

tail, at the store of G. T. Hazard, Esq. I can hardly dismiss the subject without a word or two to "Jingling Johnny." As he is one of the Prayer Leaders in the Wesleyan Chapel, on Sabbath mornings, I wonder if he gives out his poem for the morning service, among his Christian friends, or are they ashamed of his jingling rant. Time was, "Johnny," when you would have been expelled in disgrace; but, ah me! Wesleyans, now-a-days, have some queer members. I wonder what John Wesley would say, could he get a peep at "Johnny" and his ballad, and then see him on his knees, praying so devoutly. Methinks he would say, "Oh! you base hypocrite, you wicked wretch, how dare you do so?" "Please sir, Willie told me." "And pray who is Willie?" "Oh, sir, the big man on the square, the Bible man, our Gamaliel, your warm admirer." "Begone, ye, miserable wretches, if my cause, the cause of Wesleyanism, cannot live but by such means, let it die." Yours truly, May 29. OBSERVER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER. Sir.—Steady to his purpose, Mr. Heard has, through the Islander of yesterday, made another ridiculous effort to fix a stain on Mr. Barker's character, by a letter said to have been written by Mr. George Wigginton. As Mr. Wigginton had distinctly told several parties that "he did not remember what Mr. Barker said on the subject," and also stated to at least one individual that "he could not recall to his memory what was said, unless furnished with some connecting links," I thought proper to wait on him, which I did, in company with a friend, last evening, at Mr. Cross's. During the interview, Mr. Wigginton repeatedly stated, in the most explicit manner, that "he did not remember the words used by Mr. Barker on the subject, but that such and such were his impressions." When asked whether it was not natural for a stronger and perhaps different impression to have been made on his mind, he being a son of Temperance, than would have been made on the mind of one not connected with the Order?—he fully and readily admitted the justness of the reasoning, and said that it was only fair to suppose that all would feel interested in the honour and well-being of their associates, whether connected by the ties of family, kindred, religious opinions, or temperance associations; and that, consequently, a stronger impression might have been made on his mind than could be fairly sustained. He also admitted the danger of judging others by our own religious sectarian rules, and that he might have erred in thinking Mr. Barker inconsistent in speaking of the Hon. Mr. Warburton as he did in his lecture. The evidence of Mr. Wigginton is spoken of by Heard as his reserve troops, who were to decide the conflict in his favour. But how long have they been kept in reserve? Only since the 12th inst. Consistent William Heard! He is indeed consistent; but his consistency has been, and still is, dreaded and shunned by the right-minded in every age and place. What a luminous star is William Heard! I am only waiting to complete my chain, a few links only remain to be welded, when I will expose such a systematic piece of villainy as has seldom been witnessed in any land. I am, Sir, yours truly, May 30, 1857. JOHN WILLIAMS.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., JUNE 1, 1857.

THE ELECTION FOR THE THIRD DISTRICT OF PRINCE COUNTY.

NEW AGENCIES AT WORK.

The election—which will have terminated before this sheet can reach the hands of many of our subscribers—is now the prevailing topic of conversation throughout town and country. Mr. Pope and his friends are quite confident of success—they ridicule the supposition of defeat on their part, and they commiserate Mr. Lord's friends for rashly staking their money in bets. Mr. Lord's friends are unshaken in their long-cherished confidence that a large majority of the intelligent men of the third district will do battle for the right, as they have always done, in the return of a Liberal candidate. The latter have truth and justice, liberty of conscience, civil liberty and progress, on their side; whilst the former are labouring hard to prop up their cause with falsehood, corruption, bribery and intimidation. The approaching contest will be no mere trial of strength between two gentlemen—both estimable in their private capacities,—but a fierce struggle on the part of the Tories to regain a portion of their lost influence and power—to embarrass, if not prevent, a Liberal Government from pursuing that highly progressive policy which has already been productive of much general prosperity, and which is so necessary to the further development of our country's resources,—and, further, to put an end to Mr. Lord's official career, so that a measure of such importance as the Land Purchase Bill may, for a time, become a dead letter, and land speculators and jobbers be permitted to continue their underhand proceedings, with a view to their own sudden aggrandisement, and the permanent slavery of unfortunate tenants. New influences have been brought to bear in the electioneering tactics of the past week, which shew that Mr. Pope's friends are not quite so sanguine of success as they were at the outset of the canvass. It is now admitted by them that Mr. Pope's election can only be secured by getting his own tenants and Mrs. Conroy's, on Lots 26 and 27, to vote for him. We shall be greatly mistaken if the independent Irishmen of the South West will so far disgrace themselves in the eyes of their countrymen, and the Colony generally, as to encourage by their votes religious intolerance, and be so untrue to their life-long principles and practices as to come forward in the support of Toryism. They will not—they cannot do it. It is reported that Mr. Pope—whether directly or indirectly, we cannot say, or by himself or his emissaries—gives his tenants to understand that they MUST vote for him; and Mrs. Conroy is said to be at present amongst her tenantry, doing her best to subvert the freedom of election, by advising and encouraging them to vote against their conscientious convictions. If these reports be true, and we see no reason to doubt them, they indicate pretty clearly that Mr. Pope's chances of election are growing small by degrees, and will become beautifully less with every succeeding hour, until after seven o'clock this evening,—when, like some distinguished characters on other public occasions, the people will order him to be taken to the place from whence he came. Mrs. Conroy may be the very model of a landlady, and Mr. Pope may not be unnecessarily harsh in his dealings, but both of them want and will have their rents, no matter how the tenantry vote; and they have no more right to control the elective franchise of those who till and improve their lands, than they have to carry away the cattle that graze on them, without giving a full price for such cattle. There could not be a stronger argument in favour of the Land Purchase Bill, than the intimidation alleged to be practised—no matter how mild the form under which it is used—with a view to rob the poor tenants of their votes. But the men of the South West and Monaghan Settlement will not be driven like sheep to the slaughter, but will vote like true men for sound Liberal principles, as advocated and practised by Mr. Lord.

UNITED STATES.

THE BURDELL MURDER TRIAL CONCLUDED.—MRS. CUNNINGHAM ACQUITTED.—This trial was brought to a close at New York on Saturday evening, by the acquittal of Mrs. Cunningham. The Government failed to prove that the parties arrested had any hand in the murder, and consequently Mrs. C., who was arrested as principal in the foul deed, was acquitted by the Jury. A despatch says—

The case was given to the jury at 7 o'clock precisely. At twenty-five minutes before 8 the spectators in the outer court were shut off by closing the folding doors. The jury then came in. Mrs. Burdell rose to hear the verdict, looking deadly pale. Her daughter Augusta was weeping violently. The verdict was—Not Guilty. Applause from the spectators in the court succeeded, which was quelled by the officers.

Mrs. Cunningham shook hands with her counsel, and then retired with her family to receive the congratulations of her friends in an adjoining room.

Mr. John Graham, counsel for Eckel, asked the discharge of his client on bail, the acquittal of the person charged as principal being sufficient warrant therefor. Judge Harris took the personal recognizance of Eckel in $5000 to appear on Monday, the 18th inst., when it is very probable the case will be given up.

ALMOST A FAMINE IN TEXAS.—WASHINGTON, May 9.—New Orleans papers of the 2d are received. They contain Galveston dates of April 28th.

There was almost a famine for want of bread-stuffs in the counties above Bastrop, and $2,62 was demanded per bushel for corn. The citizens of Bastrop would hold a meeting to aid the sufferers.

A Washington letter says that Indian difficulties thicken on every side, and in almost every instance are the result either of provocation on the part of the whites, or of the deprivation of the Indians of subsistence. It is said by experienced men to be cheaper to feed them than to kill them, and it would be more humane.

A gentleman from Polk County, East Tennessee, represents the scarcity of food for man and beast in that region as absolutely distressing at present, and promising to become worse. The farmers have no corn or rough feed, the hogs have perished from starvation, and the cattle are dying rapidly.

Seven freight cars were smashed up at Manchester, N. H., on the Lawrence road, on Friday, in consequence of one of them getting off the track. Four of them belonged to the Vermont Central, two to the Northern, and one to the Montreal road.

Another of those fearful Lynchings which are such a disgrace to Yankeland, recently occurred at Louisville, Kentucky. The negroes who had been charged with the murder of the Joyce family, were upon trial acquitted by a highly respectable and intelligent jury, there being no testimony to convict them. This verdict did not suit the tastes of the populace. They immediately attacked the goal where the negroes were confined, dragged out two of them, hanged them, and then set fire to their bodies. The third negro did not wait to die at the hands of the mob, but cut his throat from ear to ear, causing instant death. Of the mob which perpetrated these fiendish acts, a large proportion were mere boys, and among them were many under ten years of age who joined in the cries to "hang 'em," "burn 'em," with a savageness which evinced the most bloodthirsty disposition.

There is nothing very late from Nicaragua. An account reached us early, in the week that Walker had made his escape from Rivas and taken refuge on board a British ship of war. In the papers received by the Europa we find nothing either in confirmation or denial of this report.

APPROPRIATE GIFT.—A California hunter came forward by the last steamer, bringing a chair intended as a gift for President Buchanan. It is made entirely from the horns of two buck deer, the size of ponies, shot in Humboldt county, 220 miles above San Francisco. The box in which it was inclosed is itself a curiosity, the sides being each one single piece of about five feet square, from the enormous redwood tree of California.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

ANOTHER AFFRAY WITH CHINESE COOLIES.—Singapore, March 19.—On the 15th inst. the Dutch barque Henrietta Maria arrived in charge of Mr. Crawford, the mate of the American ship Coeur de Lion, with 4 seamen and about 100 Coolies belonging to her. The Coeur de Lion, on the passage from Singapore to Hong Kong, when in lat. 7 1/2 deg. N., and long. 110 1/2 E., observed a barque with signals of distress, and on proceeding to her assistance ascertained that the captain, officers, and greater part of the crew had abandoned her. The Henrietta Maria is a Dutch barque, and left Macao Feb. 8, with 344 Chinese emigrants for Havana. The captain's name was Baker. We learn from the statement of Gerrit Van Lindt, a Dutch seaman, that a cry of murder was heard, and Van Lindt, who was below at the time, found the skylight secured down, and a number of Chinese sitting upon it. The captain, who was asleep, was called up. In the principal cabin slept the captain, second mate, and four seamen, one of the latter being Van Lindt, and also a boy. The rest of the crew slept on the deck. Those in the cabin were immediately armed with cutlasses and muskets. The Chinese sent the interpreter to the captain to demand a surrender of the arms, or they would kill them. The Chinese were armed with handspikes, crowbars, and other weapons. The arms were all surrendered and the captain, officers, and crew were allowed to quit the cabin and go on deck. A skirmish must have taken place, as Van Lindt saw the third mate much bruised on the face and arms, and blood was issuing from his face. The captain remained by the wheel. At noon the same day the cutter, manned by three seamen and two boys, went towards shore with four Chinese, to ascertain what land was then in sight. On the following morning they anchored. The crew got out the long-boat for the Chinese, and took one party on shore. On the following day more Chinese were landed. Fearing the Chinese from the shore would come off to the vessel and kill those on board, the barque was got under weigh, the Chinese present assisting to weigh the anchor. They set very little sail, and literally drifted about until seen from the Coeur de Lion. An English sailor named Harrison states that he was on deck at the wheel at 7 a. m., when the Chinese suddenly armed themselves with billets of fire-wood, belaying pins and other weapons, and a disturbance took place; the Chinese tried to throw him overboard, but he resisted, and ultimately was pitched into 'tween decks. Harrison says he noticed the cook jump overboard, apparently from fear.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A MAN SAWED IN TWO.—The London (C. W.) Free Press of the 6th says that on Wednesday last week a most shocking accident occurred in a circular sawmill at Wallingham. Charles Harris, a young man lately married, had just been employed that morning to work in the mill, and was set to carry away the boards as they dropped from the saw. He was cautioned against the danger of letting a board touch the saw while in motion, but the unfortunate man had taken away but a few boards when the end of one he had just taken up swayed against the saw, and being repelled with violence, caused the other end to force him against the saw, then in full motion, and as quick as thought he was out in twain. The saw struck first the point of the left shoulder, passing directly through the heart and out under the ribs on the right side of the body.
