LAW OF SELF DEFENSE.

The English Theory of Where Protection Ends and Revenge Begins.

The right of self defense is by some old writers declared to be inherent in all men by the law of nature. Now, these "natural rights" are all very well, but they are not recognized by the law of Great Britain. It is the law that a man may defend himself, his wife, child or servant from physical aggression. He may also repel by force a forcible attack upon his property. When you, or your wife, child, or servant is attacked, or threatened with violence in such a manner as reasonably to lead you to believe that violence is about to be used, you may resist the aggressor. And as the best mode of resistance is very often to attack, you may lawfully follow the advice given by an old prize-fighter to a pupil—i. e., "get in the first whack."

But self defense must be moderate. It must not be totally disproportionate to the attack. For instance, if a hulking ruffian runs at me with a knife, I may shoot him. But if he runs at me merely with his fists clinched, and I shoot him dead with a revolver, I shall probably be hanged by the neck. Not that the law expects a man to be calm and cool and collected in all circumstances. By no means. For instance, if the said burly ruffian rushes at me with clinched fists, evidently meaning mischief, and I hit him with a heavy stick on the back of the ear, I may kill him. But I shall not be hanged for that. I had a right to use the stick, and in the circumstances I am not to be supposed to be cool enough to aim for a spot not likely to be fatal. Again, self defense must not develop into revenge. Thus, if I am threatened with a knife, and by the timely display of a pistol I frighten my assailant so that he runs away, I must not shoot after him. If I do, I am just as liable as though he had never threatened me, because I shoot at him not in self defense, but by way of punishment or revenge.—Family Lawyer.

LAW OF THE UMBRELLA.

An Important Opinion That Has Been Ascribed to Lord Coleridge.

The law as to umbrellas was settled once for all by Lord Coleridge in a leading English case. His lordship held: "Umbrellas, properly considered, are a part of the atmospheric or meteorological condition, and as such there can be no individual property right in them. In Sampson versus Thompson defendant was charged with standing on plaintiff's front steps during a storm and thereby soaking up a large quantity of rain to which plaintiff was entitled. But the court held that the rain was any man's rain, no matter where it fell. It follows, therefore, that the umbrella is any man's umbrella. In all ages rain and umbrellas have gone together, and there is no reason why they should be separated in law. An umbrella may, under certain circumstances—the chief of which is possession—take on the attributes of personal property, just as if a man set a tub and catch a quantity of rainwater, that rainwater will be considered as his personal belonging while it is in his tub. But if the sun evaporate the water and it is rained down again or if the tub is upset and the water spilled then the attribute of personal ownership instantly disappears. So if a man hold his umbrella in his hand it may be considered a personal belonging, but the moment it leaves his hand it returns to the great, general, indivisible, common stock of umbrellas, whither the law will not attempt to pursue it."

So far as we know there has never been a successful appeal from this decision.—Chicago News.

A Disturbing Sermon.

Many years ago an English clergyman in a small town preached as his own a sermon, one that he had bought, and which had been originally preached in London when the plague was raging in that city. After reproving the vice of the people, the sermon went on:

"For this vice it is that God has visited you and your families with that cruel scourge, the plague, which is now spreading everywhere in this town."

At his uttering these words the people were all so thunderstruck that the chief magistrate was obliged to go to the pulpit and to ask him:

"For God's sake, sir, pardon the interruption, and inform me where the plague is, that I may instantly endeavor to prevent its further spreading."

"The plague, sir," replied the preacher. "I know nothing about the plague. Whether it is in the town or not, it is in my homily."

DAIRY PRODUCE

Cheese Quiet and About the Same— Butter Dull but Steadily Held.

The Montreal Gazette of Tuesday reports: "Cheese did not show much animation today, but rather the contrary, for the dealing in the goods at the wharf this morning was on a fractionally lower basis than prevailed this day week. In a word demand appears to be of an indifferent character. Finest Ontario makes that are offering here cost fully as much as buyers are bidding for them, so that trade is dull. If a buyer had to fill an order he would certainly have to pay 7 1/2 to 7 3/8c for western makes, but if it was a case of a sale it would be different, for 7c to 7 1/4c is what buyers are bidding. In eastern makes the 3,500 to 4,000 offered at the wharf this morning sold at 6 1/2c to 6 5/8c. Receipts today were 18,449 boxes of cheese.

Butter rules quiet with a small trade passing and values steady at 16 1/2 to 16 1/4c. It is understood that local jobbers have gathered in June creamery at different points in the country and paying full prices therefor. This is apt to have a stiffening tendency on values.

THE PROVISION MARKET.

Lard and Pork in Liverpool Decline—Chicago Irregular—Local Steady.

A fairly active trade continues to be done at Montreal in smoked meats, there being a good demand for small lots, but other lines are moving slowly. We quote: Canadian pork, $16 to $16.50 per barrel, pure Canadian lard, in pairs, at 8 1/2c to 8 3/4c and compound refined, at 5 1/2c to 5 3/4c per lb; hams, 11 1/2c to 12c, and bacon 12c per lb.

The Chicago provision market was irregular today. Lard was again easier, closing 7 1/2c lower, at $9.60 June; $9.60 July; $9.77 1/2 September. Lard was firmer and prices advanced 7 1/2c closing $5.77 1/2 June; $5.77 1/2 July; $5.87 1/2 September. Short ribs closed $5.40 June; $5.40 July; $5.50 September.

The Liverpool provision market for pork and lard is weak and prices for the former declined 2 1/2c, and the latter 1c. Pork closed 52-64; lard 29-31; long cut heavy bacon, 31-64; long cut light 31-64; short cut light, 31-; and tallow, 20-6d; tallow, white 35; colored, 35s.

Cash quotations on provisions closed at Chicago.—Pork, $9.55 to $9.60; lard, $5.85 to $5.77; ribs, $5.25 to $5.60; hove-ders, 5c to 5 1/2; sides, 5.80 to $6.

BAY VIEW AND OTHER NOTES.

Crops are looking fine here. Planting is finished with the exception of a few turnips. Hay and pasture are doing fine. The former promises to be an extra crop.

Simpson's bridge at Bay View mills is unsafe. The cover is rotten and there is a hole in the middle of it with a signal of distress on it. This we suppose represents the economical policy as well as the present distress of our Government of deficit; a Government that is neglecting our educational system and that have become too poor to give a grand exhibition. We think that honest men had better take the signal down and give time by another patchwork job or the above mentioned bridge before some serious accident occurs.

W. H. Pettkich, V. S., Government Veterinarian Inspector for the Island, will speak in Stanley Hall, on June 28th at 6 o'clock, p. m. The meeting will be held under the auspices of Hope River Dairy-men's Association. This will be a good chance for farmers to get information about tuberculosis in cattle as that is to be the subject.

Our esteemed blacksmith, J. T. Hillman, met with an accident in working his circular saw a few days ago. His thumb and three of his fingers were badly mangled, one finger being cut right through the bone; but we are glad to know that the hand is doing well and is likely to heal up without loss of any of the fingers.

And now the new-made school teacher moveth about the country and seeketh an engagement and findeth it not.

The crop of teachers these last few years has been abundant, and the market cannot absorb all the product.

Lottery fishing on this coast is not good, the fish being scarce and small.
