science

Science is "knowing how." The only secret about Scott's Emulsion is years of science. When made in large quantities and by improving methods, an emulsion must be more perfect than when made in the old-time way with mortar and pestle a few ounces at a time. This is why Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil never separates, keeps sweet for years, and why every spoonful is equal to every other spoonful. An even product throughout.

In other emulsions you are liable to get an uneven benefit—either an over or under dose. Get Scott's. Genuine has a salmon-colored wrapper.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save use many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame." Civil Service Gazette

LESS DRUNKENNESS.

WE DON'T BEGIN TO DRINK AS DID OUR FOREFATHERS.

This Is a Temperate Age—So Many Drunkards Other Days That Food Prices Were Low.

Intemperance is popularly supposed to be a growing evil, if not one peculiar to our own times, yet the fact is that our ancestors a century and a half ago drank three times as much beer and eight times as much spirits as we do to-day Judging by the drink figures of the middle of the last century this is decidedly a temperate age instead of the reverse

"The History of London," published about 1750, by William Maitland, F R S, contains probably the most complete and careful account that was ever printed regarding the population, the consumption of liquor and the number of public houses at that time The author was a scientific man, whose only object was to ascertain the facts, and he spared no pains to make them as accurate as possible The statistics of population were reached by an extremely careful computation of the bills of mortality, which furnish the most satisfactory data for the purpose, short of a census The number of public houses was ascertained by actual survey, and the figures of consumption were derived from the Custom House and excise returns

The population of London was found to be at that time 725,903 This seems to be approximately correct, for the number of houses was 95,968, which gives an average of nearly eight persons to a house Nowadays the houses in the English metropolis are larger, and the average is between eight and nine persons The quantity of liquor consumed by this population of three-quarters of a million is almost incredible, as will be seen from the following figures: Beer, 70,955,604 gallons; spirits, 11,205,627 gallons,and wine, 30,040 "tuns." The wine may be left out of the reckoning, because it is not certain at this day what is meant by a "tun," but the others show the following consumption per head Beer, 97 gallons; spirits, 14 gallons

The force of these figures will be appreciated when it is stated that the average consumption per head in the United Kingdom during the last thirty years has been Beer, 28 4 gallons; spirits and wine together, 1 48 gallons The highest figures recorded during these three decades are Beer, 34 gallons, in 1874; spirits and wine, 1 81 gallons, in 1875 The consumption in the United States of these beverages is somewhat less per capita

There were 654 inns and taverns, 5,975 alehouses, and 8,659 "brandy shops"—in all 15,288 houses, for the consumption of liquor on the premises in this age, which has been called by contemporary writers a besotted one There was, therefore, one pothouse to every six other structures, and one to every forty-seven persons In 1891 the proportions were one to sixty-three and one to 550 respectively At the present day, even if the total number of retail licenses of all sorts, both for consumption of liquor on the premises and off, is taken, including grocers' licenses and those for restaurants, they only represent one to every 430 persons The drinking places in London in the last century were, therefore, nearly ten times as numerous, according to the population, as they are to-day

The largest number of these old-time drinking places were the "brandy shops," or places where strong spirits were sold almost exclusively The majority of these were in the poorer quarters of London, in the East End and on the Surrey side of the Thames Alehouses were everywhere, being pretty evenly distributed, but they were more numerous in the better parts of town

This seems to throw some light on the habits of the working classes of that time and to dispose of the idea that bar drinking is a modern invention As a matter of fact, the public house was even less a place of real refreshment and more of a mere bar than it is to-day

The most striking fact contained in the foregoing figures is the prodigious quantity of spirits consumed In 1685 the distilling business in England received such favorable legislation that it increased with incredible rapidity and the product was sold at an astonishing low figure compared with the prices in vogue to-day Up to the latter part of the seventeenth century the English lower classes had been almost exclusively beer drinkers, but when the stronger form of alcohol became cheap they took to it with avidity, and the demand was almost equal to the supply In the course of forty years the amount produced ran up from 500,000 to nearly 10,000,000 gallons per annum, and a great deal was imported in addition At the same time the consumption of beer fell off, but not to a corresponding extent

The list of spirits that were drunk in those days includes thirteen different varieties, but several of them—such as "citron" and "cordial waters," Geneva, Hungary waters, rackee and usquebaugh—were only consumed in very small quantities These were all imported The British distilleries turned out but three kinds, "malt spirits," "cyder spirits," and "molasses spirits," of which the first represented three-fourths of the total spirituous consumption It was doubtless what is now known as gin, and it was then the universal drink of the lower classes The only other kinds used in large quantities were foreign brandy and rum The amount of whiskey—which was known as "usquebaugh," and was imported from Ireland—was very small

Gin must have been extraordinary cheap, as it was at this time that the publicans hung out the famous sign, "Drunk for one penny; dead drunk for two pence; straw for nothing" The truth of this legend has been denied, but it originated with Smollett, the novelist, who lived at that time, and it is backed up by Lecky, the historian, so there is no reason for doubting its accuracy Hogarth's Gin lane was less a caricature than a realistic sketch of everyday scenes in the metropolis

According to Mr Maitland, who is, as has been said, the best authority extant upon the subject, for he wrote as a scientific contemporary observer, the addiction of the people to spirits was so general and so great as to affect the price of food "The excessive drinking of spirituous liquors," he says, "has so enervated the stomachs of the populace as to render them incapable of digestion, whereby the appetite is so much depraved that its inclination to food is lessened and the consumption of provisions greatly diminished, which has occasioned victuals instead of rising to fall in price very considerably, to the no small loss of the landed interest"

Attempts were made to check the evil by legislation, but at first they were too

Reservoirs of Poison.

The Great Life Fluid Contaminated.

Paine's Celery Compound Cleanses the System and Gives Healthy Circulation.

The Blood is Made Red. Rich and Pure.

Buoyant Health, Elastic Spirit: Clear, Fair Skin and Good Digestion When the Great Health-giver is Used

Thousands of human beings are veritable reservoirs of poison. The great life-fluid, the blood, is foully contaminated, and clogged to such an extent that it circulates but sluggishly. Instead of carrying and distributing nourishment to every part of the system, the poisoned blood is developing disease and death.

Why is it that the blood becomes foul and poisoned? Simply because of debility of the nervous system, which leaves the excretory organs so weak that they cannot remove the waste matter, and noxious seeds remain in the system, carrying death-dealing disease to every tissue of the body.

It is in the healing and curing of blood-poisoned men and women that Paine's Celery Compound shows its victorious and conquering powers

The great Compound is the only true and effective blood cleanser and blood-enricher in the world, and vitalizing and life-giving effects have never been approached by any other medicine.

Salt rheum, scrofula, erysipelas, and the most deadly of blood diseases soon yield to the magical power of Paine's Celery Compound. After the use of a few bottles the life-blood circulates healthily, and goes on its regular course to heart, lungs, brain and every part of the body, removing all disturbing elements, giving full spirits, clear and fair skin, good digestion and perfect health.

Now is the time to purify and cleanse the blood, so that the whole system may be put in perfect order to meet the coming hot weather.

The following letter from Mr. A. E Hammond, Mansonville, P. Q., speaks volumes in favor of the world's best medicine:

Some five years ago it was my sad misfortune to be afflicted with scrofula sores, of which I had five one leg and three on the other. These were running sores for four years. In addition to this I was taken down with rheumatism in the small of the back so badly that I could not get off my bed; and to further intensify my sufferings, I had sick headache in the worst form.

"While in this condition, a friend of mine, Mr. Perkins, a merchant of this place, sold me a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, with the express understanding that if it did me no good I should pay nothing for it.

"In accepting this offer, I had no idea of ever feeling under any obligation to pay for the Compound, as I had no faith in its doing me good. To my very great surprise, however, I grew better; and by the time I had used three bottles I was as well as ever, and what I never expected to see was realized, viz., the sores on my leg were entirely healed.

"There are many other cases of wonderful cures in this locality from the use of the same great agency, and no case of failure has ever been recorded, nor can there ever be one, in my opinion, after such tests as I have personally witnessed I am thirty-six years of age, and have always lived in this place.

Reverence for the Bible.

There is a sin prevalent in our households of which we take little note, which, in fact, we encourage either by an indifference to it, or by an active participation in its folly and wickedness; the use of the Word of God for the purpose of making riddles, conundrums, puzzling questions, anagrams, etc., etc., out of it. If we really believe in the Divine origin of the Bible can it be right to give it to children that they may construe its words into odd connections, and make sport and laughter and mental legerdemain from its pages? Is it likely they will reverence on other occasions what has previously been food for their amusement? It is not, and we need not be astonished if the boys and girls who have been permitted to turn the leaves of their Bibles for pastime and entertainment, turn them in after years to find pretext for their infidelity.—Amelia E. Barr, in Ladies' Home Journal.

WHY CONTEMPLATE SUICIDE.

It is like tempting Providence for consumptives to ignore the remarkable remedy known as Miller's Emulsion of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. For any person to lie of consumption without trying this remarkable flesh and blood maker, after knowing of its existence, is suicide pure and simple. All that the consumptive patient needs is new blood with which to battle against the destructive forces of the disease. Miller's Emulsion provides new blood in abundance. It is a combination of Norwegian oil and hypophosphites of lime and soda—a triumph of science. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all Lung affections. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

FORCE OF HABITS.

London People have Become used to the Great Specific Remedy.

LONDON, May 11.—The despatch from Detroit with reference to the cure from Bright's disease and blood poison of Mr. Langley, of this city, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills has recalled the wonderful facts of the case to the citizens, among whom Mr. Langley is well known. It has reminded them that Mrs. Langley among others also made an equally wonderful recovery. The use of the pills, however, has become so universal here and there has been so many instances in which they have been used with beneficial results that a similar case would hardly excite as much interest now as it did then, when the medicine was less known.

Completely Knocked Out.

"I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and am now feeling as I did years ago." Scott's Sarsaparilla tones up the entire system, purifies the blood, and eradicates rheumatic and scrofulous poison. Ask for Scott's and get it.

"I think it is mean of you to say that the count is good for nothing."

Kind Words from the Fred Victor Mission Bible Class.

On behalf of the Fred Victor Mission Bible Class I wish to express our gratitude to you for the box of Chase's Ointment which you supplied in aid of our charitable work to the infant child of Mrs. Brownrig, 162 River street. Ten days ago the child was awfully afflicted with scald head, the face being literally one scab from forehead to chin, and in that brief time a complete cure has been effected. Surely your gift was worth more than its weight in gold.

"To My Life's End."

Old age brings many aches and pains which must be looked after if health is to be maintained. This depends more than anything else on the kidneys. "I am 85 years old," writes A. Duffin, farmer, Aultsville, Ont., "and have had kidney trouble five years. My son advised Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I obtained immediate relief. I shall use them to my life's end." You will find Chase's Pills equally effective for that lame back,

"Why do you always select a poor partner at whist?"

The Weather for Colds.

This is the time when colds are in the fashion—everybody who is anybody, has one, if not himself there's one in the family. For no complaint under the sun are there more remedies than for a cold in the head, but of the thousands Chase's Catarrh Cure is the best. "In twelve hours I was cured of a bad cold in the head by Chase's Cure," writes Miss Dwyer, Alliston, Ont. 25c. of all druggists, with blower free.

HEART DISEASE STRIKES DOWN ALL CLASSES.

The Essential Matter is to be Prepared for any Emergency.

It is painful to pick up the daily papers and observe how people of all classes are being stricken down with heart disease and apoplexy. One day it is the farmer in the field, again the laborer carrying his hod, or as this week a prominent architect in Ottawa. Perhaps it is not too strong a statement that 80 per cent. of the people of Canada are afflicted with heart disease to some degree. What a blessing it is then, that there exists a medicine like Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart which is so quick in producing relief. Instantly the patient obtains that ease that is so longed for when the heart is afflicted. There is absolutely no case of heart disease that it will not help and with few exceptions,will produce a radical cure.

When Captain General Weyler returns to Spain he will be forced to meet General Bernal on the field of honor. Last Wednesday evening Bernal inflicted upon General Weyler the most humiliating insult that can be offered to a Spanish officer. With the flat of his hand he struck Weyler a blow in the face and called him a liar and poltroon, and accused him of being a traitor to Spain. This took place in the Captain General's room in the palace and was witnessed by two of the Captain General's military staff. It was the most exciting scene ever enacted in the palace.

Intense Pain from Sciatica, the Mystic Remedy, South American Rheumatic Cure, Conquers in Two Days.

The following comes from the wealthy lumberman, of Merrickville, Ont., Mr. E. Errett: For a number of years I have suffered intense pain from rheumatism and sciatica in my left hip. It is needless to say I have doctored constantly, but without receiving anything but temporary relief. South American Rhematic Cure was at last tried and its effect was truly magical. In two days the pain was all gone, and two bottles of the remedy cured me completely. I was so bad that I could not lie on my left side if I got the universe for so doing. At present I have not a symptom of sciatica or rheumatism, and hence it is with much pleasure that I recommend this great remedy. I know it will cure.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Wood's Phosphodine.—The Great English Remedy.

Is the result of over 35 years treating thousands of cases with all known drugs, until at last we have discovered the true remedy and treatment—a combination that will effect a prompt and permanent cure in all stages of Sexual Debility, Abuse or Excesses, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Mental Worry, Excessive Use of Opium, Tobacco, or Alcoholic Stimulants, all of which soon lead to Insanity, Consumption and an early grave. Wood's Phosphodine has been used successfully by hundreds of cases that seemed almost hopeless—cases that had been treated by the most talented physicians—cases that were on the verge of despair and insanity—cases that were tottering over the grave—but with the continued and persevering use of Wood's Phosphodine, these cases that had been given up to die, were restored to manly vigor and health—Reader you need not despair—no matter who has given you up as incurable—the remedy is now within your reach, by its use you can be restored to a life of usefulness and happiness.

Price, one package, $1; six packages, $5; by mail free of postage.
One will please, six guaranteed to cure. Pamphlet free to any address.
