inches apart, while those requiring brush will need to be 3 or 4 feet or more distant.

Plant in rows, as far as possible, as this is much more convenient in working than the old fashioned way of dividing up the garden into small beds.

Seed-beds will be needed by those who do not use glass for starting their plants, and for plants for later crops. The soil should be rich and light, of a nature that will not become compacted or caked. Many failures with seeds are due to the inability of the delicate plant to force its way through the heavy baked soil. Sow here all plants that are to be transplanted, such as cabbages, celery, sweet herbs, etc.

FARMERS EVERYWHERE ATTENTION!

THE time of Crotch-harrows, wooden Flails and wooden Ploughs have passed away forever! These things are replaced by newer and better inventions.

A THRESHING MACHINE will enable you to get your grain ready for market early in the season and at one quarter the cost of the old method!

With a good and cheap FANNERS you can raise the wind at any time!

THE subscriber in view of these facts, which must have become patent to everybody, feels that he is no longer justified in "hiding his light under a bushel," but let the farmers of this Island know that they need not be without labor-saving machinery on their farms when he is around.

Last year he sold twenty Threshing Machines, and is prepared to manufacture any number of them to order.

In that period he also sold twelve sets of Fanners, and has now on hand twenty sets of the same, of different styles and prices.

Horse-rakes, Ploughs, Harrows, and in fact every kind of implement used on a farm—short of a mowing machine—is made by him.

His work is too well known to need puffing at his hands.

If you need anything in his line, just come along or send to him at his manufactory on Union Street, Summerside, and you will have your wants attended to.

World's Hair Restorer

is suited to both young and old. It strengthens the Hair, prevents its falling or turning grey, and imparts to it a beautiful glossy appearance. It never fails to RESTORE GREY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR.

It is NOT A DYE, but acts directly upon the roots of the Hair, giving them the same vitality and luxurious quantity as in youth. It will restore it on bald places, and is easily applied by one's self. One bottle will usually last for a year, as after the hair is once restored, occasional applications once in three months will insure against grey hairs to the most advanced age.
