
Scene Of Execution

This aerial photograph shows Montreal's Bordeaux jail where Wilbert Coffin, 43-year-old Gaspe prospector, was hanged yesterday for the 1953 murder of an American bear hunter in Gaspe bushland.

Coffin walked silently to his death Friday on the gallows after naming his eight-year-old illegitimate son his heir.

A black flag fluttering from the dome of Montreal's Bordeaux jail and the solemn tolling of the prison bell, told midnight watchers the 43-year-old Gaspe, Que., woodsman was dead.

His body was handed over to his 60 - year - old mother and a brother for burial in Gaspe. He was hanged at 1:19 a. m. AST and pronounced dead 14 minutes later.

The man who seven times had had his execution date postponed thus paid for the 1953 Gaspe bushland slaying of a 17-year-old Pennsylvania bear hunter, Richard Lindsey. Lindsey's father and a companion also died in the bush.

Lawyer Francois Gravel made public Coffin's will, a four-sheet document drawn up Thursday. It left Coffin's Gaspe hunting cabin, an insurance policy and some claims to the son he had sought to legitimize before his hanging.

DUPLESSIS ADAMANT

Premier Duplessis refused his plea to be allowed to wed Marion Petrie, 43, his common-law wife and mother of the boy.

A last-minute appeal to Justice Minister Garson drew the response that only the province could intervene.

Miss Petrie the Montreal woman who testified for the crown at Coffin's July, 1954, trial, was refused permission to visit him.

Coffin's last hope disappeared when the federal cabinet refused his plea for clemency.

Tension Mounts In Malta On Referendum Vote Eve

By SIDNEY TAYLOR

VALLETTA, Malta (Reuters)—Malta's Labor prime minister, Dom Mintoff, appealed Friday for support for a plan to integrate this Mediterranean island with Britain following an attack on the Labor government by the Island's Roman Catholic archbishop.

Mintoff stressed that Archbishop Gonzi did not say it would be a "mortal sin" for Maltese Catholics to vote in support of the integration plan which goes before the public in a referendum today.

He termed the prelate's broadcast address which was read in all of Malta's 150 churches "a violent outburst" and dispute the bishop's statement that the Labor government had "declared war on the Catholic church."

As for the bishop's statement that he wanted the constitution to contain guarantees for the future of the Catholic church, to which most of the population belong, Mintoff asked:

"If the people do not vote 'yes' in tomorrow's referendum for integration how are they going to obtain such guarantees?"

NEVER HAD PLEDGE

He pointed out that the Maltese constitution had never contained such guarantees as now were being asked and added that the assurances by the British Parliament were all that could be given before the Maltese population had made its decision and the British Parliament had opportunity to debate the matter.

"The best commendation we received from the archbishop," Mintoff declared, "was the admission that not only the majority of the masses but also a section of the clergy agree with us."

Earlier Mintoff had called a meeting of his cabinet to consider the archbishop's broadcast which raised political and religious tension in the island.

The rift between the government and the church has been growing steadily since Mintoff refused to postpone today's vote while the archbishop sought to get special guarantees written into the island's constitution.

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR TOPICS

A despatch from Helsinki, Finland, dated January 31, states that a total of 1,853 silver fox and 1,060 blue fox pelts offered there were about half sold. Average price for silvers was 3, 275 marks and the maximum was 5,750. Blues averaged 2, 950 marks with a maximum of 3, 825. Fur sales seemed to be good all over the United States and also from last accounts in Montreal and Toronto. A despatch from Los Angeles January 31 has the following in part: Dollar volume for 1955 of better retail fur operations here ran 12 to 15 per cent ahead of the previous year. December volume averaged in some cases 35 per cent ahead of the previous year. The consumer had money to spend and was not disinclined to spend it on furs, particularly small mink pieces according to most retailers. Pastels and silverblues in mink stoles a around $550 were reported one of the best items during 1955. At some of the better stores pastel mink and very dark mink stoles priced at $795 to $1,250 were ready sellers. Mink jackets showed good gains in most stores but in some were rather spotty. White fox scarfs at $125 to $175 got some action as did stone marten pieces at $250 to $300 for a four skin set.

Edmonton, January 31:- A select breed of palomino and gunmetal mink have been shipped by air from Edmonton to Japan in what is termed an initial trial venture. John Caine, who manages a mink ranch near Edmonton, has been raising them since 1946 and has 3,000 females and 600 males. Mr. Caine has sent 26 live mink by air to Sapporo Hakkaido, Japan. Alberta mink are also being sent to South American, New Zealand, South Africa Europe and the United States. In 1946 Mr. Caine marketed about 1,000 pelts a year. This year he intends to market about 12,000 from his four ranches in Alberta and British Columbia.

Women's Wear Daily has the following:- Baltimore, January 31. Retail furriers in this city disagree on what could or should be done to release the alleged mink grip. One buyer who is convinced the grip exists said: "I think I'd be a magician if I knew what to do." Another buyer said that while he sold more mink, each year a high fashion fur or color is developed and that high style can always be sold if pushed.

Myxomatosis, a disease which was introduced into Australia in 1950, has been largely responsible for the reduction in Australia's rabbit population, now the lowest in living history. Exports of rabbit skins fell from 12,200,000 pounds in 1950 to 3,600,000 pounds in 1954.

At the January 29 fur auction in Stockholm, Sweden, 88 per cent of the 4,500 standard ranch male mink sold at an average of 120 crowns and a top of 160. A total of 3,335 females were sold at an average of 68 crowns and a high of 80. A total of 814 pastel males were 80 per cent sold with an average of 164 crowns and a high of 180. A total of 849 females were 83 per cent sold with an average of 99 and a high of 110 crowns.

At the following day's auctions 67 per cent of the standard mink of first grade males consisting of 20,332 skins were sold at an average price of 93 crowns. Of the 23,694 grade females offered 68 per cent was sold at an average of 55 crowns. A Swedish crown is worth 19 1-3 cents.

The following despatch from Wausau, Wis., will be read with interest by silver fox farmers wherever this paper circulates. Fromm Bros., whose silver fox farming operations resulted in their producing over 50,000 pelts annually, were one of the factors that caused the decline in silver fox farming, but they were smart enough to get into mink and as our last week's issue showed held a sale recently in which they disposed of over $700,000 worth of mink pelts. Now we introduce Ed Fromm, who is the brains of Fromm Bros., in the role of a prophet. . . . . Edward Fromm, president of Fromm Bros., Inc., of Hamburg, Wis., believes that the heavy expansion of the mink breeding industry is likely to lower market prices of mink skins. Mr. Fromm pointed out that this expansion is apparent not only in the United States but also in Canada, South America and the Scandinavian countries.

With offerings increasing 10 per cent or more, he said, the problem confronting the industry is whether or not the consuming public can absorb all the production. He is of the opinion that profit margins will become narrower. Mr. Fromm explained that even if the average price of skins drops to a $15 level, the cost of making up a good mink coat eill continue to run between $800 and $1,200. "As a luxury, mink will not go out as fox did." Mr. Fromm predicted, "because it is much more durable." He pointed out that because mink can stand long, hard wear, a mink garment often is handed down from one generation to another. "If mink pelts should drop to an average level of $15." Mr. Fromm said, "many fur ranchers will be forced out of business."

Turning to the subject of chinchilla, Mr. Fromm said he greatly admired the fur but that there has been no real market for it. He said interest in the chinchillas is primarily due to livestock promotion and that there is little likelihood of the fur becoming of great commercial value.

Approximately 50,000 fall and winter muskrats will be offered on behalf of the Manitoba Government at a sale to be held jointly by the Soudack and Dominion Fur Auction companies in Winnipeg. No definite date has been set as yet, but the sale is expected to fall around the period of the next general sales of these two companies, which take place on Feb. 10 and Feb. 13 respectively.

East Prince Jr. Farmers Hold Meeting

The East Prince Junior Farmers held their regular meeting in the Department of Agriculture board rooms on Thursday evening. Due to bad travelling conditions the membership was smaller than usual, however, a good meeting was held.

A discussion was held on regulations concerning the Junior Farmers participating in the Music Festival. The group felt that the majority of Junior Farmer groups competing should be comprised of junior farmers members.

The group decided that in the future all members would bring lunch. Films will be shown at the next meeting.

The meeting adjourned by singing the National Anthem. The next meeting will be held on February 23rd.

Annual Meeting Of Bedeque United Church Congregation

The annual meeting of Bedeque Church congregation was held in the Church vestry on Thursday evening, February 9th., with a good attendance present.

The pastor Rev. G.A. Cowper - Smith presided and after a short devotional service gave a very encouraging report of the work on the Baptist pastoral charge, stating that the many organizations in connection with the church were progressing favorably with a good attendance under the supervision of their capable leaders. He also thanked the members of the congregation for the splendid welcome and many acts of kindness accorded he and his wife and family since the beginning of his ministry on the charge last July, and he appreciated the splendid cooperation of the organist, choir and all the leaders in carrying on the work of the church.

T.J. Inman, congregational secretary, read the minutes of the last annual meeting and gave a brief acount of some of the problems the trustee board had encountered during the year.

Arnold Henderson, church treasurer and recording stewart, gave a very comprehensive report of the finances of the pastoral charge and all the different missionary societies who had handed in their reports previous to the meeting. He noted that the church budget and all the finances of the different societies were in a healthy condition with a slight increase recorded in most cases.

William Stavert, Church stewart, gave the report for the trustees stating that four interesting meetings had been held and on several evenings the trustees and several volunteer workers had completed grading and seeding of the grounds around the new hall.

Ralph Callbeck, Sunday School superintendant, gave a report for the Sunday School which was very encouraging.

Rev. E.S. Weeks voiced the appreciation of the congregation to the minister for his work and to the organist, Mrs. Walter Craig, who was presented with a gift in recognition of her services and to the choir and all the leaders and workers who had in many ways helped to carry on the church work

The retiring elders and stewards were all re-elected and the following new trustees were elcted to th board Horace Wright, Robert Reid, Walter Bowness, Charles MacFarlane and Kenneth Muttart. A number of commmttees were appointed.

The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. E.S. Weeks.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

S C K G J K V O I I W R F J V K P U U Y I V
D U U P K G I U U D W R K V I P G K K G
S U I U U P — K F C X S C Z Z .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NOTHING BUT MAY BE BETTER, AND EVERY BETTER MIGHT BE BEST—TUPPER.

Appreciation

I wish sincerely to thank the electors of the East Ward for the very fine support given me on election day. I also want to thank my many supporters who worked so hard on my behalf on what was a very stormy day.

Now that I am re-elected I want to renew my promise given during the campaign that I will work for the good of the East Ward in particular and for the town in general during the next two years.

W. E. JENKINS.
