

POETRY.

ONCE UPON A TIME.

Once upon a time I love the phrase,
It bears me back to days of old.

When pearls were strung on fairy lays,
And I was rich in fairy gold.

And diamonds were the leaves of trees,
And emeralds were the dew-drop gems.

That gleam'd on wondrous things as these,
"Once upon a time."

With childhood pass'd those dreams away,
The rose assumed the ruddy place.

And leaves that lost the emerald's ray,
Found greater worth in Nature's grace.

In riper years, the rose most bright,
To fancy seem'd on beauty's cheek.

And what were diamonds to the light,
When beauty's eye my heart might seek?

But time rolls on, the cloud of years
Its shadows o'er our life will cast.

And when the present dark appears,
Then lingering love behind the past.

And when some friend, some future day,
Remembers him who weaves this rhyme,

Perchance she'll sigh and sadly say,
"Once upon a time—once upon a time."

THE SUMMER IS DYING.

The roses have bloomed for the last time,
The violets are faded to rest.

The daisies and buttercups bloom,
Emblem of the spring's joy and gloom.

The rainbow's arch is fading away,
The robin chirps high on its way.

To the land of the magnolia flowers,
For the summer is dying to-day.

The forest with green blended yellow,
Is changing its hue to the red.

The orchards with fruit ripe and mellow,
Proclaim the end of the year.

When flowers shall bloom in their beauty,
And birds sing their happy lay—

The harvest is all garnered safely,
For the summer is dying to-day.

LITERATURE.

A WOMAN'S PATIENCE AND A WOMAN'S PRIDE.

It does look strange, I'll admit. But, at the same time, I insist that nothing is wrong. Nothing can be wrong where Louis Merrivale is concerned.

The gentle, womanly tones were earnest and enthusiastic, and the round, smooth cheeks grew flushed while she spoke.

"Phew, Millie; you are so innocent

A NOVA SCOTIAN DESPERADO.

Two hours after a gentleman called to see her. He was a fine looking man, this George

Halliday, with black eyes, beard and hair, with complexion as fair as Isabel's own.

And yet after one had pronounced him handsome, giving us the following narrative of the career of a young man who, until a few years ago, lived within ten miles of Amherst, and was well known to several with whom we have conversed. Our correspondent, who states that he is also a Nova Scotian, is not known to us, but persons who were acquainted with the hero of the narrative say they have no reason to doubt its truthfulness. He came to this western county a short time ago, having left Texas for shooting a man in a quarrel about a game of cards, and when the Deputy Sheriff came after him he refused to go and in the scuffle shot and killed the sheriff and one of the men who were with him, and he wounded another who interfered. He then left Eastern Texas and came to this county and still kept on gambling. About a month ago, however, he got into another quarrel with some Mexicans and one of them cutting him on the leg, he pulled out a brace of six-shooters and before he could be stopped in his career of slaughter he had shot eight Mexicans, and out of the eight five of them fell to rise no more. He then left and a short while ago was challenged to fight a duel at six feet with pistols (his own choice) at one o'clock at night, on the 10th of August. After the preliminaries had all been arranged and seconds chosen, the opponent who was to withdraw, but he sent them a note stating that if they didn't come up to time he would shoot them at the first sight. They accordingly came to time and the consequence was that the Mexican was killed at the first shot, although the bullet of the Mexican did not hit the head of the young-man in a long straight line just above the ear. And still another duel was fought, costing him his life, at least he is given up by the doctors—but he says he never was born to be killed by a Mexican, and I don't think he was; he seems to have charmed life.

The last duel was fought at twenty paces, pistols and knives being the weapons chosen.

They met at the time appointed, and being there an hour beforehand, practicing on a Mexican silver dollar, and nine times out of twelve he hit the dollar at fifteen paces. When the Mexicans came and everything was arranged they walked off their twenty paces and at a signal given by a handkerchief, there were two sharp reports and both men fell.—rose and fired, walked toward the Mexican, and fired again, and then fell and commenced crawling towards the Mexican. They both met on their knees, and drawing their knives the Mexican made a plunge at—but missed him; the latter then plunged his knife to the hilt in the body of the other, and I think will get well. He says that he will live to kill a dozen Mexicans yet. If you want to publish this you do so at your pleasure.

The British Government have sent a gold and silver watch for presentation to Mr. E. Pope and his assistant, lighthouse keeper at the south-west point of Anticosti, in recognition of their meritorious conduct towards the crew of the barque Russia, wrecked on the rocks of the island, and the lighthouse on the 7th December, 1871, when Mr. Hope and his assistant, William Madean, at the risk of their lives, succeeded in bringing some of the crew through a winter of cold and starvation, and in insensible conditions to the shore, where they built a fire and spent the night rubbing and warming them, thereby saving their lives. Both watches bear inscriptions reciting the circumstances which led to the presentation.

From the Philadelphia Practitioner.
From the World's Dispensary Printing Office and Bindery, Buffalo, N. Y. we have received "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English, or, Medical Simplified," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Counselor-in-Chief of the Board of Physicians and Surgeons at the World's Dispensary, and in our chapter on disease, to bear or cure its benefactor. Ignorance is not only itself a cause of disease and mortality, but it is the worst enemy we have to our health, and it is our duty to cure or mitigate. Nothing will so speedily remove this cause as knowledge (as elementary as that of the diseases to which we are heir, as well as those superinduced by our own imprudence. Dr. Pierce has rendered in our judgment a benefactor's service, both to the afflicted and to the profession, in his diagnosis of the diseases treated of, and in the presentation of the philosophic principles involved in their causes, remedies, and prevention. It is usually prescribed such as are safe in our unskilled hands. As a book merely of abstract knowledge, it is exceedingly readable and interesting, especially the following subjects:—Cerebral Physiology, Human Temperaments, Pseudo-Hygiene, the Nursing of the Sick, Sleep, Food, Venereal, etc. In our chapter on another subject, so delicate in its nature that it is shut up beyond the domain of warning to all but physicians, so most explicit, and alike true to God, to virtue, to life, and to society, shows the truth as presented in the teachings of Scripture, and in the teachings of science,—with great force, to which is added laudatory warnings. Price of the Medical Adviser, $1.50, sent post-paid. Address the author at Buffalo, N. Y.
