

Pleasant Words.

BY THE REV. H. G. RATTISON, D. D.

"Pleasant words are as an honey comb, sweet to the soul, and health to the bones."

Pleasant words are full of sweetness To the heart oppressed with care; Peace they bring, and bounteous gladness, Light and love, the garb they wear.

Pleasant words come to the weary Like a sweet and dreamless sleep; Strength, and life, and health bestowing, As from fountains broad and deep.

Pleasant words are words of comfort, Messengers of trust and love, Laden well with richest blessings From the treasure-house above;

Pleasant words of quiet meekness, Scatter doubt's and banish fears; Angry tongues may gather round us, Crisping hopes and causing tears;

Pleasant words of large compassion, Spring from tender hearts and true; Strong with gladness, hope and courage, Ever old, and ever new,

Pleasant words are like the noon-day, Cheering with a glad delight; Falsehood's breath may scorch and hurt us, Turning all our day to night;

A True Story.

Willie and Harry and Crusoe were three great friends, though Willie and Harry were boys, and Crusoe was only a dog, but that made little difference, for he was just as good a playfellow, and often seemed to have so much good sense.

One day Crusoe lay in the sun taking a nap, when all of a sudden he heard loud, angry words, then a sharp blow, and starting up quickly what did he see but Willie and Harry in a regular fist-cuff fight.

He evidently thought both deserved punishment, and did not stop to ask which struck first.

The mother of the boys told me this, who beheld the scene from the window.

A Cautious Purchaser.

"I was recommended here by a friend," said a seedy-looking man, as he entered a drug store, who told me that you did a very large business, and that any purchases I might want to make could be effected on reasonable terms."

"Yes, sir; certainly sir. We have built up a very large trade by faithful attention to business and by honest efforts to please our numerous customers."

"Such a line of policy, I take it," said the seedy-looking man, gazing at the proprietor with an air of great confidence, "contains the essential elements of commercial success."

"Undoubtedly, sir, undoubtedly," responded the druggist, rubbing his hands expectantly; "and now what can we do for you, sir?"
