Recalls Promise Of Federal Bldg.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 — W. Chester S. McLure last night, over the chiding of the Speaker of the Commons, gave the government a sharp dig for the broken promise of 10 years of a new post office building for Charlottetown.

He was speaking in the discussion of better pay for rural mail carriers, and, without a hint of warning cracked: "The first thing that comes to my mind when we talk of mail is something regarding my own constituency, and the new post office that has been promised us for over 10 years. It seems to be dangling again because of the fact, I presume, that a federal general election is not far away."

Here it was that Mr. Speaker jumped in to say: "I hope the honorable member is only making a passing reference to the post office building."

"Dangling is right, that is what the government is doing," chipped in Stanley Knowles, OCF MP for Winnipeg North Centre.

"I just thought that possibly it would be well," continued Mr. McLure, "to remind the House that I had not forgotten the promise that has been made for 10 years or more. This is all I wish to say about this election year dangling of the new post office before our eyes."

Having had his say, Mr. McLure went after the government for its record of under-paying and over-working rural mailmen. The pay was so nigardly, he reported, that many of the rural mailmen found after paying for their equipment and the maintenance, they were working almost for charity. The government's compensation of them had been routinely chiseling.

Fresh Help For Refugees From East Germany

BERLIN, Jan. 30 — (AP)—Fresh help came today for refugees fleeing the Communist terror in East Germany.

The American Joint Distribution Committee, a Jewish agency, is carrying special relief machinery to care for the Jewish refugees, 20 more of whom slipped into West Berlin today.

A West German spokesman in Bonn announced the United Nations high commissioner for refugees, Dr. G. J. Van Heuven Goedart, has allotted $100,000 from a Ford Foundation grant to build shelters for the homeless when they are flown to West Germany. The United States yesterday released $60,000 in Marshall Plan funds to buy such things as food, bedding and medicine.

Some of the escaping Jews said they were threatened by secret police with execution and with the death of their children unless they agreed to spy on other Jews. They long questioned for hours, forbidden to leave their homes, their documents seized, their mail intercepted and their telephones tapped.

Four hundred Jews are among the thousands of East Germans who have fled to the West in recent weeks, leaving only about 2,500 Jews in all East Germany and East Berlin.

News In Brief

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Jan. 30 (Reuters)—Dr. Robert Herold, 76, founder of the International Bureau Against Alcoholism died here last night. For 50 years he had organized international congresses against alcoholism in many European countries.

BOGOTA, Jan. 30 — (AP) — A Canadian trade mission headed by Trade Minister C. D. Howe conferred here yesterday with Colombian officials and business men. The Canadians were luncheon guests of Foreign Minister Juan Uribe Holguin.

TORONTO, Jan. 30 — (CP) — A 20-year-old girl today was awarded $11,691 for disfigurement suffered in a collision Sept. 22. Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier said Bernice Casselman suffered "a vivid scar and disfigurement (which) will long be a hardship in her enjoyment of life."

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 — (CP) — Extension of Canadian territorial waters to protect fisheries on the coast from depletion by foreign fishers was suggested today in the Commons.

Members heard proposals that the existing three-mile limit, within which foreign ships are not allowed to fish, be enlarged to a headland-to-headland basis or possibly as far out as the continental shelf.

The discussion came as the Commons debated an "Act To Protect The Coastal Fisheries," rewriting an old measure that has not been amended since 1913. The bill was given second reading—approval in principle.

The idea that Canadian territorial waters be broadened was suggested by C. W. Carter (L—Burrin) and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Parke, VC, (PC—Nanaimo), members from the east and west coasts.

For the east-coast fishery, Mr. Carter said a line might be drawn from Cape Sable, at the southern tip of Nova Scotia, to Cape Race, at Newfoundland's east coast. Carter, who has an east coast fishery, said he would enclose a large map of the Grand Banks.

"If that does not prove feasible," he said, "I think the time will come when we shall have to give some thought to whether or not we might extend our territorial waters to the continental shelf."

The relatively-shallow shelf extends out from the continental shelf out for varying distances up to about 200 miles.

New Provision The measure itself does not deal with the definition of territorial waters. Largely an up-to-date edition of an outdated 1868 statute, its chief new provision is one giving the Government power to license fishing vessels of any foreign country to enter any Canadian port, provided they can enter Newfoundland harbors freely, under the continuance of a pre-confederation set-up in that province. Also, United States vessels have entry to Maritimes and Pacific ports under certain conditions.

Government officials have said that the change in the law is designed to provide largely to give Canada some bargaining power with European countries such as Portugal, which has ships fishing off the Canadian coast but which also buys fish from Canada. These ships supply themselves on this side of the Atlantic.

There was some disagreement among Newfoundland members of the house as to how far the Government should go in using the new act as a bargaining weapon for fish sales.

Mr. Carter said he thinks the time has come when Canada should "use some of our bargaining power" with Portugal, a big buyer of Newfoundland salt fish. In recent years that country had been "driving a much harder bargain" than in the past as to price and quality standards.

Army Defends Operation Smack

SEOUL, Jan. 31 — (Saturday) — (AP)— Eighth Army headquarters today defended "Operation Smack" as fully justified, well planned, but imperfectly executed. A Sunday 150-man raid on the western front, witnessed by field commanders and newspaper men, "was in no way designed as a demonstration for spectator benefit," said a three page statement from headquarters of the Eighth Army's retiring commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet.

forms part of a triple-barrelled case before the board, involving: 1. An application by the CNR and CPR for a seven-per-cent increase in rates to cover increased costs of operations. Railway evidence on this request was concluded before the board today.

2. A request by the Railway Association of Canada for a new principle of rate-making in Canada, under which the CPR would be allowed to earn a stated annual yield on its railway investment. The association also requested the CNR, but the CNR is not specifically named in the application.

3. A request for a nine-per-cent boost in rates, predicated on the board's approval of the new principle of rate-making. The CPR has asked for a 6.5-per-cent return on investment, and the nine-per-cent boost would only yield an estimated return of five per cent. The railway proposed that the rate increase be increased to make the 6.5-per-cent return possible.

Hugh O'Donnell, CNR counsel, said he believes the company's position has been set out in the application. There would be no doubt where his company stood once he had given argument.

Argument on the seven-per-cent case and the new rate-making principle was to start next Monday. Over the objections of J. J. Prawn, Alberta counsel, John O'Brien, attorney for the CPR, said some argument would be presented also on the nine-per-cent case.

dian waters and the fish taken to Mr. MacNaught assured consideration of all suggestions made on changes in the bill.

Best Time For Woodlot Clearing

That now is the ideal time for farmers to be busy clearing out their woodlots is the opinion of Mr. R. C. Parent, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm here. At the present time members of the Farm staff are busy thinning the woodlot at the Upton Farm. They are removing dead and unprofitable trees such as fir, and leaving the young healthy spruce which grows fast.

Mr. Parent has noticed that many woodlots of the Province are neglected and believes that much could be done to make them productive of real cash crops.

All the woodlots on the Illustration Stations throughout the Province are managed in the same competent manner as those on the Farms here. Mr. Parent says that primarily this is being done through selective cutting.

Plans Under Way For Agricultural Conference Here

The sixth annual Agricultural Conference to be held at Birch Court, Experimental Farm, Feb. 10, will bring together all officials of every agricultural office both Federal and Provincial. Presiding will be the president of the Agricultural Council, Mr. F. M. Nash, district manager for poultry products, Federal Department of Agriculture. He will briefly address the gathering Tuesday morning, Feb. 10, and introduce Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture, who will deliver an address.

Highlight of the opening day will be the appointment of the new officers for the coming year. At the present time Mr. George W. Ayres, Laboratory Plant Pathologist, is the vice-president, while Mr. A. G. LeLacheur, Plant Products Division, is the secretary. During the morning and afternoon sessions the council will hear brief reports on the Experimental Station, Provincial Department of Agriculture, Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Entomological Laboratory, Vocational School and Seed Potato Certification. Short discussions on the reports will follow.

The various committees named last year have been holding meetings this time in advance of the conference to permit more time on their work. The results of the studies will be presented in the form of recommendations at the conference and all attending will have an opportunity of discussing them.

These will deal with plant diseases and pests, poultry, junior extension, women's work activities, potatoes, the council on horticulture and apiculture, consumer producer, marketing and soils and crops.

vidence of depletion on the Atlantic banks and that there is need of protective fishery.

"I think the only way to do that is by international agreement concerning large dragners," he said.

W. F. Carroll (I—Inverness-Richmond) said there should be some sort of convention between Canada and the United States, particularly, to define jurisdictional limits.

The protective service around Cape Breton Island was "very poor." Recently an American vessel had destroyed the trawls of three Cape Breton fishermen valued at $700. He had made inquiries and had been told that a Canadian protective vessel had gone to the scene and though it reported it believed the American vessel had been inside the three-mile limit, it was "not equipped" to make sure through cross bearings.

Thomas Kirk (L—Digby-Yarmouth) said fishermen in his constituency were worried about foreign dragners which they claimed were operating within the three-mile limit at night. He welcomed the bill and the penalties it provided as an instrument against foreign vessels invading Canadian waters.
