Wayne And Shuster Charm Local Rotarians

Peals of laughter and unrestrained applause greeted the sallies of wit and humor unleashed by Wayne and Shuster internationally famous Canadian comedians, as they each spoke only briefly before the Rotary Club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday. Frank Shuster, speaking on behalf of his partner and the entire staff accompanying them, said they were delighted to be in Charlottetown to receive the "best ever" reception. He was delighted to be at the Rotary luncheon as a "strong silent intelligent member of the team." Here his partner interjected: "Liar. He would rather be out playing golf—he thought it was going to rain so he came here."

The warmth and courtesy of the people here won a word of appreciation from the commander of "The Sullivans," the U.S. warship in port when he said to Mr. Shuster last evening: "This is one of the best places on earth."

"It is not going to be easy to maintain Charlottetown in the hearts of all Canadians but all school children are hearing and will continue to hear about the 'Cradle of Confederation,'" he said.

SUPPORTS CBC
Mr. Wayne stressed the necessity for the existence of the CBC but regretted the need to look to the USA for much entertaining material. "Canadians are running next door to use their neighbor's telephone when they should have one of their own," he said. "Charlottetown with the new theatre must maintain sentiment of this kind."

Referring to the meeting of the Fathers of Confederation here 100 years ago the speaker said: "Up above they were always at odds but after a few hours here under the mellowing influence of the island, people and atmosphere of peace and tranquility, their differences were smoothed out and they agreed to complete their task of unification."

Both speakers said they hoped to be back to Charlottetown again as Canada citizens, to visit the place where Canada was born. The hope was expressed that visitors would here from here all over the world appreciate the historic connection with Canada as a whole.

The speakers were introduced by chairman Fulton Pierce and thanked by co-chairman Dr. Ken Parker, who also presented a memento of the occasion.

Jerusalem Study Centre Is Planned By Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI was reported Monday night planning in Jerusalem a permanent study centre of comparative theology to promote Christian unity and better relations with non-Christian faiths.

The source described the centre as a personal project of Pope Paul, envisaged as a lasting monument to his historic meeting with Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras in the Holy Land. The Pope was said to have been working on the plan since then.

Private North American contributions will pay part of its cost, the source added. He said the research in comparative theology "will pay special attention to Orthodox theology" but will be broader than Christianity's confines and the current Christian unity interest.

STAFFED BY OTHERS
"The idea is that it should be staffed not only by Roman Catholics but rather that there should be a certain openness in the staff."

The Jordan sector — the old Jerusalem site of many shrines of Christians, Moslems and Jews — was considered the more likely to be chosen for the centre. The Vatican does not recognize Israel.

Last spring Pope Paul created a special Vatican secretariat for non-Christian religions, to make contact with faiths beyond Christianity on matters of common interest.

Official Flag To Fly Today For First Time

Prime Edward Island's new flag will be officially unfurled this morning at nine o'clock by Premier Walter R. Shaw.

The ceremony will take place atop the Province Building in Charlottetown and it is expected that the premier will be assisted in the ceremony by Prov. I. A. Secretary J. David Stewart.

At 9:05 a.m. the flag will also be raised at City Hall and at Summerside Town Hall. After the ceremonies, anyone who wishes may fly the flag.

It was inaccurately stated yesterday that Prime Minister Lester Pearson would break out the new flag at this morning's ceremony. Premier Shaw said last night, however, that Mr. Pearson will not take part in the ceremony.

The provincial flag received approval at the last session of the Legislature and is mainly the coat-of-arms of the province. On it, a huge yellow lion rears above an island showing an oak tree and three saplings.

PLEBISCITE

He said that young people in Canada have been quoted as wanting a new flag and this might be because Canadians, and especially those who were educators had failed to point out to them the distinctiveness of the flag we now had.

COMMITTEE SUGGESTED
The idea of setting up a committee devoted serious consideration, Mr. Macquarrie said, and he suggested the committee should call in two architects, two historians and two artists, so as to avoid the trouble which realistic people felt when they saw the symbol that was placed before the Commission.

"If the prime minister could come out with his own flag as a compromise, retrace his steps and accede to the pleas of the people, the realistic people's submission, then out of this unfortunate division may come another example of Canada's ability to work together when the chips are down. If so, the flag debate was well taken up and, if so, we shall have proven ourselves. I think, Mr. Speaker, we can do it," Mr. Macquarrie concluded.
