approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved food. Consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

THE SIGN OF THE FOUR

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

As it proved, however, there was no great mystery. The whole country was up like a swarm of bees. Wherever the English could collect in little bands they held just the ground that the English commanded. Everywhere else they were helpless fugitives. It was a fight of the millions against the hundreds; and the cruellest part of their loss was that the English were against foot, horse and gunners, were our own picked troops, whom we had taught and trained, handling our own weapons, and that we had to see them call. At Agra there were the Third Bengal Fusiliers, some Sikhs, two troops of horse, and a battery of artillery. I don't know if any of your gentlemen have ever read or heard anything of that old fort. It is a very queer place—the queerest that ever I was in, and I have been in some queer corners, too. First of all, it is enormous in size. I should think that the enclosure must be acres and acres. There is a walled garden, with trees, a garrison, women, children, stores and everything else, with plenty of room over. But the modern part is nothing like the size of the old quarter, where nobody goes, and which is given over to the scorpions and the centipedes. There is a great deserted hall, and winding passages, and long corridors winding in and out, so that it is easy enough for folks to get lost in it, and I have been in some queer corners, too. "The City of Agra is a great place, swarming with fanatics and fierce devil-worshippers of all sorts. Our handful of men were lost among the narrow, winding streets. Our leader moved across the river, therefore, and took up his position in the old fort of Agra. I don't know if any of your gentlemen have ever read or heard anything of that old fort. Scott's Sarsaparilla his Salvation. Nothing blights existence like the knowledge that our appearance is repulsive to those with whom we have contact, nor is there any relief like that of feeling that the disfiguring cause has been removed. Says Mr. William Alger: "My face on one side was a mass of blotches, some of which were constantly full of matter. I run a bake shop doing my own work, but my face got so bad that customers drifted away. The high a man went to a doctor. He said my blood was in a horrible condition. I sold my business and moved to the city where Scott's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me. The first bottle did me much good, and after taking five bottles my skin is as clear as possible, and not a sign of my previous disfigurement. I say Scott's Sarsaparilla is the best blood medicine going and an speaking from experience. Pimples, blotches, boils, ulcers and all diseases arising from vital exhaustion and impure blood are radically cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla, a concentrated compound of the finest medicines ever known. Your druggist has it at hand. Get Scott's. The kind that cures."

ORIGIN OF ODD STYLES.

Many of Them Are Due Merely to Accident. But That Makes no Difference to Fashion Followers.

The late Charles Worth left a large accumulation of most interesting papers, which will eventually be published. The origin of this or that inscrutable decree of Dame Fashion has often appeared incomprehensible to the uninitiated, but it has generally been found that simple accident is responsible for some freak on her part which has become more or less the reigning sign of popularity, and been all the rage until replaced by something newer. Worth once modestly asserted that he did not create fashions, only followed them, and that many changes had arisen from an unforeseen combination of circumstances, so that no one can pronounce confidently from whence a fashion came, or how. In one of these papers he gives some interesting examples.

It is not universally known that Queen Victoria's desire to hide a hand-dagel foot brought in longer skirts than had previously been worn, nor how the frantic craze for yellow which once obtained in Paris was brought about. A poor woman came to Rachel on one day with a length of yellow material which the great tragedienne pronounced "impossible," yet brought out of kindness of heart. Chancing to come upon the stuff some time after, she had a gown made of it to wear in one of her favorite roles, and thus it became the famous yellow gown which every one raved over and made haste to imitate. Much more recent is another incident related by Worth. A lady who was making only a temporary stop in the capital wished to attend the graves of a merchant, should take it to the fort at Agra, there to lie until the land is at peace. Thus, if the rebels won he would have his money, but if the Company conquer his jewels would be saved to him. Having thus divided his hoard, he threw himself into the cause of the Sepoys, since they were strong upon his landing. By his doing this mark you, Sahib, his property becomes the due of those who have been true to their salt. (To be Continued.)

Timely Warning.

The great success of the chocolate preparations of the house of Walter Baker & Co. (established in 1780) has led to the placing on the market many misleading and unscrupulous imitations of their name, labels, and wrappers. Walter Baker & Co. are the oldest and largest manufacturers of pure and high-grade Cocos and Chocolates on this continent. No chemicals are used in their manufactures. Consumers should ask for, and be sure that they get, the genuine Walter Baker & Co.'s goods.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. OSOON, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any other medicine."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular Castoria, yet we are free to confess that the merit of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."
