Sectarianism at the School Board.

THE appointment of which "A Protestant" writes has been the subject of some comment in the City during the past few days. Strange to say those who seem to be most strongly opposed to it on the ground that Mr. McDonald is "a Roman Catholic," are among the loudest supporters of non-sectarianism in the schools. They maintain that the Government ought, as far as our public schools are concerned, to know neither Protestant nor Catholic; yet they at once know Mr. Macdonald as "a Roman Catholic" when he is appointed to the School Board. One would imagine that the only question which could be raised with reference to the appointment, would be, is Mr. Macdonald possessed of the requisite business capacity and ability for the position? That question satisfactorily answered, there should be no more discussion about the matter—at least on the part of secularists.

But, taking the sectarian ground, no valid objection can be raised to Mr. Macdonald's appointment. The Government have the appointment of four School Trustees. The late Administration appointed four Protestants; and, so far as they were concerned, left the Roman Catholics, who form nearly half our city population, wholly unrepresented at the School Board. On the retirement of one of the four, at the expiration of five years, the present Administration appointed a Roman Catholic—leaving still on the Board three Protestants and one Roman Catholic. Where is the injustice—to Protestants—in this? Not certainly with the Government. Two of the three gentlemen appointed by the City Council are Roman Catholics; and, if fault is to be found, it should be with the Council—not with the Government.

Why should Protestants be so very "jealous" of the appointment of Catholics to the School Board? Have the Catholics attempted, or made the faintest effort, to sectarianize the public schools or to hinder their success? They have not. On the contrary, they have submitted without a murmur to the will of the majority of the people, as expressed at the polls; and have heartily assisted their fellow citizens in making the public schools successful. Judging the future by the past, we believe we are safe in predicting that the School Law will be kept as sacredly inviolate by the Hon. A. A. Macdonald, Thomas Handrahan, Esq., and J. B. Macdonald, Esq., as by any three Protestants who could be selected.

The Crisis in Egypt.

As the war in Egypt is now assuming a religious as well as political phase, it may be well to note the material from which a gigantic force may be formed. Islam numbers 175,000,000 supporters, divided into four great sects, viz:—

1. The Sunites or Orthodox Mohammedans	145,000,000
2. The Sect of Ali	15,000,000
3. The Abadites	7,000,000
4. The Wahhabites	8,000,000

Among the popular beliefs of this vast number, and common to every sect, is this one—that when the power of God's worshippers has grown weak and their faith become corrupted by the influx of foreigners, a leader and prophet shall arise who shall restore the fortunes of the true believers. This prophet is to force his way by the sword, and the prophecy foretells that he shall enter Mecca when the streets are overflowed with blood. Here is the prophetic utterance, handed down from Ali ibn abu Taleb: "I swear to thee, O my son I swear by my soul, and by my offspring, and by Kerbela, and by its temple, that, the day shall come on which our beards shall be dyed with blood. And I swear that afterwards God shall raise up a man, the Mohdy, who shall stand in our place, the lord of mankind. He it is, who shall avenge us, nay, he shall avenge thy blood also, O Huseyn. Therefore have patience. For the blood of one man he shall shed the blood of a thousand; and he will not spare them who have helped our enemies." The Shiites have already fixed upon this saviour and say he will appear "when the Turkish rule is in decay." This sect goes further and says that after accomplishing his vengeance and re-establishing justice, he shall rule for an undetermined period, when Jesus, the Son of Mary, also shall come, and the Apostle Mohammed, an apparition which will announce the end of the world.

Now, there exists a remarkable coincidence of prediction, Christian and Mohammedan, pointed out in Rohrbacher's History of the Church, published in 1845. Here, by elaborate calculation, based on the Old Testament prophecies, the author arrives at the conclusion that the Turkish Empire will fall in 1882, the date assigned the fulfilment of the Mohammedan prediction.

Lately, a great religious reformer, said to fill all the conditions requisite as the foretold prophet, has given much trouble to the authorities by his fierce denunciations against aliens, and his stirring appeals to the people to fight for their own by the sword. The first shot has been fired, the blood has begun to flow, the spirit of Islam is aroused, already the prophet has bidden them whet the sword; and now he places himself at the head of the patriots, and with the cry of God and our country, follows in the steps of his master Mahomet.

Ourabi (or Arabi) is the faithful henchman of this prophet, and from the peculiar circumstances connected with his almost miraculous elevation, is the idol of the people. Ourabi is considered a man of austere devotion, and studiously refrains from becoming rich by giving his whole substance to the poor. He was a peasant, but is now the greatest man in Egypt. Having conquered the almost insurmountable obstacles that oppose the political progress of the plebian, he has naturally formed for himself an adamantine character, and feels secure in the post he has won and which has cost him so much. He is at one with the prophet, and this double combination may prove very disagreeable to the forces now attacking Egypt.

An American commission recommends irrigation by means of artesian wells as a means of reclaiming the "arid region" east of the Rocky Mountains.

Another Letter from Dr. Jenkins.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—What need of any further correspondence—why require an investigation into the last Lunatic Asylum scandal? The dictum of the great, the infallible F. P. Taylor has gone forth. Dr. Blanchard is a model Superintendent. Dr. McLeod is a model Coroner. What if there be a death now and then from negligence? What, if a patient be taken from his bed and beaten within an inch of his life by the attendants employed to care for him and watch over his safety? The attendants must have some amusement, and F. P. Taylor says Dr. Blanchard is a model manager, so it must be all right. Such cases might damage the reputation of a Superintendent under ordinary circumstances, but with a friend who "loves him" to issue his dogma in his favor what need Dr. Blanchard care? These matters then become mere trifles. What if the verdict of the Coroner's Jury be imperfect? What, if it left untouched the very most important part of the enquiry? The verdict of the jury is a proper one! Has not the Great Mogul, F. P. Taylor, pronounced his fiat?

"Henceforth" let no one dare to question any matter in connection with the Lunatic Asylum."

F. P. Taylor says he accepts all the responsibility in this matter, and trusts that no one will henceforth make the Oliver business an excuse for an attack on Dr. Blanchard. If this man accepts "all the responsibility" in this matter, then I say he is responsible for the most culpable, aye the most criminal neglect that ever resulted in the death of an afflicted helpless fellow-creature; and he may well approve of the verdict of this jury. Had he lived in a country were juries make a thorough investigation and give their verdict "without fear, favor or affection," manslaughter would probably have been recorded.

And when he alludes to the sad end of this poor old man, as the "Oliver business," he expresses himself in a heartless, cold-blooded and brutal manner, which must have been revolting to the feelings of all right-minded readers.

Yours truly,
J. T. JENKINS.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—By appointing a Roman Catholic to fill the vacancy at the Board of School Trustees of Charlottetown, caused by the retirement of Dr. Johnston, the Government have acted very unfairly towards the Protestant portion of the community.

If the Roman Catholics were entitled to the seat, why were they so long deprived of their rights? If they are not entitled to it, why was it granted to them?

I have been observing for some time past that the Roman Catholics are securing the lions share of the patronage of the Government; and while I am at all times willing to grant them equal privileges and advantages with Protestants, I am decidedly opposed to placing at the disposal of any one class or creed every vacancy that occurs, and allow me to add that Protestants are (and properly so) very jealous of the appointment of persons to serve on the Board of School Trustees.

Yours truly,
A PROTESTANT.

Irish National Land League.

A largely-attended meeting of the Charlottetown Land League was held in St. Patrick's Hall, on Monday evening, the 10th inst. M. P. Hogan, Esq., President, filled the chair.

After the admission of new members and other routine business was disposed of, the Recording Secretary—Mr. Richard Walsh—informed the League that, for the next few months, he would be unable to attend to the duties of that position.

The undersigned was then elected Recording Secretary.

A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Walsh, in acknowledging which he stated that in the future, as in the past, he would work for the success of the organization.

Mr. James W. Mullally then addressed the meeting. He referred to the Repression Bill, the Arrears Bill, and the latest expulsion of the Irish members from the British Parliament. Mr. Mullally believed that Home Rule would bring about a satisfactory solution of the perplexing "Irish Question," and that it was only through an Irish Parliament that the people of Ireland need expect anything like beneficial legislation.

After encouraging remarks from other members, and from the President, the meeting adjourned till Monday, the 24th July.

EDWARD C. GRANT,
Secretary.

JOHN BROWN has about the best time in the spring, as the Queen's salmon fishing on the Dee is at his disposal, and Her Majesty's stretch, which extends from Invercauld Bridge to Balmoral Bridge, is one of the finest on the river, and contains many excellent pools. One bank belongs to the Balmoral estate, and the other is rented by the Queen at £300 a year from Col. Farquharson. John Brown has enjoyed excellent sport during the last month, the river having been in capital order. On one day he landed fourteen fine clean salmon.
