THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 30, 1893.

THE GRIT CIRCULAR.

Everyone desires to place the most charitable construction that can be placed upon the elaborate circular letter signed by Messrs. L. H. Davies, W. S. Fielding and other prominent members of the Opposition party. There was consequently a great deal of interest in the explanations which were expected on Saturday from Mr. Davies' organs. We regret that the reasonable anticipation of the people has not been met. The Guardian, posing ostentatiously as independent and impartial, deplores political corruption, hits at both the Patriot and The Examiner, declares that it is very unfair to single out men against whom nothing can be proved, and tries to create the impression that Mr. Davies is as guiltless as Mr. P. Blake. It is hardly necessary to point out that Mr. Blake has not been charged with writing a questionable and suspicious circular letter the receivers of which are asked to subscribe "a considerable sum," "in proportion to your means," and in which the "wealthy" are asked to "give what they can." It is therefore grossly unfair in this regard to set off Mr. Blake against Mr. Davies, and the Guardian's offence is not mitigated by an expression of its belief that both have clean hands. Mr. Davies wrote a letter asking his political friends to come down handsomely; Mr. Blake did nothing of the kind. Mr. Blake is undoubtedly innocent; the conduct of Mr. Davies is, on the contrary, open to suspicion, enquiry and criticism.

As for the Patriot, it apparently imagines that strong abuse of those who are in duty bound to criticise Mr. Davies' public conduct is its best policy in respect to this case. The Patriot says that "it is characteristic of the Halifax Herald to touch the depths of all that is contemptible." In this instance, The Herald simply published and commented upon a letter signed by Mr. L. H. Davies and Premier Fielding. Are we to infer that the letter represents "the lowest depths of all that is contemptible," or are we to infer that The Herald ought not to have published a letter signed by two such honorable men? It is not suggested that The Herald stole the letter, and if the letter be a right and proper one, surely The Herald ought not to be so bitterly denounced for publishing it? To publish letters is The Herald's business. The Patriot's reference to the late Sir John Macdonald and the Red Parlor is beside the mark. It ought not to be necessary to the defence of Mr. L. H. Davies that the alleged offences of the dead must be cited! Suppose that Sir John Macdonald did wrong in this regard, is it the part of "reformers" and "standard elevators" to be guilty of offences with which his offence may fitly be compared? In the face of a general election in which Protection was the issue, Sir John Macdonald, it is alleged, asked certain manufacturers in Ontario for money to meet the legitimate expenses of the contest; and the manufacturers, believing that they would be ruined unless protected, subscribed some money. But Mr. L. H. Davies, while yet the election is a long way off, has issued an appeal—to whom? Not to men who are, or believe themselves to be, in danger of ruin as a result of the election, but to men who have something to gain by the success of the grits! Mr. L. H. Davies is one of the leading men of the Opposition. If the grits be successful in the next election, he will be a Cabinet Minister. What, then, will be his position as the recipient and custodian of the election fund? Every man who may respond to the appeal of the circular latter will have a special claim upon the Government, and Mr. Davies will be under special, financial obligation to satisfy the claim. That will be the position of Mr. L. H. Davies if ever he should be a Cabinet Minister. We feel sure that Mr. L. H. Davies would be among the first and loudest in condemnation of any Cabinet Minister occupying a like position in the administration of Sir John Thompson; and we have no doubt that if a similar letter were written by Hon. Mr. Foster (for instance) Mr. L. H. Davies would at once denounce it as essentially corrupt.

This circular letter will dash the hope of all those who hoped for greater purity in politics and for the abolition of the "Political Machine." In theory, the people of Canada elect their representatives in Parliament; in practice, certain men, desiring to promote their own interests, collect a fund of money, and by dint of cheek, cash and claptrap work their passage into Parliament. There are yet, we believe, some honorable exceptions. But, speaking generally, it has come to this, that a man who has not plenty money to contribute to the fund is practically debarred from serving his country in Parliament, no matter how pure his ambition or how great his ability. Men who control the fund summon the conventions, have themselves or other large contributors selected as candidates, buy and debauch the doubtful vote, and are content with success at any price. All other men must needs "take a back seat." It has been hoped that the leading men of both parties in Canada would come to an understanding that the machine in politics shall be tabooed. In the United States there are results which ought to move all patriotic Canadians to unite in an effort to put it down. A short time ago, a rich man in New York who had contributed $50,000 towards the election of President Cleveland was appointed Ambassador to Italy. By and by, if Mr. L. H. Davies should gain office, the contributors to the fund of which he is the custodian will be demanding their rewards, in like manner; and no one pretends that Mr. Davies is, personally, an honester or more incorruptible man than President Cleveland. In view of the vicious results, it is deplorable that Mr. Davies and Mr. Fielding and Mr. Laurier, and all the leading men of the grit party, the (so-called) Reform Party are now engaged in gathering in the fuel to supply the "machine" which is to operate for the grits in the next election. The machine system is corrupt and vicious. It does not promote the public good. It ought to be abolished. But Mr. L. H. Davies and his confreres are determined that it shall be maintained. In fairplay the Government must now have an election fund.

Y. M. C. A. ADDRESS.

Percy Pope, Esq., delivered an address in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, on "The Young Man: His Duty as a Citizen." The address was mainly directed towards bringing out the truth that the trend of human development has ever been in the direction of an organic unity—that so long as man remains practically independent of his fellow so long will he remain in a low stage of civilization; while just in proportion as work is specified, as bodies of men become organized, just in proportion as they learn to live for and in each other, just in that proportion will the individual rise to higher and higher levels of civilization. This was a truth plainly brought out by human experience. He then, by the analogy of vegetable and animal organism, sought to bring out the relationship which ought to exist between the individual members of an organic unity—the responsibilities which individual citizens had with regard to the community of which they were members. He then sought to direct their attention to the harmony which exists beween the teachings of experience and Christ's teaching, and said that we must all be united in an organic unity of which He is the head and we the individual members that all went to warrant the belief that not only here but hereafter all human development would be in the same line, viz., that of organized insteavl of individual existence—that citizenship would be not only for time but eternity.

THE CURE OF DROPSY.

Dr. Dudgeon, Montague square, writes to the London Daily News: Apropos of your paragraph about the unintentional cure of a case of dropsy by the infusion of a toad in wine, it may be mentioned that the toad, or certain preparations of it, long enjoyed a reputation as a remedy for dropsy and many other diseases. In Salmon's "Doron Medicum" (1583), after a description of how the volatile salt is to be obtained by the distillation of the dried animal, the author proceeds to enumerate the diseases in which it has been employed. Among the rest he says:—"The volatile salt of Toads is said to be a specifick in the Dropsy." According to the old French author, J. G. Hoyer, the animal dried and reduced to a powder is useful in various kinds of dropsy. A tincture of the poison from the cutaneous glands, obtained by irritating the animal, is used by the homœopathists. Some remarkable cures of epilepsy are recorded as having been obtained by its use by Dr. Saville and Dr. Bojanus.

The New York Sun's bright idea, remarks the Ottawa Citizen, of converting Canada to annexation by sending hundreds of thousands of Americans into the Northwest is one that we would like to see put in practice. The Manitoba Free Press expresses the same views as we have upon the subject. It says "No disposition has ever been shown to subvert the established order of things by those Americans who have made Canada their home." Practical experience of the excellence of our laws and institutions rapidly converts them into good Canadians.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

MONETARY CONSIDERATIONS.

Sir,—The Silver Purchase and the McKinley bills have precipitated a condition of things that is proving most disasterous to our friends across the line. Under the cover of law, the Scribes and Pharasees of Bible days devoured widows houses. The same thing goes on. Failing restitution, retribution followed, and the descendants of these same Pharisees are scattered in all lands and persecuted for many generations. Unwise laws should be repealed. Robbery should not have the sanction of law. Excepting to a privileged few, money in Canada is scarce and dear. As the country is increasing in wealth if not in population, there must be some reason why it is so much more difficult to get money than to get goods. I propose to show how it comes that in this Canada of ours, one of the finest lands under the canopy of heaven, the rich are getting richer and the poor poorer. At confederation, among a number of wise and unwise laws, we had a Savings Bank Act passed In theory it looked all right, in practice it has been most pernicious. Up to the 31st July last, the government had borrowed from the people of Canada through the savings banks, $41,849,658 (forty-one million eight hundred and forty-nine thousand six hundred and fifty-eight dollars). This amount, payable on demand or at short notice, is locked up in public works. The withdrawal from active circulation of such a vast sum for a population of five millions has cramped and paralyzed effort. It is safe to say, had we no Government saving banks this forty millions would be in active use. Part of it would be invested in houses, more of it would go into the development of our vast mineral areas; the fishing interests would get a part of it, and the chartered banks, who keep many of their smaller customers on short allowance, all the time, would get some. The Government could borrow in Europe, and the business and industries of Canada would have forty millions of dollars more money to trade on than they have now. In manufacturing, in mining, in fishing, in shipping, in trade generally, the want of capital is a continuous wail of lament. Individuals who have property and goods are often strapped for a few dollars, and as a result the younger and more enterprising, denied the opportunity for expansion in this country, emigrate in thousands. Besides, this liability of forty millions, payable virtually on demand, is a dangerous position for any government to be in. A sudden run would precipitate a panic any time. Better far for the Government to borrow in Europe on long terms for repayment. It is safe to say they could float a loan at 3½ per cent. Hundreds, if not thousands, in Canada are paying from 6 to 10 per cent., and for many enterprises capital cannot be had at all. I know a case where 10 per cent. was offered for a loan of $500 for two years on real estate that cost $6,000, and the borrower failed; in fact, he said it was easier to earn the money than to borrow it. We are continually hearing about the foreign capital that is going to develop our country. Better far to liberate our own and let it flow into legitimate channels. This is too large a subject to deal with in one letter. I propose to take up other phases of the subject later. Yours respectfully,

H. F. Coombs.

HINTS TO ADVERTISERS.

Bargains are the chestnuts of the trade. The man who advertises impossible bargains, such as "At Cost," "Half the Cost," etc., would do well to put at the top of the column "Lies! Lies!" The public scents a printed lie. Do not copy your neighbors ideas. You say you have the largest stock. Have you seen your neighbors? Advertise good goods at fair prices; attention being directed to the quality will do more good than the old harangue on less than cost, etc.

Two More Gold Medals.

It must be gratifying to the manufacturers of "Sunlight" Soap to find their goods so splendidly appreciated in the Canadian market; and it must also be pleasing to them to receive the highest recognition at Canadian exhibitions for the superior quality of their soap. At the recent Fall Shows held at London and Ottawa, "Sunlight" was rewarded a Gold Medal, which brings their gold medal list up to 14. Added to this grand record is the important fact that "Sunlight" is used in Windsor Castle and in the Royal Laundries, and owing to the excellence of their soap, the manufacturers have been specially appointed soap makers to the Queen.

The Ladies Delighted.

The pleasant effect and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favorite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effectual in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels. .....

ASSASSINATION OF MAYOR HARRISON.

The Cool and Deliberate Act of a Madman.

He Had an Awfully Sudden Call.

Chicago, Oct. 30.

At 7.50 o'clock on Saturday night, Patrick Eugene Prendergast, rang the bell at the residence of Mayor Harrison. When the servant opened the door, Prendergast asked for Mr. Harrison, who went to the door. The man drew a revolver and fired a shot entering the mayor's abdomen. Two more shots were fired, the first entered the mayor's body under the left arm. Mr. Harrison, when the first shot was fired, had started toward the door. The second shot struck him when within a few feet of the assassin. Mr. Harrison was so close to the muzzle of the revolver when the third shot was fired that the bullet shattered one of the knuckles of his left hand and the powder burned his flesh. Mr. Harrison died in a few minutes. Prendergast delivered himself up to the police at the police station. He undoubtedly is insane. He says that Harrison promised him an office and he shot him because he had not kept his promise. An inquest was held this morning. The verdict recommended that Prendergast be held for murder, until discharged by due process of law. The verdict is the basis of the mittimus for the detention of Prendergast. According to the post mortem examination, five bullet wounds were made and three bullets remained in the body. One lodged in the muscles of the back. Another passed through the liver and was found in the bowels, while a third struck near the shoulder, ranging downward and lodged near the skin.

The Waste of Fuel.—Speaking of the terrible and increasing waste of fuel. Mr. Jeremiah Head, in his British Association paper, said that our stores have been drawn on to some degree for 1,000 years, and extensively for more than 100. Authorities tell us that another 1,000 years will exhaust all the more accessible supplies. But suppose they hold out 5,000 years, the human race will at least, as far as we can at present see, have only wind and animals as motive power, and the only modes of transit will be sailing and rowing, driving, cycling, riding and walking. Sir Robert Ball has intimated that in not less than 5,000,000 and not more than 10,000,000 years the sun will become too cold to support life on this planet. Between the 5,000 years when fuel will certainly be exhausted and the 5,000,000 when all life may be extinguished, there will still be 4,995,000 in which, according to present appearances, man will have to give up his hardly earned victories over matter and other animals, and the latter will again surpass him, each in its own element, because he has no fuel.
