REV. DR. McDONALD was prompt to time in Ludlow Hall, Summerside, on Wednesday night, and for about an hour entertained his audience with a most interesting account of his "Tour through Scotland," and which it will be remembered he took in 1874. The night was intensely cold, and Ludlow Hall is a very difficult room to heat up, consequently the audience he would have of a fine night, he did not have more than one-third of. This he realized, and consequently made his lecture shorter than otherwise he should have done.—Journal.

ONE of the longest funeral processions that ever passed through the streets of Charlottetown, was the conclusive testimony of to-day to the esteem in which the late William Russell Watson was held by the community in which he did his duty as an official, as a citizen, and as a man, so long and so well. The procession was made up in the following order:—

- City Lodges of the Masonic Fraternity. Ministers. Physicians. Hearse. Mourners. Concourse of Citizens.

REMNANTS—A lot of remnant of dress goods, great bargains at J. B. McDonald's. [ja 19 2]

THERE was no truth in the report—published in THE EXAMINER some time ago, under the head of "Georgetown Notes"—to the effect that a cargo of sanded oats had been sent from Souris for sale to Hon. D. Gordon. We regret the publication of the report, and hereby tender an apology to those who may be aggrieved. We may remark that the gentleman who finished the "note" is one of the most respectable and reliable residents of King's County; but, in this instance, his report was based on erroneous information. It is said, on good authority, that there was a car-load of sanded oats in the Georgetown market last December; but not for Hon. Mr. Gordon.

WE are informed by letter from Westport, Pa., dated January 18, 1882, that William S., son of Stanislaus P. Perry, Esq., M. P. P., very narrowly escaped death not long since while running logs off the side of a mountain of the Allegheny range near that place. A tree had fallen across the slide, and caused the logs to pile up against it, when young Perry undertook to cut off the tree for the purpose of freeing the logs. When cut nearly through he stepped off it, when it broke and the logs started. He jumped on them and rode safely for one hundred yards, when he fell over and about fifty logs passed over him, bruising him, as may well be supposed in a shocking manner, but not fatally. He was insured in the Traveller's Accident Insurance Co., and receives $5 a week until he is able to work.—Journal.
