TORONTO

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned sharply down across a broad front on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday, following the lead of the New-York market where shares were hit by heavy selling.

One analyst says higher interest rates in Canada and the United States appears to have triggered the recent declines in North American markets.

The industrial index fell 1.76 to 165.75, a low for the year.

MORTGAGES:

We are pleased to advise an improved market for mortgage loans, both on dwellings and commercial buildings.
