Schooner Skylark Is Beached; Has Sailed Last Voyage

On Thursday one of the grand old ships, "The Skylark", which plyed the coastal sea lanes for many years was taken to her final resting place on the beach at Murray River.

Built 44 years ago in Newfoundland, the Skylark for many years engaged in fishing on the Grand Banks, before she was transferred to the route between Cape Breton and Newfoundland.

After several years she was bought by Capt. Forbriggar of Cape Breton, and was used as a trading vessel between P.E.I. and Cape Breton for a period of two years. Her next home port was the Magdalen Islands where she was purchased by Mr. R. Cyr, for the purpose of carrying cargo between the Magdalen Islands and Pictou, N.S. On this route the vessel was employed for three years before being bought by the present owner, Capt. Sydney Munn, of Murray River in 1935.

During the thirteen years in which she was used as a cargo boat, she plyed between P.E.I., Nova Scotia, and the Magdalen Islands, under the command of Capt. Munn. Two years ago she was tied up at the dock at Murray River when Mr. Munn retired from active sailing, to remain there until Thursday last when she made her final voyage to the beaching ground to be dismantled. Thus passes one more of the old time sailing craft which are gradually giving away to the march of progress, but in the memories of many coastal seamen, the "Skylark" will not be forgotten.

Ducks Reported Scarce In King's

At 5.30 a.m. yesterday morning, the distant sound of shot guns opened up another fall season of shooting. Prior to the opening of the season reports coming in indicated that the duck concentration in King's was not overly great, a fact which became more evident last night as returning hunters showed one or two ducks.

Many were without any at all. From Panmure Island came reports that coots were moving in fairly large numbers, but very few were anxious to shoot them, at the present cost of shells. A fair concentration for the first two hours was present on Poverty Beach, and several hunters did fairly well.

Reports from the northern part of the county indicated better shooting but nothing in comparison with the past. Even Pisquid Pond seems no longer the gathering centre for the blacks. One party shot four ducks all of which turned out to be teal, so that it is apparent something has happened to the black ducks, and for P. E. I. hunters it means meagre shooting. Most of the hunters took to the fields during the day to look for Huns, but most had about the same luck as they had had with the ducks, for the wily Huns had already moved into the brush, making the hunters walk quite far before they could start up a covey.

It has been reported that there has been some shooting throughout the County prior to the season. It is hoped that such reports are without foundation for law breakers must know that penalties for this are severe. However, if they are true, herein may lie an explanation as to why the Huns have moved so soon into the brush. Prior to the opening many hunters had marked out their particular covey for opening day, but their surprise was great when, on arriving there, no covey was in evidence, and so began the tramping through the brush which brought few results. All in all reports from returning hunters last evening indicated a poor opening day in this country. It is hoped hunters fared better in the other two counties.

Whiteway-MacLean Wedding

A wedding of great interest to many friends took place on Sept. 29th at the manse at Wood Islands, when Anna Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. MacLean of Iris, became the bride of George Lowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Whiteway, Dover. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Hale.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a grey gabardine suit with blue and black accessories, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by her sister, Charlesena, who chose a navy gabardine suit with pink and black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Clarence Whiteway, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where approximately sixty guests enjoyed a candle light supper.

The dining room was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the bride's table was centred with a two-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The best man proposed a toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. S. Gillis, Mrs. John A. MacLean, Mrs. Catherine Compton, Mrs. James MacLean, Mrs. D. J. Campbell, and Mrs. J. C. MacLean.

During the wedding supper the guests enjoyed the playing of several selections on the pipes by Mr. Hughie MacPherson and Mr. William Bears.

The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in dancing, for which music was supplied by Mr. Neil MacLean, violin, and Mr. Addison Hume, guitar and by Mr. Hughie MacPherson and Mr. William Bears.

The guests were also delighted by a sprightly performance of "the Highland Schottishe" by Mr. and Mrs. Hughie MacPherson who are the grand uncle and aunt of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteway will make their home in Dover.

I., and Walter Prodan of Montreal, only son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Prodan of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Rev. Dr. F. S. Milliken performed the ceremony before a background of mixed fall flowers.

The bride descended the stairs to the strains of the wedding march. She chose a gown of chantilly lace over white satin with a high neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a coronet of net trimmed with clusters of seed pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white mums and wore as her only jewelry, a birthstone pendant and ear-rings to match.

Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Mayme Dutney, who chose a gown of rosy mauve taffeta with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. She carried a colonial bouquet of mixed fall flowers. The best man was William (Bill) Tuskey of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Prodan left for a wedding trip to Vermont, U. S. A., and will return to make their home in Montreal, P. Q., where the groom is attending McGill University.

For travelling, Mrs. Prodan wore a navy blue gabardine suit with grey accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of Johanna Hill Roses.
