The furniture on the lower floor was saved, but the chamber furniture, 150 lbs. of wool and 100 bushels of potatoes in the cellar were destroyed. Mr. Fields and all his family were in the potato field gathering the remainder of the crop when the fire was discovered. Mrs. Fields was left with the clothing she wore at the time, everything else being burned.

FOR THE WINDSOR SUFFERERS.—The British Charitable Society of Boston has given $100 to the fund for the relief of the Windsor fire victims. Residents of Brookline have also started a movement to raise funds for the Windsor people. Clothing and supplies, as well as considerable money, are being collected in Boston and surrounding towns. Several shipments have already been forwarded by the Yarmouth steamship line and the Dominion Atlantic Co.

The Canadian Society of New York has appointed a committee of nine of its members for the purpose of raising a relief fund for the 3,000 homeless people, victims of the recent fire in Windsor, N. S.

AGAINST THE HEADSMAN.—Mr. George McSweeney, of the Brudswick House, Moncton, has recovered judgment against Headman Wilson, of Fredericton, for over $70, being the amount of Wilson's hotel bill while in Moncton working up that wonderful "report" which Blair quoted from in the house. The point is taken by an exchange that Blair, who has issued an ukase directing that any I. C. R. official who does not pay his debts shall be dismissed, should not have permitted his headmen to "beat" hotel men out of their pay with impunity. And the point seems well taken. Especially so since Wilson was paid $15 a day and expenses, while many I. C. R. laborers get only a dollar a day and some of them employment only half time.

THE RUM CURSE.

SIR,—There is nobody knows more about drink and its evil effects than a drunkard's wife, for such I am. I know what it is to be kicked and beaten, and to have to run out on the cold street after midnight. I know what it is to sit and wait and watch for a drunk husband to come home, and at the same time dread his coming, for I knew that he would be mad with his brain on fire with the cursed stuff that is making heart-broken wives and poverty-stricken homes. I know there are others like me. As for Free Rum and Scott Act they are both alike to me; for I see that a man can stay as long as he likes after ten o'clock and get all he wants to drink. On Saturday night it is the same; he can stay till Sunday morning till the rumseller gets the last cent the poor deluded man has. What kind of a law is that? I know it for a ract for my husband doesn't belong to a Gentlemen's Club or go to champagne suppers.

If there is a law that will allow women to enter those rum holes after ten o'clock, and search them through and see that they do not keep father and husband or son and brother after that hour, for it is not only rum alone that is destroying their soul and body but in every rum den, well, with a few exceptions, there are always two or three barmaids; and what are they there for but to entice men and lead them astray. So let mothers and wives arise to duty and try and save Charlottetown from the rumsellers grasp, for he is getting to be the leading man, and everybody are his servants, for don't men run to him with their earnings thinking he has the best right to the money.

A SUFFERER.

PISQUID NOTES.

The good people of this vicinity are very indignant that our government should leave Pisquid Bridge in such a dilapidated condition as it has been left in for some time past. A year has now passed since a high tide undermined one side of it leaving that side two feet lower than the other, the heavy timbers supporting the arch barely touching the sunken frame work and the whole structure dangerous to life and limb.

No one wished the powers controlling such matters to rebuild it at that season of the year; no one imagined that it would be left as long without the necessary repairs; yet there it stands a monument of carelessness or incapacity of our rulers, a menace to the travelling public and an eyesore to the staunch supporters of the party in power.

A few days ago some persons were taking a thrashing-mill across it as it was a much shorter way than to go around the river further south. When the wheels descended into the huge rut excavated by the tide, the tail end of the mill caught on the bank behind thus throwing the weight of the forward part down on the horse's back with such force as to crush him prone upon the arch. It would be needless to quote here all the nice things said by the driver about the late Premier and the supervisor, suffice it to say that they would not conduce to the edification of your readers or the sanctification of the parties interested. Mr. Peters passed over this bridge several times during the summer; engineers from Charlottetown came to view its shattered condition, while the Supervisor paid it innumerable visits. Indeed if he demands pay for each of those innocent diversions it will prove a veritable Klondyke for him and explain why he did not repair it long ago. Surely the present government will do something in this matter if only to have pity on their loyal supporters hereabout.

The abodeau which was built across the mouth of the Pisquid River last summer by the most determined efforts on the part of the marsh owners, was not a success. When the work was about completed nearly one hundred feet of it was carried away by a storm and tide, and the people are now debating whether it is better to repair the damage or not. Some maintain that though the work should be again completed there is no certainty that it would be substantial.
