

EDITORIAL

this week the wise words of the editor will be extremely brief because we are racing against a speedily approaching deadline, and if you want your newspaper on time, we must meet that deadline promptly.

we suggest that students heed the advice given by Security on page 3. please, get your registration stickers. if you find it necessary to park on any of the roadways, take your excuse to security and they may allow permission to park there.

the task force meeting in the barn monday was quite enlightening on the employment situation here. if one could get around the verbage and statistics the testimony of private citizens and a small businessman were interesting and understandable in their informality. all that remains to be seen of course, is whether the federal government will act upon the suggestions of the task force, or whether the entire paper will be shelved for future reference.

my last point is the most important one this week. regarding mr. clow's letter on this page, ms. smits only wrote the article on the front page last week. i gathered the information and gave it to her to write up as i was short of time. as for the facts, well, when three or four differnt individuals tell you the same facts, you tend to believe them. perhaps mr. clow, you are defending your job? i might add that the persons from whom i received the information were present at the barn when the break-in was discovered, or shortly afterwards.

let that be a lesson to you all. the SUN staff is so overworked that it finds it next to impossible to cover every side to any situation.

have a funny week and be strong.

IN THE MAIL

Letter to The Editor,

Now that, hopefully, everyone in Blanchard Hall knows that Frankie is not a guy, she would like to take this opportunity to express a huge and hardy THANK YOU for everyone's support which enabled me to win the presidency of this years House Committee. I would also like to thank Marlene Montgomery for being a spirited competitor. Give us a hand this year Marlene. Your experience would sure come in handy!!

I would also like to remind everyone that the House Committee is here for you the students. Get involved and we can resurrect Blanchard Hall.

Any suggestions, no matter how far cut, any criticisms no matter how cruel will be welcome. I'm not far away, just in room #309 so come on up and have a chat. Let's make this one heck of a year!! Enought of this pep talk. Before I take up anymore space, I'd like to give a personal thanks to Marie LeLoup, Jane Hickey, Marsha Smith Cathy Waite and Maureen Hartman, the editor of this fantastic newspaper for the terrif (my head still hurts) victory party and all their support during my campaign.

Dear Ms. Smits and THE EYE

It is quite obvious Ms. Smits never researched what she wrote about in the second issue on the front page of The Sun. She writes like a headline grapping rookie out for sensationalism instead of being responsible enough to ask questions of people who were involved. Myself and Kent Walker would have gladly set you straight if you had taken the time to ask.

Here are the facts Ms. Smits:

1. It was impossible to crawl through the window. What they did was break the window and then reach inside, unlock the window and push it open.
2. The strongest door in the barn is the door guarding our beloved alcohol and it was not left unlocked. The outside door leading into the store-rooms was left open so the CP's could leave their CP jackets where they are supposed to be left.
3. Fifteen cases of beer were not left out in an unlocked room. There were five cases and one full 40 oz. bottle of rye left locked up in the storage room where we leave our chips, peanuts and pop all year round.

Last, but not least The Eye:-

1. The third floor cannot be used as a bar, as we had a hard time obtaining licenses for both the 1st and 2nd floor bars.
2. Your statement that many people had to wait to be served on Friday night was just, but that people were ignored is wrong. When people are 15 across and 4 deep, waiting to be served, it is sometimes tough to decide who should be served ahead of who and usually the more you have had to drink, the more you think you are better than the next guy and should be served first.

Next time, you, Ms. Smits, or The Eye, decide to write, be sure of what you are writing by obtaining all the facts. Criticism has it's place, but only when it is done in a responsible manner. Tom Clow
