Opening lead—six of spades.

When the sixth session of the Lenz-Culbertson match commenced on December 14, 1931, the combination of Sidney Lenz and Oswald Jacoby were leading the Culbertsons by 4,840 points.

By the time the evening of play was over, the match was all square. After 40 rubbers of the 150 scheduled were played, Lenz was leading by exactly 15 points. The Culbertsons would have been well in front but for a remarkable opening lead by Jacoby which cost them a vulnerable small slam.

The bidding which led to the slam contract will strike the reader as strange, but bidding methods then in vogue were quite different than they are today.

Jacoby's two heart bid was pure bluff. Throughout the match, he inserted psychic bids in an effort to prevent the Culbertsons from obtaining maximum results on their good hands. Sometimes they were effective, and sometimes they boomeranged.

Culbertson's jump to three spades identified a strong hand. Mrs. Culbertson's three notrump bid can scarcely be reconciled with the hand she actually held. Even making allowances for the methods then in use, it would appear that with a hand considerably better than a minimum opening bid and 6-4-2-1 distribution besides, Mrs. Culbertson should have bid four diamonds.

Culbertson thereafter persisted in his efforts to arrive at a slam in a suit contract. The four heart cue bid, followed by the rebid of the club suit, did not elicit from Mrs. Culbertson a further rebid of her six-card diamond suit.

Finally, in desperation, Culbertson bid six diamonds, convinced there was a slam somewhere, and this became the contract.

Jacoby, on lead, was equally desperate. His hand looked hopeless. Two defensive tricks seemed far away. He suspected the A-Q of spades were on his left, so he opened a spade to inhibit the finesse.

Jacoby was wrong. Lenz had the ace, took it, and returned a spade to defeat the slam in jig time.

Mrs. Culbertson would have made thirteen tricks with any lead except a spade.

Paul's Imprisonment Gave Courage To His Followers

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

Philippi was a city situated in the northern part of Greece, and the congregation there was the first in Europe, as narrated by Luke in Act 16. Of all the churches established by Paul, this Philippian congregation seems to be nearest his heart.

Paul wrote from his prison in Rome, where later he was confined in a most humiliating manner for a man of his abilities and prominence. H. C. G. Moule is quoted in our notes as describing the condition in which Paul was confined. He describes it thus:

FASTENED TO GUARDS

"We gather here, with reasonable certainty that life - guards were supplied, one by one . . . mounting guard over him in turn, and fastened to him by the long chain which clasped at one end the wrist of the prisoner, at the other that of the sentinel."

Thus Paul was chained day and night, but as we read his letter to the Philippians, we are thrilled by his courage, love and hopefulness in these distressing circumstances, for the cause of Christ and His gospel.

Paul begins his epistle by sending greetings to the Philippians from himself and Timothy. "Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ."

He remembers them always in his prayers, rejoicing in their fellowship and good work, and in full confidence that they will continue in them.

MADE MORE BOLD

Then he writes that while he is in bondage the work of the Gospel goes on because "many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear," although there are some, he writes, who because of envy and jealousy, try to preach to stir up strife.

He has hope that whether he lives or dies, Christ will be "magnified in all boldness. For to me to live in Christ, and to die is gain."

Paul still has hope that he may visit this church, but "whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the Gospel."

He writes that they are not to be terrified of their enemies. "For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on Him, but also to suffer for His sake."

FOR CHILDREN

Dr. Wilbur M. Smith suggests that the younger children may be taught the five different aspects of prayer which are embodied in this chapter; prayers for things asked for; thanksgiving; adoration; confession and intercession, this last meaning asking for things for others.

He suggests that the older classes be asked what are we who profess Christ doing to further His cause—in our churches, in our conduct, in our speech.

In closing I would like to quote from a beautiful and most helpful book of sermons by an eminent clergyman, Frederick M. Meek, titled The Life to Live. The sermons are based on the Beatitudes—The Sermon on the Mount—and in his chapter on meekness he describes the "meek" not as people who have no courage to stand for the right as they see it, but as "selfness, persistent people" who "believe that truth is more basic than deceit, that good will is more powerful than selfishness, that love is more fundamental than hate, that good can conquer evil." These people are those who will "inherit the earth," as Christ said.

Returns Today To Washington

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, recuperating at his country estate from the mild stroke he suffered Nov. 25, arranged Sunday to drive back to Washington today.

Later in the week Eisenhower will undergo a medical checkup which will determine whether he has recovered enough to attend the NATO meeting in Paris Dec. 16-18.

As Eisenhower spent another day of relaxation and let - up, there were widespread expectations around the temporary White House that he will get a go-ahead from his physicians for the Paris trip.

The president and Mrs. Eisenhower came up from Washington Thursday. Since then, Eisenhower has done little but take it easy.

Suggests Dusky Bride For Prince

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Altrincham, outspoken critic of the Royal Court, was quoted Sunday in a newspaper as saying he would be "overjoyed" if Prince Charles, heir to the throne, were to marry a non-white citizen of the Commonwealth.

The newspaper The People asked Altrincham about interracial marriages, a subject the Conservative peer discussed in Ceylon 10 days ago.

At that time, the 33-year-old bachelor said some day the head of the Commonwealth might not have a white face.

Asked if he would marry a non-white woman if he were in love with her, Altrincham told The People, "certainly."

LOSES CABARET LICENCE

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Billy Daniels has lost his New York City cabaret entertainer's licence as the result of a Harlem bottle club shooting nearly two years ago. Daniels, 42, was fined $200 and given a four-months suspended jail sentence Thursday. The singer assertedly fired a gun in the Seventy-One-Ten Club Jan. 31, 1956, wounding fight trainer James R. Jackson.

Pipeline Blast Remains Mystery

WINNIPEG (CP) — No cause has yet been determined for an explosion Saturday which ripped open about 1,200 feet of the Trans-Canada pipeline 10 miles south of here, a company spokesman said Sunday.

The explosion, fifth on the Trans - Canada Pipe Line Limited's Manitoba section since September, occurred on the James Richardson stock farm in the St. Norbert - Ste. Germaine area. No one was injured and no property damage was reported. A similar blast occurred a few miles south of the Richardson farm Sept. 21.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation
