The Death of Gritty.

AN ELEGY.
[Written for the Examiner.]

When the news of the downfall of the McKenzie Government reached Crapaud, on the night of the 17th, a prominent Grit (with tears in his eyes) addressed his fellow Grits and local placemen in the following melancholy strain:—

My fellow Grits, in deep despair,
Sad news, alas! to you I bear,
O! let us to some place repair—
Where freshmen do not tread—
For five long years and maybe mair,
Gritism's dead.

The news flashed by the electric flame
Has quite disturbed my fevered brain;
Alas! its written but too plain
For us to understand—
Our pride, our hope, our chieftain's slain—
In his ain land.

Although he loudly called Reform,
And watched for aid from night to morn,
To save him from the gathering storm—
No friendly hand was near;
In Lambton lies his frigid form,
Upon a lonely bier.

The standard which he proudly claimed
Would by his party be maintained,
And which to Canada proclaimed
Reform and purity,
Now's fallen, with its leader stained,
Unfit to see.

His broken pledges strew the ground,
And unkept promises are found
Like spirits hovering round
The place where Sandy lies;
Misdeds will sinners e'er confound—
Sin never dies.

His blundering now all men behold,
And acts of jobbery are told
In language vigorous and bold,
And O, it will be seen
That we, for sake of filthy gold,
Those acts would screen.

It's said that in his last sad hour,
When fleeing from him was his power,
His countenance grew grim and sour;
And thus poor Sandy said:
God save poor Grits from John A's power
When I am dead.

Then how can I forbear the tear;
He was to us a father dear,
Who for our wants from year to year
Did kindly provide,
And never left a friendly ear
To John A's side.

When Peter aimed a cunning blow,
Our enemies to overthrow,
'Twas Sandy first cried out bravo!
Their votes we'll stop,
But George and Heath cried scoundrels, no.
The franchise drop.

Although we raised from east to west
The cry which seemed to suit us best,
And never yet one fault confessed
In this campaign,
Hypocrisy, which men detest,
Has been our bane.

Men said our Press was subsidized;
And 'tough we spoke with aim disguised
They said we were an "Organized
Hypocrisy,"
Which Canada heartily despised—
O Cruelty!

But Oh! how burns this aching brain,
To think the noble Sandy's slain,
While sixty more lie on the plain,
To pure Grits dear;
Their likes we'll never see again
I greatly fear.

Among those Grits, I grieve to tell,
The Colonel and poor Peter fell;
Had they been spared, all might be well
With the Grit school,
But one rade blow has broke the spell
Of pure Grit rule.

McFayden's gone and Dr. Mac,
Poor Perry, too, has got the sack,
The only one that we send back
To fight the foe,
Is that nonentity alack!
Called Jemmy Yeo.

Then, Grit officials of the Rail,
Come join us in our mournful wail,
And local placemen do not fail
To join us in the cry;
Collectors and Assessors quail
You, too, must die.

Then faithful henchmen gather roon,
This news, alas, has come too soon—
We've strove to keep Free Traders doon,
But all in vain;
For five long years we well may croon—
Pope's in again.

The secret, too, is leaking out,
Loo, who was once so strong and stout,
I'm told has lately caught the gout—
With pain is tossin',
Well may our enemies now shout:
"Sit down Lawson."

Notwithstanding that our cries
Of purity ne'er reached the skies,
And that we dealt out pure Grit lies,
With tongue and pen—
We could na throw dust in the eyes
Of honest men.

The two old bachelors, what a shame!
Are sent back to their lonely home,
Where there's no cheerful, winsome dame
Their hearts to cheer—
There they in grief may pine alone,
The long five year.

And we poor Grits of Twenty-nine,
We, too, in hopeless grief may pine;
For, ah, I fear, dear friends the time
Is drawing nigh,
When we, in bloom, shall cease to shine—
We, too, must die.

Hark! hear again that loud hurrah
For Pope and Brecken; let's away
How can we Grits here longer stay
These shouts to hear?
Let's go and mourn our loss to-day—
Round Sandy's bier.

Come George and Dr. like a man,
Come Donald, Sol and Jim and Dan,
Come quickly lead this mournful van—
Clear out of sight;
For O the shouts I canna stan—
I hear to-night.

Now let us closer gather near,
And while we shed the bitter tear,
O let this prayer our spirits cheer—
O let us hope
That God will keep our poor Grits clear—
Of J. C. Pope.

Here Gritty lies, cold and alone,
We'll mark the spot with this tall stone,
Then let's together all gang home—
And Grits remember,
He died with many a piercing groan—
The Seventeenth September.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

LONDON, Sept. 22.
A Rome despatch states that Cardinal Nina, the Papal Secretary of State, has sent a circular to the Nuncios asking them to ascertain how the Government would view the extreme measures which the Vatican may possibly be obliged to take to preserve the authority of the Pope against the hostile attitude of Italy, which is chiefly observable in the exercise of the royal prerogative relative to the nomination of bishops.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 22.
The printer of the pamphlet libelling the Emperor of Germany has been sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment and fined $100, and the author to five years and $400 fine.

PARIS, Sept. 22.
The newspapers announce that in consequence of new attempts to hold a Socialist Congress, legal proceedings are impending and several foreign Internationalists will be expelled from France.

LONDON, Sept. 22.
A private letter from Bangkok, Siam, July 14, says: "The King has determined to give a grand reception to Gen. Grant if he carries out his projected journey to the far East. His Majesty promises to meet the ex-President at Singapore and accompany him thence to Bangkok. The Minister of State will prepare the address of welcome. Festivities at Bangkok will be on the grandest scale."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.
It is stated that an envoy who recently arrived from the Amir of Afghanistan, is endeavoring to induce the Porte to conclude an alliance with Russia.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.
A letter from Rio Janeiro says the Cyriaco Gold Mining Company of Hartford has been granted a license to work the mines on the payment of ten thousand mitres into the Brazilian treasury.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.
The Sun has a rumor that the Bolivian Government has ordered a number of Krupp guns from Germany, and made a contract with the New England manufacturers for rifles and ammunition. The object is said to be territorial aggrandizement at the expense of Peru.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.
A despatch from Chippewa station says sudden darkness fell upon the place, accompanied by a deathlike stillness, and an atmosphere so light that respiration seemed difficult. Suddenly a tornado struck the town with indescribable force, lasting but a few moments, yet it utterly swept away every structure in the place. The inhabitants, warned by darkness and stillness, had taken refuge in the cellars, and in consequence fatal casualties were few.

A wagon maker named Price, with wife and infant, are all injured, the infant fatally. Miss Thompson was seriously injured, and many others were hurt but not fatally. Johnston's store was demolished and goods distributed over the country for hundreds of yards. Calhoun's store and school building were wrecked; McCann's house was torn to pieces, the heavy logs of which it was built being carried like straws through the air.

The cause of the tornado was seemingly the meeting of two storms, one from the northwest and one from the southeast.
Lamont's store at Pentwater was demolished, crushing Mrs. Griffing and causing her instant death.

At Greenville the Baptist Church was blown down, killing a workman named Michael Tighe.

Sherman City, a small village in Isabella County, Michigan, has been annihilated by a terrific Tornado.

Every store, dwelling house and shed in the village was swept away clean, except one frame dwelling, which was partially destroyed. The air was thick with timbers, boards, brick and stone. The inhabitants took refuge in the cellars; four persons were badly injured.

At Coleman, Michigan, considerable damage was also done.
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.
Advices from Hayti by letter report a terribly destructive tornado and partial tidal wave on the 3rd, 4th and 5th of September, at Jacueto. Several warehouses were swept into the sea with their contents; a number of buildings and the public hall were demolished, two wharves were swept away and five vessels wrecked, including the Dominion frigate Ozama. At Anxhayes 434 houses were destroyed by the tornado in less than three hours. At St. Louis and Cavailton the tornado tore houses to pieces, and the sea rushed into the market place, sweeping away men, women and children, and leaving only four houses standing. The loss of life is unknown, as no one is left to help the wounded or bury the dead. Five ladies have been found. At Aguin only 40 houses remain, the rest having been swept away. At Jerennes, 20 houses were swept out to sea and dashed to pieces. At Corail, 40 houses were destroyed. The distress in the country is fearful, as the crops and roads are entirely destroyed.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.

The deaths from yellow fever in New Orleans yesterday reached 86, and 130 new cases were reported.

Up to noon yesterday but 23 deaths were recorded. The mortality there since the disease first appeared has aggregated 2,240 persons.

Favorable reports continue to be received from Mississippi.
PARIS, Sept. 22.
The Republique Francaise, in an article on the unsettled state of Europe, advises France not to enter into any engagements. It says: "Perilous times are not yet over, and still less the era of alluring offers." The article is regarded as a reply to the rumor that England recommended France to take possession of Tunis.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.
A letter from Rio Janeiro says the rebellion in the Argentine Confederation continues, and Carrizos has been captured, its Governor fleeing.

LONDON, Sept. 22.
The Times' Paris correspondent says, notwithstanding the approbation Gambetta's speech at Romans, yesterday, met with on the part of the Republican press, it has made the Moderate Republicans uneasy. It is thought the programme will contribute to the success of the Senatorial elections, for it opens up a field for discussion in which the adversaries of the Republic will find it easy to exaggerate the orator's words and show that the Republic proposes to lay hands on every existing institution in a revolutionary sense.

LARNACA, Sept. 21.
The health of the British troops on the Island is unsatisfactory; there has been a new outbreak of fever among the soldiers; 21 deaths have occurred since the occupation of the Island. Four hundred men are sick, out of a total of 29,622.

ROME, Sept. 21.
The Vatican has decided to instruct the French bishops to spare no effort to counteract the effect of Gambetta's speech.
