

COMEDIAN Johnny Wayne, Dawson, commander of the 1st Canadian Escort Squadron, here yesterday. The Cape Scott is one of five Canadian ships now anchored in the harbour along with the USS The Sullivans and the French Navy Frigate Commandante Bourdais. The Waynes attended a reception on board attended by Prime Minister and Mrs. Pearson and the provincial premiers.

MEMBERS OF Local 1937 of the International Association of Machinists display placards with which they greeted Prime Minister Pearson on his arrival at Charlottetown yesterday. They were protesting the scheduled closing of the aircraft repair plant, Enamel and Heating Company Limited.

Bravely bearing the Maple Leaf design was seven-year-old Kevin Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Hughes, 138 King Street. He was found by Prime Minister Lester Pearson when he arrived at the airport yesterday.

HEADS BOWED as the band plays the evening hymn, snare drum from HMCS Cornwallis adds a touch of ceremonial solemnity to the proceedings at Memorial Field last night. With perfect timing and precision the white-uniformed sailors drew the gun carriage, loaded and fired the ceremonial salute, setting the mood and provided the background for the commemorative Sunset Ceremony.

Lobster Season Termed Failure

SUMMERSIDE—"This year's south shore lobster season is a failure so far from here to West Point."
These were the feelings expressed by Fred Arsenault, manager of Island Packers here when questioned on the lobster fishing situation yesterday.
"I've only seen one year as

Of Miramichi Bay, the Queen Victoria's home to while Captain Robert Marchand and the actors negotiated with the crew of a lobster boat for Monday evening's meal at $1.00 a lobster.
The actor fathers played, as did their prototypes 100 years ago. No one knew how to play backgammon, the popular game in 1864 but poker—popular among actors everywhere and such were played.
ONE DIFFERENCE: the National Centennial Commission, paying the bill for the reconstructed voyage, did not supply the quantity or variety of wines and liquors the original fathers enjoyed. They made their trip when taxes were negligible, partying was accepted government expense and the prime minister of that day John A. Macdonald was a style-setter.
The actors were obviously getting into the feel of their roles. Andrew Allen, who will play George Brown, withdrew at one point to "wash his face and my father's socks". Austin Willis, who plays Alexander F. Gait, was mockingly acknowledged chief negotiator on the price of lobsters because of his role as minister of finance.
Robert Christie, "John A. Macdonald" dozed in a deck chair on the starboard side, a sheaf of notes of John A.'s speeches in his hand.
Bertrand Gagnon, Montreal actor who is playing Macdonald's chief Quebec lieutenant, George-Etienne Cartier, spent an hour in the wheelhouse at the helm under the eye of Captain Marchand.

and the Prime Minister and his party were driven to the waterfront where they were greeted by the members of HMCS Cape Scott, one of seven provincial destroyer escorts, on a reception on board the French ship the "Commandant Bourdais", and the "USS The Sullivans".
Later they were guests at a buffet supper at Montgomery Hall before going to witness the sunset ceremony.
Entertainment activities of the visitors moved then to Government House where they were greeted by Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. W.J. Macdonald.
Today a full schedule will be completed by a moment of political meetings and in turn is succeeded by humor in his wildest form as only Wayne and Shuster can supply it. This will be at Confederation Theatre tonight.
OPEN CONFERENCE
At 10 o'clock this morning the Prime Minister and the provincial premiers will open the 1964 Conference in Confederation Chamber, Provincial Building, where 100 years before the Founding Fathers met to bring Canada into being and gave to this city its title of "Cradle of Confederation".
The conference will adjourn at 11:30 with the group moving to the Charlottetown where the Prime Minister and Premiers will be private guests at a luncheon of Premier Shaw. Other members of the party will be guests of the P.E.I. Government at luncheon at the same hotel.
Early this afternoon Prime Minister Pearson will inspect a naval Guard of Honor before the visiting group starts on a tour of Confederation Centre.
The old views with the new with the arrival of the group of actors portraying the original visiting delegation from Canada West and Canada East. The group of actors will be roved ashore from their ship "Queen Victoria" to the Railway Wharf and proceed to Confederation Chamber.
After their entrance and the re-enactment of their presentations of a century ago they will meet the P.E.I. Government leaders and form a procession to Government House for afternoon tea.
This will be followed by a reception and buffet supper at Confederation Centre before they attend the Wayne and Shuster show.

Skies Damp But Not Spirits At Colorful Sunset Ceremony

Rain spattered the opening of the colorful Sunset Ceremony in Memorial Field last night, and increased in tempo as it went on until a steady pour drenched spectators and participants alike.
All the same there were few complainers at the field. Most people there, and especially the children, were fascinated by the precise, colorful, and traditional ceremony.
Trains from HMCS Cornwallis (near Digby, N.S.) made up the gun crews and marching unit, and a composite 40-piece band from Cornwallis and HMCS Shearwater in Dartmouth filled out the roster. The band was under the direction of Commissioned Officer J.F. McGuire.
Precisely executed drills, firing of the field pieces, the ceremonial "feu de joie," and the presence of Prime Minister Pearson highlighted the show.

HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says showers were reported in all three Maritime provinces late Monday evening as a disturbance in Central Quebec extended a band of low pressure over our district. Continued eastward motion of this system will move it out of the district today, permitting drier and cooler air to move in.
A high pressure area building behind this disturbance will give sunny skies and relatively cool temperatures to most regions Wednesday.
Regional forecast:
Cape Breton, Prince Edward Island, Eastern N.B. Counties: Overcast with a few showers with chance of thunderstorms; becoming cloudy with a few sunny periods in afternoon; clearing by evening; cooler, northwest wind, 25. Low high at Sydney 60 and 72. Charlottetown and Moncton 56 and 72.
Outlook for Wednesday: Sunny and cool.
High tide today at Charlottetown at 5:38 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. At Rustico at 1:29 a.m. and 2:50 p.m. Summerside 18 minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 6:40 a.m. and sets at 7:45 p.m. All times ADT.
