New Mine And Town Likely In Treeless Ungava Area

By DAVE OANCA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—A three-way deal among Canadian, American and German steel interests will likely lead to the development of a new mine and the birth of a new town of more than 2,000 on the treeless, rocky Ungava region of Northern Quebec.

Informants said Thursday final agreement is near on plans to exploit the huge, low-grade iron ore deposits in Ungava—a scant 300 miles from the Arctic Circle and 1,000 miles north of Montreal.

Only a few financial and marketing details remain to be ironed out before the green light is given to the $200,000,000 program to ship ultimately 5,000,000 tons of ore a year from the region. If this agreement is reached soon, the first shipments could be made by 1963.

Key figures in the project are American industrialist Cyrus Eaton, who was born in Nova Scotia, and German steel magnate Alfred Krupp, each with 50-per cent interests in the operating company.

Informants said detailed plans have been mapped out to deal with the complex engineering, construction, mining, transportation and living problems which must be solved before this treasure house of iron ore can be unlocked.

Talks now are under way to work out arrangements on how these costs are to be met.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM
The chief problem in the barren area around Hopes Advance Bay on the northern shores of Quebec is not to find the ore, but to find a way of getting it out to market economically.

The ore body is part of the "Labrador trough"—a 600-mile-long belt that stretches southward to the Quebec-Labrador border and west to Lake Mistassini, roughly 150 miles from the St. Lawrence River.

Reserves in this mineralized area are estimated at more than 3,000,000,000 tons—40 times the present annual consumption of all of Europe's steel mills.

At the southern end of the "rough," mines already are producing more than half Canada's iron ore output.

Rights to the iron ore deposits in the Ungava region were obtained by Cyrus Eaton interests seven years ago. Ungava Iron Ore Company Limited was formed to develop the deposits.

This is a Canadian company owned 50-50 by the Champlain Mining Corporation, representing Eaton's Canadian and American interests, and Ferrum Investments Limited, which represents the five-company German group.

The staggering plans to graft a community onto the barren call for construction of a 25-mile railroad, a concentrating plant, a pelletizing plant, a dock big enough to handle ocean freighters, a complete townsite and a power plant.

CONCENTRATING PLANT
The concentrating plant will be built in units of 500,000 tons of pellets, the first of which may be in operation by 1963. More units will be added as markets grow until the target capacity of 5,000,000 tons annually is reached a decade later.

Mining and concentrating the ore will be a year-round operation. But the Ungava Bay harbor is ice-free only about four months a year.

To overcome this transportation handicap, Eaton interests have signed an agreement with the Danish government to stockpile the pellets at an ice-free harbor on the coast of Greenland, roughly 600 miles away. Freighters will then be able to move the pellets to market every month of the year.

Ungava is one of the newest ventures in Canada's emergence as a major producer of iron ore. In 20 years this country has risen from a non-producer to fourth place among the world suppliers of iron ore. The top three producers are the United States, Russia and France.

During 1957 Canada mined a record 20,000,000 tons of ore, about seven per cent of the world's output and about one-fifth of U.S. production.

"very energetic" child, the teacher declared. Some trucks exceeded the speed limit when passing his school, Mr. MacKenzie noted, while others were "very cautious."

Mr. Singleton, driver of the truck, stated that he had been doing about 30 miles per hour he thought, and had slowed down to 10 or 15 when coming on to the bridge.

He did not think he had put the brakes full on 30 feet on the other side of the bridge, but thought his foot may have been on the pedal.

CARRYING 7½ TON
He was carrying five cubic yards, about seven and one-half tons, he said.

There were some children on his left side he thought, adding that the little fellow (the victim) ran from the right.

He had run to a nearby house he said in order to report the accident, and then went to a garage where he found that a call was already in. He had returned to the scene and stood by until the police and doctor arrived.

120 Teachers Attend First Day Of Ch'town Convention
A two-day convention of teachers representing eight schools in Charlottetown opened yesterday morning at Queen Charlotte High School. Some 120 teachers attended the opening sessions which were presided over by Miss Jessie Fullerton.

In her remarks, Miss Fullerton reviewed the events that took place during the past year, noting that Education Week was observed here with more success than ever before. The highlight of the week was an address by Heath MacQuarrie, M.P., entitled "Education in a Troubled World". Miss Fullerton made reference to the retirement of Dr. L. W. Shaw as Deputy Minister of Education, and Lt. Col. L. T. Lowther, former Principal of Queen Charlotte High. She noted the opening of Birchwood High during the year, and the addition of Spring Park School to the city area.

Reports were read by the following committee chairmen: J. W. Croken reported for Wendall Horton on Salary; Sister S. Lucius, C.N.D., gave the report of the Workshop group; Mrs. R. Dowd reported on Social events; and Reginald MacDonald reported on the Easter Convention, which was successfully sponsored by the city schools last year.

SECRETARY'S REPORT
Miss Estelle Bowness, secretary of the P.E.I. Teachers' Federation, in glowing terms the growth of the organization, and its rise to an influential position as a civic organization. Membership has reached a new high of 861, which is 22 more than the previous year.

She noted that teachers, generally, throughout the province are more wide awake than they used to be and are taking more interest in their profession. She urged teachers to advertise their own jobs to convince others, especially older pupils, that their job is the best in the world.

On the matter of teachers' salaries, she urged to realize the importance of their work and to demand a maximum salary. "Districts are beginning to realize that they have to pay good supplements," she said.

Before the close of the morning sessions, S. M. MacInnis, Director of Visual Education for P.E.I., held a session with the teachers on the use of film strips in the classroom.

AFTERNOON SESSIONS
In the afternoon, the teachers heard an address by Malcolm MacKenzie, Deputy Minister of Education, before dispersing into groups to discuss problems peculiar to their own classes.

"In my philosophy of education the teacher comes first," said Mr. MacKenzie. He divided the local education picture into three parts: the physical plant, or the classroom; the program of studies; and the teacher. He noted that considerable progress had been attained in regard to the first two in this province, but stated that teacher's lot can still be improved.

He spoke at length on the normal training setup in the province, and expressed agreement with the raising of the standard of admission to Grade 12 from Grade 11. He reported 36 students in the normal training class at Prince of Wales College this year, and 24 at St. Dunstan's.

"This number would be higher if it were not for summer school courses," he said. Mr. MacKenzie said he was sorry to see Grade 12 students taking summer courses leading to teacher's licenses because in his opinion they were not as good as full-term training. He pointed out that the government has made available a grant of $200 for normal training students at P.W.C., plus a $300 loan, interest free. In addition, five scholarships valued at $200 each are available each year for teacher-training students.

On the subject of larger units of administration, he expressed the hope that they will become a reality soon. "If we could get one operating successfully, I feel that others would follow," he said. He pointed out the many advantages of the larger units, especially in the rural areas.

Turning to the question of salaries, Mr. MacKenzie said: "The Minister is sympathetic towards recognition of additional university credits in addition to those required for a superior first class license."

On the subject of a program of studies, the Deputy Minister reported that no change in text books had been made for this year, but he expects some alterations for the 1959-60 school year, with Grades 8 and 9 facing a change in their history text. He intimated that the study of language will be revised, with an exploration of the whole field of French. He said that an attempt may be made to have the study of French started at a lower level. He also reported that a group of teachers are pressing to have the study of geography abolished in Grade 10, and pointed out that schools in the province are not doing enough work in the science field.

Factory Pace Shows Decline
OTTAWA (CP)—The pace of business in Canadian factories continued to decline in August as drops showed in the flow of goods from plants and the pile-up of stocks on shelves.

Shipments of goods from plants slipped to $1,742,796,000 from $1,816,667,000 a year ago, the bureau of statistics estimated Thursday.

Inventories held by manufacturers declined to $4,585,656,000 from $4,789,821,000 and the value of unfilled orders to $2,254,214,000 from $2,704,062,000.

The flow of new orders for goods, however, showed only a slight decline from a year ago, easing to $1,745,484,000 from $1,771,473,000.
