

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess

THE WILL TO LIVE

To life he'll have the most to give,
Who has the will to fight to live.
—Old Mother Nature.

Croaker the Raven was having a hard time. To have heard him croaking in that harsh voice of his, you might have thought he was complaining. He wasn't. Croaker isn't the complaining kind. He found out long ago that little is to be gained by complaining. It is the one who works, not the one who complains, who gets the things needed or desired.

Croaker was working hard these days, but he didn't know it. He probably would have told you he had nothing to do but find enough to eat. It wouldn't have occurred to him that it was really work. But that is just what it was. He had to do a great deal of flying, and while he was flying he had constantly to use those keen eyes of his as he searched for something to eat. He couldn't afford to miss even the smallest scrap of anything that could be eaten. By the time night came those big wings of his were tired. Sometimes it seemed to him that he couldn't flap them once more, but always he could and did because he had the will and courage to live.

There are times when it takes the finest kind of courage just to live. There are times when it would be much easier to quit trying. This is true with very many of the furred and feathered folk, especially those who spend winter in the land of snow and ice, and bitter north wind, and howling storms. Croaker the Raven was only one. His smallest cousin, Blacky the Crow, was another. But Blacky had an easier time than his big cousin. You see, Blacky long ago learned that much food is to be found around the homes of the complaining man. Also, he long ago learned the ways of man and how to get what he wants without running too much risk of being shot. So, Blacky manages to live fairly well through even the severest winter, while his big cousin, living far from the homes of man, has to fight to live.

There are others who have to do the same thing. Buster Bear can sleep through the worst part of the winter. But Puma the Panther, the Mountain Lion, cannot do this, nor can his cousin, Tufty the Lynx. Neither can Howler the Wolf, and his cousin, Old Man Coyote. Being awake they must have food, and to get their food they must hunt, and hunt, and hunt. For at this season of the year, this season of snow and ice, the ones whom they hunt are harder to find, harder to

SPECIAL DANCE

At The

ROLLAWAY
THURSDAY, JAN. 29

Sponsored by
The Student Nurses
Charlottetown Hospital
Admission 50c
Music by the Downtowners

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE INSPECTION

Any person offering the following named fruits and vegetables for sale must comply fully with the provisions as outlined in the Federal Fruit, Vegetable and Honey Act. On and after February 1st, 1933, official inspection of the fruits and vegetables indicated will be conducted under the provisions of this Act as authorized under Provincial legislation, and infractions of the regulations will be dealt with according to the penalties provided. All packages and containers must be clearly and accurately marked with the grade of the fruit and vegetable contained therein and offered for sale.

SCHEDULE OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Apples, Peaches, Cherries, Strawberries, Blueberries, Pears, Plums and Fresh Prunes, Cranberries, Potatoes, Turnips, Carrots, Field Tomatoes, Onions, Beets, Parsnips.

PROVINCIAL DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

"Dee! Dee! Dee! Dee!" called Tommy Tit from just outside the window.

catch, than at any other time. You see, many of them live under the snow, and it is only the careless ones who venture out who are caught.

So it is that these hunters in fur coats seldom know what it is not to be hungry. Sometimes there will be two or three days in which they do not have a bite to eat. All of them must have the will to live, the very finest kind of courage, or they would soon starve to death. It is the same way with certain feathered folk. Hooty the Great Horned Owl, Whitey the Snow Owl, Terror the Goshawk, and a number of the smaller birds. Some of these smaller ones must have food in order to give them the energy to fly about, and in order to make heat to keep their small bodies from freezing. Without food they may starve or freeze to death in a few hours, and many of them do. Given enough food they have the courage to live through the very worst weather.

Farmer Brown's Boy knows this. It is one reason he takes care always to have plenty of food where his feathered friends can get it easily. He has a feeding shelf at the kitchen window. He has set fastened to the trees in the Old Orchard. He long ago made a shelter of brush, and cleared away the snow under it. Here he scatters seeds and grain for the feathered folk who get most of their food on the ground. The first thing every morning he makes a round of his feeding places to see that there is plenty of food put out. He never forgets.

"Don't you think, Tommy, that you are making your feathered friends lazy?" asked Mother Brown one morning, as Tommy was putting out some seeds.

Farmer Brown's Boy shook his head. "No," said he. "They pay for every scrap of food they get. They never pick up a seed that they do not pay for."

Mother Brown looked puzzled. She was puzzled. She said as much. "I don't see how they pay," said she.

"Listen," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "Dee! Dee! Dee! Dee!" called Tommy Tit from just outside the window. "Isn't that worth a few seeds?" asked Tommy.

Contract Bridge

By Josephine Cluvertson

MAINTAINING THE STATUS QUO

An "exchange of courtesies" between South and East in the following hand put the result just where it should have been from the start.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ A 5
♥ J 8
♦ J 10 8 7 4
♣ 9 7 3

♠ J 8 6 4
♥ Q 9 7 3 2
♦ 5
♣ K J 6

♠ Q 9 3 2
♥ A 10 4
♦ A 3 2
♣ 10 5 2

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT Pass 2♦ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

South rather extended himself in leaping to three notrump over North's unencouraging two-diamond takeout, but, as it happened, his optimism was rewarded. West opened the heart three. Dummy played low; East put up the ace and returned the heart ten. Declarer correctly held up the king. West won with the queen and, hoping to regain the lead in clubs, led a third round of hearts to remove South's stopper.

Now, since there was obviously no chance for nine tricks except by establishing diamonds, declarer laid down the king. East held up the ace, but it was soon driven out by South's continued diamond leads. When East returned a club, declarer naturally declined the finesse; he won with the club ace and then could cash the rest of the diamonds and two spade tricks for his contract.

Now for the forementioned exchange of courtesies. East should have played the heart ten on the first trick — without hesitation. South was marked with the king, but even if he had Q-x-x the ten-play could do no harm. Then it would have required considerable nerve on South's part to hold up the king — for all he could tell, the hold-up would let West run the entire suit on a heart return.

Against this, however, is the fact that South could have protected himself from the ten-play by putting up dummy's jack. Then East would have been really helpless.

FINE CATTLE

Shorthorn bulls were the first beef cattle imported by Japan to improve native herds after the Second World War.

King Of The Royal Mounted

By Zane Grey

"SHUT UP, VICKI, OR I MAY DECIDE TO KILL YOU RIGHT HERE!"

"WATCH HER! WHAT'S GOING ON? WHERE AM I?"

"I HAD YOU UNDER THIS GUEST CABIN AT DEAN'S LODGE... HE'S KIDNAPED MY NICE! HELL! KILL HER!"

Rip Kirby

By Alex Raymond

"MR. KIRBY, YOU'VE BEEN JUST WONDERFUL! I CAN'T OFFER MUCH OF A REWARD, BUT..."

"I BROUGHT YOU HERE, JESSICA, FOR A LITTLE SURPRISE. JUST AS A HINT... HE WEARS A CREW CUT..."

"I SAW THAT, JESSICA... AND NOBODY DESERVES IT MORE, UNLESS IT'S ME!"

Joe Palooka

By Ham Fisher

"I HOPE ANN AIN'T SORE MY WANTIN' T' TALK TO YA ALONE."

"OF COURSE NOT! SHE'S TOO INTELLIGENT. SHE UNDERSTOOD. ARE YOU ALL RIGHT... WHAT HAPPENED?"

"AN' I DON'T WANTA EVER SEE DOT AGAIN. I NEVER FELT LOWER. I WANTA GIT BUSY... T'FORGET... YA UNDERSTAND?"

Napoleon and Uncle Elby

By Clifford McBride

Pogo

By Walt Kelly

"THERE THEY GO... NOT TELLIN' WHAT THEIR SECKET MORTAL ENEMY IS."

"'LONG AS THEY'S SHOVIN' IT ON TO HOUSE WIVES... WILL BE HOUSE WIVES... COME ON!"

"NICB PLAC YA GOT HERE, OWL... THANKS."

Tippy and "Cap" Stubs

By Edwina

"YES, I KNOW TH' DINNER'S BEIN' RUINED... WHAT CAN BE KEEPIN' CAP? I'M GETTIN' WORRIED..."

"ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME FOR THE FESTIVITIES TO BEGIN?? I CAN SEE MR. BUDGE IS GETTIN' HUNGRY..."

"GRAN'MA... WHERE'D YOU GET MR. BUDGE'S PRESENT?..."

Bringing Up Father

By George McManus

"BUT, DEAR—YOU NEVER SPOKE THAT WAY TO ME BEFORE..."

"THAT'S THE WAY TO YOU FROM NOW ON, AND DON'T LET ME HEAR ANY BACK TALK!"

"BY GOLLY—THAT'S THE RIGHT FORMULA! I'M GOING TO TELL MAGGIE EXACTLY WHAT HE TOLD HIS WIFE!"

PENNY

By Harry Hoehnigen

"THEY GO IN FOR ANTIQUES. MOTHER, THEY WON'T HAVE ANYTHING THAT ISN'T ABSOLUTELY GENUINE."

"THEIR PRIZE PIECE IS A KING HENRY THE EIGHTH. IT WAS SO OLD AND ROTTEN WHEN THEY GOT IT..."

"THEY HAD TO HAVE A NEW BACK, A NEW SEAT, NEW RINGS AND NEW LEGS MADE FOR IT..."

Henry

By Carl Anderson

"DRY CLEANER"

"DRY CLEANER"

"DRY CLEANER"

Li'l Abner

By Al Capp

"WHEN DO TH' NEXT STAGECOACH LEAVE FOR DOGGPATCH?"

"MEANWHILE, IN DOGPATCH—"

"HERE WE IS, D. YOKUM TO FACE—"

"NO! LOOKS WORRIED, D. YOKUM—"

Milly The Toiler

By Bob Gustafson

"WOW! DID WE TIE ON THE LUNCH, BY TILLY?"

"WE FOUND A SWEDISH RESTAURANT WITH A HUGE TABLE LOADED WITH FOOD FOR $2 WE COULD GET AS MUCH AS WE WANTED!"

"WELL, ANNYWAY MAC GOT HIS PLATE FIVE TIMES..."

"—AND I COULD HAVE MADE ONLY ONE PIG OF MYSELF..."

Dotty Dripple

By Ruford

"DOTTY—WHERE ARE MY SLIPPERS?"

"DID YOU LOOK IN THE CLOSET, DEAR?"

"YES!"

"DID YOU LOOK UNDER THE BED?"

Henry

By Carl Anderson

"DRY CLEANER"

"DRY CLEANER"

"DRY CLEANER"

"DRY CLEANER"