

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 3, 1891.

The Superintendent of Education.

It is stated that Mr. D. J. McLeod, of Prince of Wales College, has been appointed to the office from which Mr. Nicholson has been ejected.

During all the years that the Conservatives were in office, Mr. McLeod held his position as one of the professors of Prince of Wales College—though it was well known that he was a steadfast supporter of the Liberal party.

We shall not detract from the character of Mr. McLeod. Let him be judged by the results of his efforts as Superintendent of Education.

We learn that Mr. Nicholson will leave his native Province in the course of a few weeks, to seek a position in another part of Canada.

Notes and Comments.

The redoubtable Mr. Pacaud is reported to have said: "Any other man in my place would have acted in a similar manner."

During the session of parliament which has just closed, more measures have been passed than in any previous session.

An identical note has been issued by England and Germany in response to the note issued by the Chinese Government, in which the Peking authorities promised to protect the lives and property of foreigners in China.

The Winnipeg Free Press (Liberal) thinks that Mr. Lister's motion for an excursion into an alleged illegal act of Mr. Haggart twelve years ago was properly resisted.

In spite of all that was said on the Opposition side, there was nothing to show that in this instance was there any other object in view or purpose to be gained than to daub the Government with another coat of scandal.

The Agriculturalist says: "The dismissal of Mr. J. A. Nicholson, B. A., Superintendent of Education for three days ago, is a genuine surprise to the people of Prince Edward Island, who considered that the educational department had been sufficiently outraged by the dismissal of the late inspectors."

Two hundred and ten cases new boots now opened, the finest stock ever shown in Charlottetown, at the Dominion Boot and Shoe Store.

Exhibition Notes.

Never has there been such an entry of cattle and grain at a Provincial Exhibition. It must make a magnificent show.

All we want is a continuance of the present fine weather, and Islanders will have every reason to be proud of their Provincial Exhibition.

But the balloon ascension—is it settled on? We learn this morning that definite arrangements have been made, and that either on Wednesday or Thursday there will be a passenger balloon ascension.

This balloon is no toy. It is a passenger ship of immense proportions. Only once in a life time is an opportunity given to see such an one.

The sum paid by the directors to induce the owners to come all the way from Montreal is large, but far better than the disappointment of a plaything at half the cost.

Personal.

Mr. David Evans has been elected Lord Mayor of London.

We regret to learn that Rev. Francis Macdonald, of Narrows Creek, is seriously ill.

Mr. W. A. Brennan, of the Summerside Journal, was at the Hotel Davies last evening on his way home from the Halifax races.

Major and Mrs. Dogherty, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., passed through Truro, en route for home, after visiting their daughter, Mrs. T. Calkin, of Kentville.

Mr. William MacGowan, of the I. C. R. Railway Works, Moncton, is visiting this city. Mr. MacGowan was formerly employed on the P. E. I. Railway.

Autumn.

Robed in thy raiment of splendor, Rich trappings of purple and gold; Brighter than mirage of dreamland Thou lightest mountain and wold.

Clothed in fair earth of thy fulness; Enriched is the bloom of the flower; From verdant to radiant beauty Thou shadest the gay trellised bow.

Calm, mellow skies look kindly down On tree-clad hill, on fruitful vale; Whilst marines, on far-off seas, Hoist canvas to the homeward gale.

For though earth's life-sustaining store Is gathered from her bounteous breast; Though leaflets fall on bare, brown floor, And nature lieth long at rest.

The West Chester Daily Republican of Pennsylvania contains the following obituary notice of one who was well known in this Province and had many relations here:

There passed away on Saturday evening at 11.30 o'clock, a woman who has been well known in West Chester for many years and who was possessed of qualities that gave her a wider circle of acquaintances than most of her contemporaries.

She had been ill but a few weeks, and until recently she enjoyed the most perfect health. She finally succumbed to heart failure.

During her early life she was very delicate and the physicians thought she would never live to see her eighteenth year, but as she grew older she grew stronger, and her age was prolonged nine years beyond the three score and ten usually allotted to mankind.

Until recently she was the first one of the family to rise in the morning, and she seldom took a nap during the day, being invariably engaged in some kind of work.

Maria Hayden Fergus, the widow of Thomas Howard Fergus, was born at Haydensville, Prince Edward Island, seventy-nine years ago, and was the daughter of Alexander Hayden, a ship builder.

After her marriage to Thomas H. Fergus, the two came south to Boston and then to Philadelphia and West Chester, where Mr. Fergus became popular as a music teacher.

Thirty years ago there were very few students of music in West Chester who did not study under him. He and all his family were members of the Church of the Holy Trinity, where he held the position of organist for a long time.

His father was originally a minister in the Church of England, but dissented from the creed and customs and became a minister of another denomination.

Mrs. Fergus was an artist of some note, and her pencil sketches were considered the finest in town. She also did considerable modelling in plaster, and there are now in possession of the family, life-sized models of the father and daughter, all made by the hand of Mrs. Fergus.

She was a fine performer on the guitar. In the palmy old days of the Chester County Agricultural Society she contributed a great many designs in fancy work, which attracted large crowds and always merited the first premium.

She was also much interested in the old Horticultural Society in which she was an energetic worker. Mrs. Fergus is believed to have been the first taxidermist in West Chester, she having introduced into town the art of stuffing birds, and it is said that it was indirectly through her that Dr. B. Harry Warren, State Ornithologist, was given his first ideas of taxidermy.

With all her accomplishments she was modest and retiring, and the full extent of her ability was known to only a few. In her younger days she was much interested in church work and was a constant attendant at Bible class of the Church of the Holy Trinity.

Four sons and two daughters survive her as follows: Howard who is married and living in Phoenixville with his wife and two children; Maria and Helena, who are living at home; Kenneth, who is single, residing in West Chester; Edward who is married and a resident of West Chester; and S. Tudor, who is giving lessons on the violin and piano.

The Methodist Church at Craupaud was, on Wednesday evening at 6 1/2 o'clock, the scene of a very interesting ceremony, in which was made "the silken tie which binds two willing hearts."

Rev. James King was the officiating minister, while Mr. J. P. Milford, the popular druggist—popular in Charlottetown as well as in Craupaud—and Miss Minnie E. Myers were the central figures. The church was beautifully decorated and the spectators numbered about four hundred.

The bride was, we learn, the recipient of many valuable presents. We heartily congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Milford, and wish them health, wealth, and length of days.

At the residence of her son, George O'Neill, Vernon River, on Saturday, 26th Sept. at the ripe old age of 90 years, Mary Teresa, relict of the late Owen O'Neill, Esq., formerly of Summerside, Funeral left via Pookes Station by train for Summerside, where she was lowered to her last resting place by a large circle of friends. Requiescat in pace.

On Friday, 2nd inst., at the residence of her son-in-law, Daniel McLean, Mount Herbert, Elizabeth Farquharson, relict of the late John Boyer, in the 79th year of her age. Though her illness was of only three days' duration, and suffering intense pain, she could cheerfully resign herself into the hands of Him who doeth all things well.

[Funeral on Sabbath at 2 o'clock, p. n.]
