

THE DAILY EXAMINER. MAY 30, 1891.

The Result in the First District.

Dr. McNeill fought gallantly against overwhelming odds; and he obtained a strong minority vote. Of this he may well, under all the circumstances, be proud.

The First District of Queen's and the Province at large have, by the election of yesterday, obtained the services of Mr. A. B. Warburton. As a private gentleman, Mr. Warburton has exhibited some public spirit.

Academical Exercises.

As there is not—as there cannot be—a Convocation Hall in Prince of Wales College Building, the idea of having the closing exercises of the academical year in Philharmonic Hall, was, as the event proved, a good one.

The most pronounced feature of the exercises was the singing. Without the aid of piano or orchestral accompaniment, with nothing to sustain the voices or drown discordant sounds, the students, en masse, under direction of Rev. Professor Lloyd, sang glees and anthems to the pleasure and satisfaction of the audience.

taken, as it appears to be one in the right direction.

The Debating Club, which is an established society, has not been allowed to languish this year.

During the session the invigorating game of football has not been neglected, although its success has been retarded by the unfavorable condition of the College grounds.

We hope the suggestion for the founding of an Alma Mater Club may shortly take form and become an institution of this College.

Dr. Anderson, Principal of Prince of Wales College, we now take leave of you. In parting we have much that we would like to say in reference to the past; and of the enthusiastic manner in which you have conducted your classes, of the spirit which you have given to the work, and of the knowledge you have fostered within us.

Prof. Caven, it is with sad hearts we say good-bye to you, remembering as we do, the many happy hours spent in your classes. We shall ever remember you as a kind and faithful teacher willing to assist us in every difficulty.

Rev. Prof. Lloyd, we bid you adieu. The music class which you have directed will be of greater benefit than can immediately be seen. The knowledge acquired certainly affords a good foundation for those who pursue that particular course.

Fellow students, we too must part. Many happy friendships have been formed as we have met together from day to day. The oneness of our pursuits and studies have in themselves a tendency to awaken sympathies and friendly rivalries not found in any other form of friendship.

Kind friends and citizens of Charlottetown, we bid you good-bye, and in doing so we wish to thank you for your kindness on all occasions, but more especially for the willing assistance you rendered us when assistance was required.

As we now take a last farewell of you all, Professors, fellow-students and citizens, we know that other forms shall arise upon your social and mental horizon even as we now recede. But the impressions received are carved on the marble of our memory—impressions which shall not be speedily effaced by the shifting waves of life.

Notes and Comments.

—Remarking upon the fact that the Globe has started again to blame Lord Stanley for allowing Sir John Macdonald to dissolve parliament last spring, the Montreal Gazette says: "The people had this matter before them on the 5th of March, and approved both of Lord Stanley's conduct and of his Ministers. Somebody should tell the Globe that the elections of 1891 are over."

—Newspaper advertising agencies are not in the habit of giving away much, but the Wilson Advertising Agency is sending out a very pretty newspaper rule, a most useful article to publisher and advertiser.

—The Montreal Gazette says: "A writer in the European Messenger, commenting upon the report of Mr. Vishnegradsky, the Russian minister of finance for 1890, draws the gloomiest pictures of the sufferings of all classes of Russians, and says that inevitable financial ruin is bound to overtake the Russian empire. The writer referred to also declares that the depletion of the coffers of the treasury with gold is not needed in a country where paper has a forced circulation. This gold, according to the writer, has been obtained by wholesale taxation and ruination of the people. In conclusion, the writer says the apparent financial success of Russia is a delusion because it is not based on an improved economical condition."

—The Toronto Globe remarks: "Mr. J. A. McPhail, B. A., M. D., Montreal, gained a prize of $250 given by the American Humane Education Society for an essay on vivisection. The essay has recently been published in pamphlet form, with emendations by the author. The essay is a careful review of the case for and against vivisection, and the author's conclusion is that vivisection should not be interfered with because it has corrected and extended our knowledge of the functions of the human body, and of the processes of disease, has tested remedies, has discovered or ascertained means of preventing contagion and checking epidemics, and has aided in the detection of poison; and because all this information could have been obtained in no other way."

News Notes.

The late John J. Farris, of New York, bequeaths $260,000 to charitable institutions.

The Newfoundland delegates are again to be heard before the bar of the House of Commons.

The opium ring at San Francisco is said to have robbed the Government of $1,200,000 on an cargo of opium which they succeeded in smuggling in.

A private letter from the City of Mexico says there is much reason to believe that the Mexican government is secretly siding the Chilean insurgents.

There are 5,000 prisoners in Russia awaiting suitable weather for their transportation to Siberia. The prisoners will be voluntarily accompanied by their wives and families, numbering 10,000 persons.

Lieut. Grant, who, with ninety men took Fort Thobal from 3,000 Manipur rebels and checked the insurrection, has been promoted and received the Victoria Cross. The "For Valour" device which his decoration bears is no misnomer in this instance.

By the Queen's desire the granddaughter of the Prince of Wales will bear only the title of lady. This is a return to old usage, the royal highness business being a comparatively modern innovation, without being a decided improvement. "Lady" is a simple title, and when worthily worn leaves the possessor in rank second to none.

The Bishop of London, the Right Hon. and Right Rev. Frederick Temple, received a mysterious letter last week warning him that an attempt would be made to assassinate him at the ordinance service held in St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday last. The bishop placed the letter in the hands of the police, who took steps to protect the prelate and tried to find the writer of the letter. Detectives carefully watched the cathedral, but with no results. Other police officers tried to trace the mysterious letter, but did not meet with success. It is believed the threat was genuine, but the would-be assassin's plans were frustrated by the vigilance of the police officials, who are still making strenuous efforts to find the identity of the writer.
