

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 16, 1896.

THE RECONSTRUCTED CABINET.

While the recent Ministerial crisis was lamentable and, as we think, unnecessary, it cannot be denied that the motive of those who precipitated it was laudable. There can be no doubt, in view of what has transpired, that the Government needed to be united and strengthened and that the Liberal Conservative electors needed to be aroused to the danger that menaced the principles and policy which they hold dear. It is evidently of the first importance that the whole party shall stand united upon the broad platform of the National Policy under the leadership of the late Premier, and that the agricultural and manufacturing industries of its people are being wonderfully developed. But the party was on the point of being split up as a result of an intrigue of Messrs. Greenway and Laurier. A side issue which immediately affected Manitoba only has been kept open and unsettled, though the highest court and the highest authority in the Empire, the Queen, herself, has ordered that it shall be settled by a remedy of the grievance of which the minority in that Province has complained. The danger of a split upon this question has, as one result of the crisis, been averted. The scheming of the Opposition plotters is not likely to prove to be successful. The Liberal Conservative party will not now play into the hands of their opponents. The French Catholics of Quebec and the English and Scotch Protestants of Ontario alike now see that it will be folly to give up the essential trade policy of all Canada on account of a matter which affects immediately only a few people in Manitoba. In respect to this matter they have a splendid example in the noble conduct of Premier Bowell. A. F. Stewart, the Proteus man, has risked his administration and all that he has yet to gain in politics by his adherence to the duty which, under our constitution, he owes to the little minority comprised of the Roman Catholics of Manitoba. His is the true British spirit which, because right is right, will do the right in scorn of consequence. In taking back to his cabinet the men who left it on the ground of his want of sufficient ability to lead them, he has shown that his personal feelings are held in strict subjection to his political duty. We believe that the Liberal-Conservative electors of Canada will, in like manner, unite with him and give a solid support to the ministry which has been formed to maintain the National Policy of Canada. The fact that Sir Charles Tupper is now a member of the Cabinet will strengthen the faith of every elector in the continued success of the Liberal-Conservative party. Already the effect of his presence is felt in the renewed confidence which, we are told, prevails in financial circles. We feel sure that the extension of the National Policy which he has projected will be received with acclamations by the loyal people of Canada. In this time of trouble and perplexity, when it is even said that our Mother Country has not a friend in the world, we want to stand as close to her as we can. Any favor in respect to trade that we can give ought, therefore, at this juncture, to be extended to the people of the Mother Country whose open markets are, after all, our great resource. There need be no doubt that the British people will respond with alacrity to any friendly modification of our tariff in their behalf. For giving their products a preference in our markets we may be sure that they will not slow to show a preference in the purchase of Canadian products sent to their markets, and that the preference will be seen in the consumption in England of increasing quantities of our cheese, butter, pork, beef, and other articles which they may have to export. However this may be, the extension of the National Policy which Sir Charles Tupper has proposed will be in the direction of that Imperial reciprocity, that closer commercial partnership between the Mother Country and her colonies throughout the world, which we desire to see.

We heartily join with our contemporaries of this Province in expressing the universal regret of its people that Hon. Donald Ferguson has not continued to hold the portfolio of Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Ferguson has in the past two weeks greatly strengthened the claims which he has upon the Premier and upon his party. He stood unflinchingly in the gap while the contest raged, and is content to retire to his former position in the Cabinet in order that the re-union may be complete. There are few who will question or deny Mr. Ferguson's eminent fitness to stand at the head of the Department of Agriculture. He is, himself, an agriculturist, and in full sympathy with his fellow-farmers. He is as well informed concerning all the measures that have been adopted or are likely to be advisable in the interests of Canadian agriculture as any man in the Dominion. But he is handicapped by reason of the fact that he is not in the House of Commons, and by reason of the fact that the majority of the representatives of this Province in the House of Commons is strongly opposed to the Government. This latter objection to Mr. Ferguson's advancement may be removed in the general elections of this year. In the meantime it is to be remembered that Mr. Ferguson is in the Cabinet and that he represents the Minister of Agriculture in the Senate. He is, consequently, in closest relationship with all measures emanating from the Government and the Department for the good of the people of this country.

MANITOBA ELECTION.

The result of the Manitoba elections is what everyone expected. It will, however, make no difference in respect to the duty of the Dominion Government and Parliament as to the Manitoba school question. The law, which it is the duty of Canada to carry out in a reasonable way, was made for the minority, not for the majority.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Nova Scotia is, it appears, in the opinion of Sir Richard Cartwright, "the worst case of the greatest brood of boasters ever known." We shall see what Nova Scotia has to say about it. A new cause for war with England has been found in the fact that Her Majesty has been pleased to confer the honor of knighthood upon the Chief Justice of Sierra Leone, whose color is black. The New York Mail and Express says: "This is the first time that a full-blooded negro has achieved this distinction, and if South Carolina does not declare war upon Victoria for her customary independent action of regulating things, it will probably be because of pity for England's present troubles."

Commenting upon the state of anarchy and assassination which now prevails in Venezuela, incident to the pending Presidential election, the New York Post says: "That is the way all elections are held and presidents chosen in Venezuela. But President Crespo, who himself got his office by a revolution, has issued a decree affirming that his revolution is particularly heinous, on account of pending international complications; that it is, in fact, treason, and that all persons caught in it will be shot on the spot. Eminent lawyers in Caracas say the decree is illegal. This will make it Crespo's painful duty to shoot the eminent lawyers, too. The jails are already overflowing with political prisoners, and the school buildings are now being used as prisons. This will not check the great work of Venezuelan education, as the students are all enlisting for the war, anyhow. An awful suspicion is abroad that the 'illustrious American,' Guzman Blanco, who in England was a little treaty of his own, with his pockets full of British gold. This report was a hard blow to the patriots, who are usually in the fix of the Georgia free-silver patriot, certain that 'we've got the gold bugs down unless they buy us up.' But a shrewd counter stroke was made by asserting that the $100,000,000 in gold which the United States are now trying to borrow was all to be passed on to Venezuela to aid her in her war against England. This aroused tremendous enthusiasm for 'the illustrious Monroe,' and the busts of Washington, Monroe, Cleveland and Balboa were entered with rare flowers. And yet there are those who say that republics are ungrateful."

HE ASPHYXIATED HIS FAMILY.

CHICAGO, JANUARY 13.—This morning a police officer of the north side received a letter from Peter Hougard, of Englewood, stating that by the time the letter was received, the writer would be dead. The policeman went to Hougard's house and found the dead bodies of Hougard, wife and five children, who had been asphyxiated by gas. Hougard was a milk dealer, supposed to be in comfortable circumstances. The bodies of Hougard, wife and a one year old child were found in one room, and in an adjoining room was the body of an eleven year old girl. In another room the corpses of the remaining children were found. The jets of every gas fixture in the house were turned, and the cracks of the windows and doors were plugged with cotton. Death had evidently overtaken every member of the family, except the father, while they slept. The friends of Hougard say in a business transaction years ago he took several notes which had long since fallen due, and were never paid. It is thought this may have caused his despondency.

A VENEZUELA BOYCOTT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—News has been received in this city from Caracas, Venezuela, that the residents of that city are boycotting the English concerns there, and also in Havana, Valparaiso and other Venezuelan cities. It is said that a financial house in Caracas was chartered by the government as the Anglo-Venezuela bank to begin operations on December 25, 1895, but owing to the failure of the stock holders to have their full capital on hand at that time an extension of the date of starting business was asked. For the directors of the bank notified the secretary of the Venezuelan treasury last week that the bank was ready to begin business, but were told the charter was annulled. The bank immediately made application for a new charter, and it was refused. The merchants and tradesmen in the leading Venezuelan cities are reported to be having the telephones of English companies taken out of their stores and offices and replacing them with American telephones.

THE UPWARD CAPILLARY FLOW OF THE GROUND WATER.

The use of open vaults of water closets emptying in cesspools tends to fill up the soil with fecal matter. A single vault poisons a circumferential space around it. Within the limit of the annual matters preponderate either constantly or at some period of the year. They may long remain simply disagreeable without being dangerous, and may again, of a sudden, become seed-beds of the nursery of infection that breaks out in fevers and dysentery. The danger increases as the quantity of filth and the number of its receptacles increase. To cover them up does not necessarily remove the soil. The patrid matters soak into the soil, and move upward and downward in it with the motion of the soil water. When we have copious rains they are carried down perhaps to nearly the level of the water in our wells. In the heat and drought of August these matters rise again. In the absence of rain, the rapid drying of the surface creates an upward capillary flow of the ground water. The matters which in rainy times follow the surface-water to the depths, in drought follow the ground-water to the surface. The safest mode of escaping the evils in question hitherto adopted in closely built towns consists in removing all human excreta as well as foul liquids to a distance by subterranean sewerage.—From the New Haven Palladium, by Prof. S. W. Johnson, of Yale College.

FOUND DEAD IN THE WOODS.—William Higgins was found dead in the woods, three-quarters of a mile from his residence in Brookfield, N. S., on Tuesday morning, at 11.30, where he had gone to cut wood. The deceased was a man of 70 years, stout and corpulent, and it is supposed to have died from some obscure heart trouble. Do not take any substitute when you ask the true blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Insist upon Hood's and only Hood's.

WEDDING BELLS.

An interesting event of the festive season was that which took place at the residence of the bride's parents, New Glasgow, on the eve of the new year, when Mary, eldest daughter of Richard Y. McCoubrey, Esq., was united in the bonds of matrimony with Mr. J. Herbert Simpson, of Bay View. The bride was attended by Miss Alice Wise, of Charlottetown, and Mr. Stewart Simpson, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man. The nuptial knot was tied in the presence of a number of the immediate relations of the contracting parties by the Rev. B. Hedley Baiderton, B. A. After partaking of the good things provided, a very pleasant evening was spent in merry making until the New Year had been ushered in, when the happy couple drove to their future home at Bay View. The EXAMINER joins in the congratulations.

NEWS NOTES.

A stranger entered the hardware store of A. Towle, of Wilmington, Ill., the other evening, said he wanted to buy a revolver, and requested it to be loaded. When handed him for inspection, he ordered Towle and a drummer in the store to hold up their hands. The store was from the money drawer and made his escape.

A red dinner was given recently at a London Hotel by two gamblers who had won 350,000 francs at one sitting from the bank at Monte Carlo by playing on the red. The room was draped in red, red shades were placed over the electric lights, geraniums decorated the table, and the waiters wore red ties, red gloves, red shirts and red buttons on their coats and vests.

Lady Eastlake's letter and journal just published are full of racy reading. Here is one little tit-bit: "A lady was telling me yesterday that she had met Herbert Bismark at the Duke of Westminster's, and never saw a more comical and comical man. I should like to toss Herbert Bismark and Herbert Gladstone in one blanket and their papas in another. I must not venture to say more, or I will shock even you."

The German citizens and press of Detroit and Milwaukee are spluttering most courageously over their hostile feeling against Great Britain. One phlegmatic paper, the Volk-Wacht, of Detroit, tries to become hysterical on the subject, and in a clumsy way succeeds. It exclaims: "Canada must be ours. Oh! if only the German-English war would come!" What fellows the world is in a war, or even in two wars, one between Britain and Germany, and another between Britain and the United States!

Science is making vast strides towards the accomplishment of what seems properly to belong to the realm of the impossible. A man can now swallow an electric light and illuminate the mysteries of his interior without injury, and a sage of the Wuerzburg University, Prof. Rougier, is said to have discovered an illuminant that will penetrate a man's flesh and render it possible to photograph what lies at any given depth beneath. Stray bullets, fractures, growths, etc., may thus be located and examined without the assistance of surgical instruments. If the professor's discovery is as great as he claims, the surgical science will have achieved one of its greatest triumphs.

According to our commercial reports from New York, business across the line is dull even for this dull period of the year. Generally stocks appear to require immediate requirements, and doubt as to the financial course that Congress will pursue and rather doubtful political conditions at home and abroad are depressing trade and killing industry. Elections are, as a rule, slow, and reports of travellers during the last few days mention only a moderate demand, though activity has increased in dry goods, boots and clothing generally. While the conditions are not, perhaps, as favorable as might be wished, it is satisfactory to be told that in no direction are they worse, and in several much better, than was the case a week ago.

Britain has bought the Delagoa Bay dependency from Portugal, the Transvaal will be surrounded by British territory, and all the approaches to it will be in British hands. That will be to the commercial advantage of the republic, as at present she is a railway from Delagoa Bay to Johannesburg and Pretoria is of comparative little service owing to the lack of enterprise of the Portuguese colonists. Germany evidently calculated on seizing that road, with scarcely a "by your leave" to Portugal, and transporting her troops to the Cape by sea. But the British railway to Fisking will be as effectually closed. Germany could not send forces through its own territory on the west coast, for after passing through that trackless region Bechuanaland would have to be traversed.

A letter received describing the situation at Sivas, Eastern Turkey, says the story of the massacre there is "a sickening recital of horrors." "It is one thing to hear of the massacre of 1,500 people," says the writer, and quite another to witness the shooting of friends and neighbors and walk streets flowing with their blood, and just when we begin to recover from the horror of the scenes here, news comes of their repetition, with even additional horrors, at Manjalek and Gurus. From a total population of 9,000 Armenians at Gurus, it is stated on good authority that 1,200 were killed. All Gregorian and Protestant houses were looted and twenty-seven also among the Catholics. Of the houses sacked, 1,000 were burned, including three Protestant chapels. The pastor of the Protestant church and his wife are alive, but they lost their home and all their household goods. Three priests of the Gregorian church were killed, but another saved his life by accepting the Mohammedan faith. Girls and boys were carried off to serve the vile purpose of the murderers. It is said that mothers to save their children from this end threw them into the river. Those who attacked the town were chiefly Kurds, aided by the neighboring tribes of men of all the Mohammedan races. There were so many of them that they had defended the town against all comers from without. Why it did not do so is a mystery."

MATCHING HIS EYES.—A famous dressmaker has ventured on a new idea. Let the bright sunlight shine directly in your eyes and the predominant color discerned therein will be the color to choose for a gown, irrespective of hair or complexion, when you wish to look most bewitchingly and becomingly arrayed. In brown eyes shines a sort of grayish hue, in blue eyes a watery azure, and in certain eyes a greenish shade. However, all the tints are purchasable, and with the promised result there is no reason not to be beautiful. Do not take any substitute when you ask the true blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Insist upon Hood's and only Hood's.

A SUCCESSFUL FIRM.

The large optical firm of Messrs. A. J. Lloyd & Co., 323,325 Washington Street, and 454 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., have just received two gold medals from the Mechanics' Charitable Association of Massachusetts, for their exhibit in the Mechanics Fair, recently closed in that city, and lasting for a period of two months. One of these was awarded for best improvements in optical goods, special attention being given to the most scientific and thorough method of manufacturing and adjusting spectacles and eye glasses suited to all manners of complicated troubles of the eye. The other was given for the best all round exhibit in the entire fair, there being some 600 or 700 altogether.

The committee of judges also congratulated the representatives of the firm on their skilled workmanship, and upon the courtesy extended to spectators in showing them the many processes of manufacturing, etc. This is considered a splendid success.

Mr. R. N. Taylor, son of Dr. F. P. Taylor, of this city, was one of the representatives of Messrs. A. J. Lloyd & Co., at the Fair, and contributed much to the success of the firm. He is to be congratulated upon being connected with one of the leading optical firms of the United States. The firm employs some sixty-five men, and fully seventy-five per cent. of these are engaged in the retail of spectacles and eye-glasses alone.

AFRAID TO GIVE THE FRANCHISE.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—In an interview on the Transvaal situation, J. B. Robinson, the richest of the South African millionaires, the largest employer of labor in the land, the half owner of the yacht Valkyrie III., said the question of granting the franchise to the Uitlanders was the only knotty point. He was thoroughly conversant with President Kruger's views on the subject. In a recent conversation between Mr. Robinson and President Kruger, the latter said: "If I give the franchise to the foreigners I may as well hand down the Transvaal flag." Mr. Robinson, nevertheless, believes a modified franchise will be given to the Uitlanders. He claims to know that the visit to Berlin of Dr. Leyds, secretary of state of the Transvaal, was solely for the purpose of consulting an oculist. Mr. Robinson predicts that in future harmony will prevail between the English and the Boers, resulting in the federation of the Transvaal and Cape Colony.

IN THE LAND OF THE FREE.—Since early this morning, says a Perry, Okla., despatch of the 15th, the whole town has been intensely excited over the school question, and serious trouble is feared. When the schools were opened, admittance to colored children in the high school or other public schools, except those designated months ago for the exclusive use of colored children, was denied.

THE QUEBEC CARNIVAL.—The carnival at Quebec will open on the 27th January and close on the 1st February. Among the many attractions during the week will be an attack upon the citadel by the troops, a carnival drive in which the many curious phases of winter life in the north will be shown, fancy dress balls on the various covered and outdoor rinks, grand carnival in the Chateau Frontenac, hockey matches, curling, combined snowshoes attack upon the ice fortress with a protean display and blowing up of the fortress.

NO SKATING THERE.—A Sydney, N. S. W. despatch of the 14th says that the weather here to-day is the hottest on record, many deaths from sunstroke.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

SATISFACTION AT OTTAWA.

Government Party Stand United.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER TO BE LEADER OF THE COMMONS.

He Will Represent Cape Breton.

High Hopes in Business and Financial Circles.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16.

Ministerial explanations were made in both Houses yesterday, indicating that the Cabinet has been satisfactorily reconstructed on the lines laid down in THE EXAMINER'S despatch yesterday. Sir A. P. Caron having read a statement in the Commons, it was attacked by Laurier and Cartwright, but both gentlemen wholly failed to make any impression on the House, as they will fail to make an impression on the country. They found the ministerial ranks solidly united, the party standing shoulder to shoulder, the breach healed and peace reigning. The reconstruction has been a bitter blow to Grit hopes, and Beauvelois friends who came up here to urge that their names be taken into Laurier's administration have had to leave for their homes like so many whipped curs. Cartwright by his bitter speech yesterday injured the Grit party, and Hazen gave him a severe chastising for his unjust reference to Nova Scotia. Hon. Mr. Foster's speech was a cold and moderate one and a complete vindication of the ministerial position. Last night the date late was endorsed by a slashing speech from Sir C. H. Tupper, who fully explained the reasons which had led the seven ministers to press for the strengthening of the cabinet.

It is definitely settled that the new Secretary of State will represent Cape Breton in the House of Commons. There being no desire to disturb the existing representation, David McKeen has decided to resign and Sir Charles will take his seat. Sir Charles will proceed direct to Cape Breton where he will address three meetings, viz., at Sydney, North Sydney and Glace Bay.

Sir Charles Tupper made his first appearance within the precincts of the House yesterday afternoon, and received a magnificent ovation in Room 16. After thanking his friends for their cordial greetings, he said: "I am going to Nova Scotia, my native province, but I will be back in a few days to take my place in the House among you. One thing, however, I want you to remember and that is, that no matter what happens you must stand by the Liberal-Conservative party. We are going to carry the country in the interests of Canada and of the Empire."

The cheers which followed this observation almost raised the roof. It is understood that Sir Charles Tupper will be the Leader of the House. All the new members have been sworn in.

There is no reason why, under the new leadership, the Conservatives should not be returned to power with as large a majority as it now enjoys.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.

Sir Charles Tupper's new policy is all the talk here. The World in an editorial headed, "New planks in the Conservative platform," says: "In addition to the National Policy which, in itself, ought to be enough to keep the Conservatives in power," now, the Cabinet, as led by Sir Charles Tupper, has already announced that the Conservative platform will be enlarged so as to include the question of closer trade relations with the Mother Country, and the betterment of defence along the Canadian border. Sir Charles Tupper's intimate knowledge of public opinion in Great Britain, and his personal acquaintance with the leading statesmen of England, render him particularly fitted for securing to Canada, whatever advantages are possible under the circumstances.

THE MANITOBA ELECTIONS.

Greenway's Sweeping Victory.

The Manitoba elections yesterday resulted in a sweeping victory for the Greenway Government, and the advocates of the national school system as a consequence are jubilant. The Greenway Government, three went to the Opposition, three to the Patrons, and two remain in doubt. The balance goes to the Government, although many of them were won by very narrow majorities.
