MINISTER INTERVIEWED

Poachers Worst Threat To The Lobster Fishery

While there is no intention of using force where persuasion can be employed successfully, illegal practices that constitute a threat to the lobster industry will not be tolerated, and every legal means will be taken of suppressing them, declared Hon. J. Angus MacLean, federal minister of fisheries, in an interview here on Saturday. Mr. MacLean paid a brief visit to the province over the weekend, returning yesterday to Ottawa.

In an endeavor to stamp out poaching where it is most prevalent, a small mobile group of inspectors has been organized to give their attention to the areas where poaching is most prevalent. They will naturally concentrate on illegal packing of lobsters—for if there is no ready market for poached lobsters the incentive to poach will be greatly reduced.

The worst poaching areas, Mr. MacLean said, are in Western Prince, in this province, and in Kent and Northumberland Counties in New Brunswick. He made this statement in explanation of the recently reported raid at Alberton by fisheries officers and RCMP, adding that any comment on this incident would be out of place at this time. In performing their duties, the mobile group of inspectors enlist police aid where it is considered necessary.

NEED FOR ENFORCEMENT

The lobster regulations, Mr. MacLean emphasized, are based on scientific knowledge, and are designed to produce the largest continuing harvest of the product. It is known that lobsters do not migrate any distance, and if undersized lobsters are caught one year they diminish the supply available for next year's catch. The great majority of fishermen recognize this and support the regulations wholeheartedly. There is a small minority of poachers who endeavor to ignore the law and thereby damage not only their own future but that of all the fishermen in the area.

A secondary detrimental effect that poaching has on the industry is that undersized lobsters are usually canned in unsanitary conditions, Mr. MacLean said. This puts a heavy burden on the inspection service, which attempts to insure that all Canadian packed lobsters will be of a high quality—this, of course, being necessary to insure a steady market for the product.

The department has been doing everything possible in the way of educating fishermen, by means of films, booklets, etc., in the purpose of the regulations. But here, again, the people who need this information the most are the hardest to reach.

One plan which is being instituted, Mr. MacLean said, is a system of coded can covers, similar to that in effect in the salmon industry, which will facilitate the tracing of illegally packed lobsters.

The minister expressed hope that the present aggressive measure being taken to prevent large-scale poaching will have very beneficial effect on the industry, and he appealed to all concerned for cooperation and support.

Large Vocation Rally Held At St. Dunstan's

Approximately 700 persons, representing practically every Roman Catholic parish on the Island, yesterday attended a one-day Vocation Rally held at St. Dunstan's University.

In addition to the Catholic people, a number of parents and members of the diocesan clergy also attended the event organized by the diocesan co-ordinating committee on Catholic Action under the chairmanship of Rev. Preston Hammill of St. Dunstan's Basilica parish.

The keynote address, "Vocations to Religious Life", was delivered by Rev. Francis Aylward of the college staff. Most Rev. Malcolm A. MacEachern, Bishop of Charlottetown, also spoke to the youth assembly.

Features of the rally included an interview with the Island's "woman of the year", Mrs. Reul McCormack, two of whose 18 children have already dedicated their lives to God, a special service, a Dialogue Mass celebrated by the Rector of the Basilica Parish, Rt. Rev. P. MacMahon, and a panel discussion on Religious Vocations.

The work of various orders and religious groups was explained briefly by a number of boys and girls selected earlier for this task. Other items on the seven-hour afternoon agenda included: a pantomime—"Secret Love"—staged by pupils of Birchwood High; a number of folk songs sung by the Summerside Youth Club, a softball game, and a number of films dealing with vocations.

The gift was presented by Helen Wallace and received by Russell Leard on behalf of the session and congregation. It was placed on the pulpit desk by Elmer McLean and will be dedicated at a later date.

HAS OPERATION
Wilfred Woodside of Summerside is a patient in Prince County Hospital where he underwent an appendectomy on Saturday. He is reported to be "doing fine."

ATTEND EXERCISES
Mrs. Preston Noonan and son Bill, of Summerside are attending the graduating exercises at St. Francis Xavier University where the former's son, Dick is receiving his Bachelor of Education degree.

BOATS BLESSED
Yesterday afternoon at Red Head, Rev. Eric Robin, pastor of Morell parish, blessed 25 lobster boats all of which operate from this harbor located on the southern shore of St. Peter's Bay about one mile directly north of the village of Morell. A number of appropriate hymns were sung by the Little Flower Church choir which was in attendance. Despite unfavorable weather a good turnout of people was present.

WEATHERBIE FUNERAL
The funeral of the late Mrs. Peter Weatherbie was held Monday morning from the Charlottetown Funeral Home to the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Very Rev. C.H. Moreau, C.S.R., who also conducted the service at the grave. Pallbearers were Ambrose, William, Jr., Blaine, George, John, Jr., and Ralph Weatherbie, all grandsons of the deceased. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

WELLS FUNERAL
The funeral of Miss Nellie Wells was held Saturday afternoon at the home of her brother, Fred Wells, Brooklyn. The service was conducted by Mr. Elmer McLean. Hymns were "Unto the Hills" and "The Sands of Time are Sinking." Pallbearers were Russell Bell and five nephews, Walter Wells, James Wells, Frank Wells, A.V. Palmer and Raymond Hardy. Flower bearers were Fred Leard, Norman Oliver, Herb Hardy, Frank Keefe, Wilford Coughlin, George Irving, George Clark and Victor Campbell. Interment was in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Huge Grass Fire Razes 400 Acres

GEORGETOWN—A huge grass fire in this area Monday afternoon burned nearly 400 acres of grass and scrub timber before being brought under control after a five-hour fight by firefighters.

The fire, believed started by children picnicking on the shore of Brudenel River just outside the town's limits, jumped the main railway line into Georgetown and the Brudenel River Road razing dozens of dry grass fields in its path.

It caught on to pulpwood at the pulp yards of Boates Limited and Arthur Peters but was extinguished without any loss of pulpwood. The yards were thought to contain about 2,000 cords.

The Deroma Cottages, property of Walter Solomon, were in danger, but were saved when firefighters set a backfire.

Temple MacDonald, who lives on the main Georgetown Road one-half mile from town ploughed strips in seven of his fields to protect his home and buildings.

For a time it was feared the fire might jump the pavement into what is known as Hessian's Woods and had this happened it would likely have levelled a wooded area extending to the shores of the Cardigan River and endangered several properties.

At 9 o'clock last night the fire was thought to be pretty well under control. It started between three and four o'clock.

The huge blaze attracted a large crowd of spectators.
