HANLAN-ELLIOTT.
Hanlan Easily Wins the Championship of England by 10 Lengths in 21 Minutes and 30 Seconds.

HANLAN'S, THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT EVER SEEN IN BRITISH WATERS.

LONDON, June 17.
Yesterday at noon an event that has been creating much interest and even sensation in sporting circles in England came off on the Tyne championship course, between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, and the English champion, William Elliott, when they rowed a single scull race from a point 15 yards above High Level Bridge to Scottswood Suspension Bridge, a distance of three miles and fifty-seven yards, for £400 and the Sportsman Champion cup. The result was an easy victory for the Canadian Champion, and has created a good deal of surprise and excitement, although anticipated by many. From the time the match was made great interest was manifested, which continued until the day of the race. A large amount of money had been staked on the race, the odds being throughout very much in favor of the Canadian Champion, he having had the call at 100 to 30. The morning of the race 5 to 2 was laid on Hanlan, and just before the start he was in much better favor.

Both of the men have been in thorough training since the match was made. The day before the race Elliott declared himself to have never been in so good condition before, and Hanlan was excellent.

Newcastle was thronged with strangers, who came to see the boat race, and it is admitted by all that never before had so great a crowd assembled to witness any boat race on the Tyne course. Every favorable position for viewing the course from the river banks was taken up the night before, and all the morning of the race excursion trains kept carrying to the city eager crowds of people. It is computed that there were between 70,000 to 80,000 present to witness the race. The docks, shipyards, bridges and meadows were covered with a dense and surging crowd of human beings all the morning, and on the water the steamers, tugs and every available craft was laden to the waters edge with human freight.

THE RACE.
The morning dawned dull and dark, but there was every indication of dry, fine weather; and as the day advanced the river was crowded with crafts of all kinds from a small punt to a huge steam collier, fitted up for the event. At 11 o'clock the river police commenced the task of clearing the course, so as to prevent delay, and by 11.30 they had accomplished their difficult job. Shortly after the stake-boats were moored opposite the Mansion House, in the middle of the river, and the "Gateshead," having on board the referee, judges and a number of others, took up her position. Elliott stepped into his shell first, being assisted by Renforth and McGregor, and was greeted with shouts from tens of thousands of his admirers. Hanlan got into his boat on the Gateshead side of the river, and was also heartily applauded. They then pulled leisurely to the stake-boat and peered for the struggle before them. Elliott

STRIPPED TO THE SKIN.
Hanlan was dressed in a dark blue sleeveless jersey. Hanlan appeared in perfect condition, and his opponent showed remarkably good form and muscular development. When the Gateshead steamed up to the starting point, the contestants followed and took up their positions a few moments after, and their respective cutters came up behind them. The toss was won by Elliott, who chose the northern shore. All was now in readiness, and, after the preliminaries had been arranged, the men were given the word, and at 12.15, making a beautiful start. Elliott took water first, and dashed off at 40 strokes per minute, putting forth all his great strength, but still not making his boat move well, as he splashed now and then. Hanlan went off at a stroke of 42 to the minute, reaching away forward with his long, sweeping stroke, and immediately drew to the front. The struggle that followed was intensely exciting, and both the men pulled in remarkably fine form. Elliott's rowing was nearly perfect, but it was apparent that the Canadian's style of rowing was by far the best, and, at the conclusion of the first half mile, Hanlan was a length ahead and pulling a winning race, having led by a half length for the first fifty and one hundred yards. From this on Hanlan had a good lead, and kept it easily, Elliott only making a spurt at the meadows, where he put on a magnificent burst of speed, driving his boat rapidly through the water—but all in vain. At Elswick Gangway, Hanlan lowered his stroke to 32, finding he had a safe race, while Elliott was rowing 35 and giving evidence of wild rowing. He also steered badly; Hanlan steered well. At the head of the meadows, Hanlan had a lead of five lengths, and when off Benwell Boat House, a short distance past Paradise Quay, he stopped, looked around him to see what distance there was to cover, smiling pleasantly to the crowd the while, and then took up his oars—rowing a powerful stroke that sent the frail shell forging through the water at great speed. He rowed under Scottswood Bridge amid uproarious cheers and deafening plaudits, the winner of the race by 10 lengths, in 21 minutes and 30 seconds.

The race was another of the same kind as Hanlan's contest with Hawden, in which the fact of his winning so easily, and particularly that of having rested on his oars, have been scoured by many and looked upon by all as strange. This race, which he has apparently won quite as easily, will set these doubts, perhaps, forever at rest and stamp the Canadian champion more than ever

A WONDERFUL SCULLER.
The Newcastle Journal of yesterday says that the race was one of the heaviest gambling races that ever took place upon the Tyne, and that during the past two months heavy sums have been invested on Hanlan. Elliott before the race was confident in himself, and called out to some of his friends on the referee's boat, "I will take 3 to 1 that I lead all the way," which met with no response, however. Hanlan, it would appear, had prepared for work and settled down to it. He was comparatively fresh on coming in, but Elliott appeared used up, giving evidence that he had rowed all he knew how. The weather was fine and the water calm. The sporting reporters say that such performances of Hanlan's yesterday have never been witnessed before on British waters.

FRANCE.
VERSAILLES, June 16.
In the discussion of Ferry's Education Bill, in the Chamber of Deputies, to-day, Cassagnac accused Ferry of uttering calumnies against religious orders and with falsifying documents. He refused to retract, and on the left voting the censure of Cassagnac the confusion became so great that Gambetta left the chair, temporarily closing the session. Cassagnac continued speaking after the quaestors had cleared the galleries, amid great confusions. The Chamber of Deputies, on resuming its sitting, voted to exclude Cassagnac from the Chamber for three days. Cassagnac, replying, declared the present Cabinet infamous. Gambetta threatened him with prosecution.

THE REVOLUTION IN MEXICO.
GALVESTON, Texas, June 16.
A special from Laredo states that reliable information from the City of Mexico, of June 11th, says that General Negrete Courdy, of the Mexican army, who pronounced against Diaz, has left the city with 3,000 adherents. Diaz is in pursuit. Vallarte, president of the Supreme Court, is acting as President.

A telegram from Rio Janeiro states that General Goby has deposed the President of Paraguay and seized upon the Government.

Banking Audits.
The Monetary Times says that the idea of appointing auditors for the purpose of examining the accounts of banks, and of certifying to the correctness of the reports made by the directors, is one that is obtaining much attention and favor, in these times of reduced dividends and impaired capital. The idea seems to take its rise in a distrust of the statements made by those who have the responsible management. And this distrust, to go back a step further, has probably arisen from the fact that, after the statement had been made, year after year, full provision had been made for bad and doubtful debts, there still have remained in succeeding years large amounts to be written off. Be the cause, however, what it may, of the distrust itself there can be no doubt. Reasonable or unreasonable, it exists; and its influence is felt in the reduced prices of bank stocks, and the inadequate quotations therefor. This distrust is by no means confined to Canada. Since the horrible revelations connected with the break down of the City of Glasgow Bank, bank stockholders, in every part of Great Britain, have asked themselves whether it is possible that pervasions and misstatements may not exist elsewhere. And in financial circles this matter of an official audit of banks is one of the prominent topics of discussion.

DUTIES ON TIN.—By a recent order in Council, it is provided that under certain conditions there will be paid a draw-back on all sheet tin-plate and other materials used in the manufacture of packages for articles exported from Canada, the sum of 17 cents for each box of said tin used in such manufactures, if imported prior to the 15th day of March, 1879, or the sum of 34 cents on each box of tin used and imported subsequent to that date, which sum shall be held to include the drawback on the holders of any and all other materials used in the manufacture of said packages.

In Montreal on Saturday evening last, a young American lady, residing with a family of Dr. Thaylor, Bever Hall Hill, when passing at the corner of Mountain Street, clasped her hand to her forehead and gave an exclamation of surprise and said she was struck. Upon being taken to a house it was found she had received a pistol bullet over the left eye. The ball was extracted, but the shock to her nervous system makes the case serious. It is supposed the ball was fired by some person carelessly.

AROMATIC MONTSERRAT QUININE CORDIAL which is a combination of Pure Quinine, with Lime Fruit Juice, cordialised by the addition of Aromatics, but

ENTIRELY FREE FROM ALCOHOL.
Upon the medicinal virtues of Lime Juice and Quinine it is unnecessary to dilate. The combination of two agents of such universally acknowledged value, in at once a palatable and innocuous form, has been a desideratum long sought, but only now successfully accomplished; for although the Tonic qualities of Quinine have been popularised in the form of QUININE WINES, it is well known these combinations have been attended with serious evils consequent upon the Alcoholic Stimulants they all contain, at once prejudicial to health and demoralising in their tendency.
Aromatic Montserrat Quinine Cordial is guaranteed to contain one grain of Quinine in each wineglassful, and to be entirely free from alcohol, being prepared solely from the Montserrat Lime Fruit Juice combined with Aromatics.
