America's Top Meet

MORE THAN 550 entries, including 15 defending champions, have been received for the 76th Annual National U.S. Amateur Track and Field Championships at Rutgers University Stadium this weekend.

The meet is usually United States' best and often can be compared favorably with the Olympic Games track and field competition. After all, even though the Soviet Union has improved greatly in track and field in recent years, United States is still top dog.

The top six in Saturday's AAU championships, not including previously qualified winners from service or college competition or foreign athletes, will be selected to compete at the U.S. Olympic trials at Randall's Island, July 3-4.

In addition, the first two men in each event will be picked for the United States dual-meet team which will compete in Los Angeles, July 25-26, against the Soviet Union.

Among the champions who will defend their titles Saturday are Bob Hayes, 100 meters; Paul Drayton and Harry Carr, (tie) 200 meters; Daryl Burleson, 400 meters; Hayes, 100 meters; high hurdles; Greg Johnson, high jump; Ralph Boston, broad jump; Dave Davis, shot-put; Al Hall, hammer; Kent Florence, pole, step and jump, and C.K. Yang, decathlon.

The defenders are by no means the favorites in all cases. The entry has been far heavier than expected and all fields are packed. In the 200 meters for example, 50 sprinters have met the qualifying time of 31.3 for the 200. This is the maximum field event. The meet, Rutgers has installed an English-made cinder track of 100 yards of 375,000.

Summerside Not Interested

THE ANNOUNCEMENT from Summerside Tuesday night that the Town League is interested in playing senior baseball outside of its own town has put the demerit Kings County and Charlottetown hopes to organize an Island Centennial Series. Baseball League.

It's too bad for a town like Summerside that there isn't one business concern interested in sports enough to take over an All-Star team from the Town League to play at least a few exhibition games with other centres.

Talking with Charlie Ryan yesterday however, we found out that the Charlottetown League is not interested in playing City team and play the Kings County All-Star squad. Games would probably all be exhibition exercises.

There is good reason to believe that the Island Centennial Committee will be approached by the two interested groups to see how the lights could be turned on at Memorial Field for night games. One of the major reasons for this is that we think there's more than a pretty drawing crowd in Kings.

May's Summerside is not a true good without them, successful island centre thinking too good without them.

Off The Cuff

VERN HANDRAHAN says his first work of the season with Rochester Amateurs of the International League Monday night of this week as he pitched two innings of ball against Atlanta Braves. ... Birchwood High School had their closing sports presentations Tuesday night with BILL LEWELL, Patriot sports columnist, as guest speaker.

There's more than 100 trophies and prizes being handed out at the Charlottetown Senior League. It strikes him of peculiar that entry fees for amateurs and pro for this week's meet at Memorial Field will be the same $10.—The top pro can win $1,200, but the most any amateur can grab is a little bit of glory and some money for a start of the season tomorrow night at Memorial Field when they tangle with the Eastern Kentonians.

At Memorial Field, the Charlottetown Senior League will lead for the Boston area next month on a seven game exhibition stint. ... HAP HANSON.
