RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

FOLLY BRIDGE
In Oxford, England was built by philosopher Roger Bacon—and it was said that the span would collapse if anyone more learned than Bacon passed under it.

THIRSTIEST MAN IN ALL HISTORY
WAFS WEBB (1794-1879) of Acushnet, Mass., THROUPE OUT THE 85 YEARS OF HIS LIFE DRANK FROM 6 TO 8 GALLONS OF WATER EVERY DAY.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAV BECKER

According to the Rule of Eleven, assuming West led his fourth best spade, East has only one spade higher than the seven. It cannot be the ace, because in that case West would have J-10-9-7 and would have led the jack, not the seven. Therefore, East has the jack, ten, or nine.

5. If the queen is played from dummy, it will hold the trick, but declarer is then subject to defeat when East returns a spade after winning the diamond. This course of play being dangerous, ducking the spade in dummy must be considered.

6. The contract is completely safe if the spades are divided 4-4, regardless of what is done. The hands to worry about are those where spades are divided 5-3 or 6-2.

7. If the spades are 5-3 the contract cannot be made against best defense. Hands that cannot be made are dismissed from declarer's calculations.

8. If the spades are divided 6-2 the contract cannot be defeated if declarer takes suitable precautions to protect against the possibility.

Accordingly, declarer plays a low spade from dummy and allows East's ten to win the trick. In the actual hand, this results in South's making ten tricks.

What declarer does in effect is to ignore any adverse hands where his course of play makes no difference. By concentrating on hands where his choice of play matters, he gives himself the opportunity to make all hands that can be made.

East dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

Opening lead—seven of spades.

The declarer has lots to think about in some hands. Here is a hand where declarer can make many pertinent observations before playing a card from dummy.

1. South starts with eight, sure tricks. He sees that the contract can be made easily by means of a diamond finesse, provided West was dealt the king. In fact, if this is the case, he can make twelve tricks.

2. All possible hands where West has the king of diamonds are of no concern. Such hands make themselves. The play must be planned on the basis that East has the king.

3. Which spade should be played from dummy on the opening lead? Relevant is the question of who has the ace of spades.

4. West has the ace of spades.

NATO Postponed Cyprus Question

PARIS (Reuters)—The NATO permanent council postponed consideration of the Cyprus question again Wednesday when Greece asked for more time to consider a plan for a round-table discussion.

Greek delegate Michel Melas told the 15-nation council that he was still awaiting final instructions from his government on the terms of reference and composition of the round-table conference proposed by NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak.

Another meeting was set for Friday.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
