

The Daily Examiner

SEPTEMBER 5, 1885.

Editorial Notes.

It is proposed in Montreal to erect a statue of the late Sir Francis Hincks in the Parliament grounds, Ottawa, similar to that of the late George Cartier.

President Cleveland could have turned out 2,500 Postmasters and put in Democrats in their places. He has only removed 193. He has appointed 467, the remaining officers being vacated by sickness, death or resignation.

They have been trying biennial sessions of the Legislature in New Hampshire, and the result is described thus by one of the journals there:—"Biennial sessions have not brought the millennium in this State, but they have saved the State $75,000 annually."

When we re-consider our remarks made a few days ago of the grass growing by the side of sidewalks, we see two good qualities in this untidiness. In the first place it shows strangers how wonderfully fertile our soil is, and secondly it certainly counteracts the bad air of the town, for plant's food is man's poison.

The Prince of Wales has sent a letter to Sir Charles Tupper requesting that "the display of live fish and the hatching of fish common to the Dominion of Canada, and the various appliances relating thereto, may form part of the exhibits of that colony at the forthcoming Colonial and Indian exhibition of 1886.

Those Montreal physicians, says the Toronto Globe, who refuse to report small-pox cases in order to conceal the true extent of the epidemic are, besides being enemies of the public, traitors to their profession. As the recognized guardians of the public health, their conduct is disgraceful. The law should provide stringent penalties for such criminal contempt of duty.

It would not be fair nor true to say that the Street Committee of the City Council have done anything towards repairing the streets and sidewalks, but one serious neglect demands mention. Queen Street is in a very lamentable condition, especially between Dorchester and Grafton Streets, where it is impossible to derive any pleasure from driving, and where it is doubly difficult for heavily laden horses to drag their loads. We tremble when we think what it will be in the winter, and trust our City Fathers will agree upon at least this point: That it is essential to the welfare of a commercial centre that its principal street be in good repair, and that for pleasure-seekers the most frequented street be not so rough that a carriage can be driven only at snail's pace over it.

It is characteristic of the present inactivity of the City Council in the matter of making the city and suburbs at least not pestiferous, that in our report of a late meeting we had to dismiss the subject of the nuisance at Spring Park Bridge with the words "no action was taken in the matter." We read how Montreal is affected by the smallpox, we shudder as we read of the ravages of cholera in Spain and France, we are in fear and trembling lest we, too, be visited in like manner, and we see with indifference that fevers are so prevalent among us; yet it is deemed sufficient that a few yards are cleaned out, while such a plague spot as the brook at Spring Park Bridge pollutes the air, and bears disease to man and beast alike. The Woollen Factory took steps to remedy their pollution of the brook, but here the subject rests, for "no action was taken in the matter." We presume the families of the neighborhood pay their taxes, (if they do not they should be forced to) and though their road is perhaps the most disreputable approach to town from want of police vigilance and street improvements, they deserve at least this much from the City Council—that such a death-breathing scourge as that vitiated stream is, be attended to before it is too late.

The following statement of the earnings and expenses of the Canadian Pacific Railroad for the month of July, and for the seven months ending July 31st of the present year, shows that the business of the road is rapidly increasing, and that it is daily growing in popular favor. The corporation statement between the profits of the road this year and those of the corresponding period of last year proves beyond the possibility of contradiction that the road is in a flourishing condition and warrants the conclusion that as a commercial enterprise it is bound to succeed.

STATEMENT OF EARNINGS AND EXPENSES. Table with columns for Jan. 1 to July 31, 1885, and July 1 to July 31, 1884. Rows include Gross earnings, Working expenses, Net profits, etc.

The gain in net profits over the same period is therefore, for July, 1885, $290,884.48; and from January 1st to July 31st, $1,496,046.10. The gross earnings for July include $127,776 for construction material, as against $86,815 during the same period last year, but, as it was carried at absolute cost the net result is not affected.

Hallelujah Wedding.

STAFF-CAPT. WYATT AND CAPT. GUBBINS, SAVED ARMY, UNITED—TWO SOULS WITH BUT A SINGLE THOUGHT, TWO HEARTS THAT BEAT AS ONE—AN EVENT FOR WHICH THERE WAS GREAT PREPARATION—A PROFUSION OF BUNTING, FLORAL OFFERINGS AND KISSES.

(British Whig, Kingston, Ont.)

The hallelujah wedding occurred in the Ontario Hall last night. The building was very elaborately decorated with bunting, bannerettes and mottoes. The thing to catch the eye was the "Welcome to All." The sides and back of the platform were ornamented with the Stars and Stripes and Union Jacks. A little after 8 o'clock, when the hall was nearly filled, Mr. McLanolin, confectioner, ran up the centre aisle and deposited a handsome three-story wedding cake on a little stand. He did this amid the "Ohs!" and smiles of the ladies. The cake was flanked with elegant bouquets, and they grew in beauty side by side. The people now craned their necks in quest of the bride who had not been seen to enter the hall. She had arrived early, occupied a most retired spot, and carried herself modestly. Rev. Mr. Shortt at last arrived and the proceedings began with singing and prayer. Gen. Lindsay addressed the audience briefly, commending the contracting parties who were about to be married. Rev. Mr. Shortt called for the bridal party. Staff Capt. Wyatt and Capt. Gubbins rose up and slowly stepped upon the platform. Private Hornbrook and Capt. McGregor followed and wheeled up on the left. On the right of the bridal party stood Mr. W. J. Moore and Mrs. Wyatt, the latter the mother of the groom. He is a good looking and well conducted young man, and appeared exceedingly well in his handsome dark suit. The coat was profusely braided and the gold braid stripes on his pants was an inch in width. On his breast and looped through a silver emblem of the Saved Army was a pond lily. The bride was attired in army costume and she carried a bouquet of highly perfumed flowers. She was pretty and intelligent, and her responses were clearly and firmly made. The ceremony over Staff-Captain Wyatt kissed his bride and then she was kissed by her mother and Mr. Moore.

Staff Capt. Wyatt is a native of Charlottetown and visited here last summer in the interest of the Army.

King's County Rifle Association.

The annual shooting match of King's County Rifle Association took place on the Georgetown Rifle Range, on Saturday, the 22nd ult. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Contradiction.

SIR,—In the Weekly Patriot of last week there appeared a communication headed "Another Cow Story." The writer charges some person living not over 100 miles from the Tullock Farm, with obtaining prizes for cattle as thoroughbreds, which had been purchased without pedigree. The public knows that this insinuation is false, but it is no secret that a farmer residing in the immediate vicinity of Tullock Farm entered for prizes at our last exhibition two pens of young pigs, representing one pen to be pure bred Yorks, and the other to be pure bred Yorks, while they all belonged to the one litter.

I am yours, etc., THOMAS BERRIGAN. East Royalty, Sept. 11, 1885.

Government Pond.

SIR,—That horrible nuisance known as the Government Pond, in this city, is just now drained and presenting a very revolting appearance. The proper authorities should take immediate steps to fill this pond up with brush and clay, leaving a water course in the centre to carry off the contents of the tanneries, woollen mills, and other deposits. Thus converting that which is now a nuisance into a valuable piece of ground; and as it joins the exhibition field, it could be utilized for exhibition purposes to good advantage.

It is hoped that in the interest of the general public this pond will soon be made available for useful and ornamental purposes. Yours, &c., RUSTIC.

A Widow's Vengeance.

SHE KILLS THE MAN WHO ASSAULTED HER WITH CRIMINAL INTENT.

A terrible story of wrong done and swift retribution therefor comes from Belleville, Ont., in which a widow is shown to have used an axe with deadly effect. Martin Archibald, a farmer in the township of Huntingdon, became influenced with liquor and broke into the house of a widow, Mrs. Mary Adams, who lived with her son on the side of the village road. The man who has a wife and family of his own, tried to get into the house and was warned off by the woman. He persisted, and breaking down the door seized Mrs. Adams and threw her to the floor. Helpless in his strong grasp she called her son to her assistance. He quickly responded, and struck Archibald with an axe with such force as to compel him to loose his hold of the prostrate woman. At that instant the widow broke from her persecutor, regained her feet and seizing the axe rained blows upon Archibald's head and body until he lay at her feet dying. She then left the house and gave herself up to a neighbor, saying that she had killed Archibald in her own defence.

Dr. Boulter endeavored in vain to save the man's life. He found no less than seven wounds upon Archibald's head and five upon his shoulders. Archibald cannot recover. He is fifty years old. As his family is widely known the affair has caused a sensation in the neighborhood. Opinion applauds the widow's desperate defense.

These Reapers have five rates, instead of four, and our experience with the five-rate Reaper, for the past five harvests, in all kinds of grain—light and heavy, long and short, standing and lodged,—has satisfied the farmers that it is a very great improvement over the four-rate Harvester.
