Golden Hawk Hits Paydirt

By JIM CULLEN

Bobby Hull, the 'Golden Jet' of the Chicago Black Hawks, was a going concern for the Windy City representative in the National Hockey League Thursday night as they outskated and outbumped the Detroit Red Wings on home ice to topple the Abelmen 2-1 and knot their best-of-seven semi-final series at two games apiece.

The blond bomber of the Billy Reay coached aggregation rifled home the winning goal in typical Hull fashion as he took Chico Maki's pass just over the Hawks' Blue-line, burst down to the Detroit line and as he stepped over the line he let go with a blast that carried too much momentum for diminutive Roger Crozier to handle.

The Hawks' defensive unit played a big part in the Hawks' victory as they foiled the Wings time after time and gave Glenn Hall plenty of protection. Bobby Hull, who suffered injuries to both his knees at a time when he appeared destined to set an all-time goal scoring record in the National Hockey League, limped through the last half of the schedule after sitting out several games as he recovered from the Hawks in four playoff games. A fair effort for a player recovering from two 'gimpy' knees.

Sid Abel's theory has been that if you can stay with the Hawks for the first two periods you can beat them, but there must have been something gone astray with the Detroit strategy in the final period as according to all reports on the contest the Detroit squad appeared to lack their sharpness in the final stanza and the Hawks attack was apparently increasing.

We have a funny feeling that this could be due to the fact the Wings are starting to wear under the bodychecks being handed out by Pilote, Vasko, MacNeill and company; plus the strain of their drive for the Prince of Wales trophy is taking effect and they are beginning to run out of gas. Something that has been causing concern in our mind is the question: What would the Wings do if Crozier was injured?

Tid Bits From Here And There

A Charlottetown sports columnist has let his readers in on another secret. This time it was Lorne 'Gump' Worsley who beat the Habs Thursday night, not the Toronto Maple Leafs. We had the idea that the Leafs deserved an 'A' for effort to overcome that 2-0 lead that Canadians had built up in the final period. Overcoming such margins in Stanley Cup play is quite a feat and the 'underdog' Leafs surely must be commended for their ability to come from behind. We thought Mr. Worsley was quite adequate and surely Canadians are not going to blame him for his misfortunes while visiting the Queen City. We're certain coach, Toe Blake wouldn't go along with such accusations. He must feel mighty happy to have a man of Worsley's ability around in such emergencies.

The Island basketball final will be staged at the Birchwood gymnasium this afternoon. The Wayne MacDonald coached Charlottetown Reds host the Summerside Heckbert Studio Aces in the deciding game of the Island Intermediate 'C' finals. The Reds shaded the Summerside representative 68-66 in the first game of the two game total point series played in Summerside, Wednesday night. The local team will have a two point lead on the western hoopers going into today's action which is a mighty slim margin.

There are two games on tap today in the Maritime midget championship being staged at the Charlottetown Forum. Fredericton, N.B. will tangle with Antigonish this morning at eleven and the night cap will have the local representative pitted against the Nova Scotians, in the final game to decide the Maritime crown. In the case of a tie, goals for and against will decide the championship.

Eagles Shade Borden Squad

SUMMERSIDE — Red Gravelle's goal at 15:01 of the third period with his team shorthanded gave the RCAF Eagles an exciting, come from behind 4-3 victory over Borden Nationals here last night in the PCHL championship. The Eagles won the best of seven finals four games to two. They won the last three straight games. Last night's contest was witnessed by nearly 3000 fans.

Gravelle's winner of the exciting finale came 26 seconds after Borden's Don MacWilliams tied the game 3-3. Gravelle took Kevin Hutchings pass, worked past the defence and cut loose with a hard drive.

George Buffet scored twice and Jean Paul Guy completed the RCAF scoring. Ev White connected twice for the Nats. Both scores came in the first period that gave Borden a 2-0 lead. Buffet's second marker, on a spectacular breakaway showed the Eagles ahead 3-2 midway through the second period.

The game finished in a flurry of excitement. Borden had a five - on - four advantage for the remaining minute and 10 seconds but failed to capitalize on golden opportunities around the Eagle cage, in the dying seconds.

RCAF goalie Gord MacLean was phenomenal at this point with Borden pressing.

Canadiens' Management Is Confident Of Victory

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP)—Sam Pollock, Montreal Canadiens general manager, may be disgruntled, but he is not discouraged.

"We're still playing better hockey than they are," Pollock said Friday as Canadiens returned to the friendly confines of the Montreal Forum.

"This fact gives them (Toronto) something to worry about. It's most important."

Pollock and Canadiens coach Toe Blake were holding forth on Thursday night's 4-2 loss to the Toronto Maple Leafs, which saw the defending Stanley Cup champions come from behind a two-goal deficit to win.

The Leafs victory evened the best-of-seven semi-final series at two games apiece. Both clubs have scored their victories on home ice.

Action resumes at the Forum at 8 tonight (8 p.m. AST). Pollock said forward Gordon (Red) Berenson and netminder Ernie Wakely of American Hockey League Quebec Aces have been recalled for Saturday's game.

"We could bring in additional help from Quebec or Omaha (Knights) for the next series," Pollock said. "You'll notice I said next series."

"That's how confident we are of getting by this one."

Both Quebec and Omaha of the Central Pro League have been eliminated from playoff competition.

Blake would give no indication who would sit out in favor of Berenson, but said Wakely had been pressed into service because injured netminder Charlie Hodge will not be released from hospital before Saturday.

The Aces' netminder will suit up as a standby for Gump Worsley.

Hodge suffered a groin injury last Saturday night when struck by a shot from the stick of Toronto's Leonard (Red) Kelly. The little netminder continued, but the injury flared up Monday before practice and he has been in hospital since.

Blake said he would like to experiment with Jean Guy 'al' hot both on the power play and at left wing.

LETS ERRORS Pollock said that, while it was true defensive errors caused the collapse Thursday, equal blame rested with the failure of Canadiens' forwards to score goals.

"They've provided a tonic to the other side by missing goal after goal after goal," he said. Blake said that wingers John Ferguson and Larose need one goal to get them going.

"It's just a matter of confidence with them, but I'm surprised at (Ralph) Backstrom. I guess he's back to pressing too hard."

Canadiens had five men skating Friday morning, including regulars Larose and netminder Worsley. The others — Noel Picard, Gary Peters and Yvan Cournoyer — have been used sparingly or not at all.

scored to an 84 Friday after a fine opening 71, and had a total of 155.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., added a 79 to his first-round 75 for a 154 total. Nick Westlock of Toronto came in with a 76. With his first-round 89, he had a total of 156.

Both are amateurs.

Three-Way-Tie For First Spot

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus slammed out sub-par rounds in gusty winds Friday and forged into a tie with South Africa's Gary Player at 138 for the 16-hole lead in the Masters gold tournament.

Palmer, recapturing the putting and chipping touch that carried him to a record four Masters crowns, delighted his followers with a four-under-par 68.

The six-foot, 210-pound Nicklaus ended with a 71 in the closing of a long, generally frustrating day.

At 138 they found Palmer firmly stationed at the six-under-par figure after shooting a steady but unimpressive 73, eight shots over his opening 65.

Palmer, the defending champion, and Nicklaus, the 41 favorite, were two of a small handful able to crack the 36-36-72 par of the 6,900-yard monster that turned into a kitten on opening day.

The big, broad course was swept with winds that hit gusts of 30 miles an hour, lightning fast greens and pins tucked into hazardous corners.

CHANGED SITUATION It was a vast contrast to Thursday's opening rounds in which a record 33 players in the original international field broke par and 44 were par or better.

Just one shot back at 139 was a tough tournament regular, Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., who fired a par 72. Another stroke away was Tony Lema, in fifth place at 140 after a 73.

Other threats included Tommy Aaron, who shot a 74 for 141; Bo Wininger, the club pro from Las Vegas, Nev., with 72 for 142; George Bayer, 74 for 143, and a group of tough contenders at 144.

Among the Canadians, George Knudson of Toronto shot a 73 to go with his 72 Thursday for a 145.

The field was reduced to the low 44 and ties for the final two rounds but any player within 10 shots of the lead was allowed to continue.

All players with scores of 148 or better qualified.

Pile Of Green Is Big Factor

By BILL NEVILLE

MONTREAL (CP)—Something old, something new, something borrowed — and a whole pile of green.

That roughly is what the Stanley Cup playoffs are all about.

In simpler terms, it adds up to two trophies and $144,000 in cash.

The chief prize, from a symbolic point of view at least, is the Stanley Cup itself, one of the oldest trophies in North American sports and originally "borrowed" — permanently, as it turned out — from the amateurs.

The cup, which cost Lord Stanley a mere $48.67, but the National Hockey League $13,500, was first put up in 1893 for the amateur hockey championship of Canada. The National Hockey Association took possession of it, however, in 1910 and turned it into a professional trophy.

"Since 1936, it has been more restrictive with only NHL teams competing for a spot on his shiny silver exterior.

The second trophy to be awarded this season is a brand new one. It's the Conn Smythe trophy, donated by Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens in honor of the former coach, manager, president and owner and to be awarded the player selected as the most valuable to his team during the playoffs.

The trophy, which carries a

$1,000 cash award, will offer a new wrinkle as far as selection goes. While the regular NHL individual awards are settled through balloting among sports writers and sportscasters in the six league cities, the Conn Smythe winner will be chosen by the six league governors — the team presidents — in a secret ballot to NHL president Clarence Campbell.

That leaves the money, undoubtedly the most important item of all as far as the players are concerned.

Every player taking part in the playoffs ends up with something based on this breakdown: The winners of the two semi-final series get 18 $1,500 shares, or a total per team of $27,000. The losers get 12,000 in $1,000 player units.

The ante goes up for the 24 teams with the winner carrying off $36,000 or $2,000 for each of the 18 eligible player spots. The losers get another $18,000 or $1,000 per player.

Thus each semi-finalist is assured of $18,000 per team or $1,000 per player with the cup champion ending up with $63,000 or $3,500 for each member and the runner-up $45,000 or $2,500 per man.

The 18 individual player units are based on the playoff rule that a team may dress 17 men plus a goaltender for any one game. In practice it often works out that the same 18 players do not play every game, leaving it for the club involved to subdivide the pot to make sure everyone gets something.

Local Team Wins Opener; Whitlock Paces Attack

Lorne Hennessey's Charlottetown midgets defeated Fredericton, New Brunswick provincial champions, 9-7 in a free wheeling, penalty studded game in the first game of the Maritime round-robin tournament being staged at the Charlottetown Forum to decide the Maritime midget championship.

The visiting forces wasted no time in denting the trines behind Paul Jelly in the Charlottetown cage. At the two minute mark of the opening stanza Gibson of the Fredericton aggregation rifled one behind the local netminder to give his teammates a 1-0 lead. The New Brunswick pucksters controlled the puck in the first half of the first period, but at 10:43 mark young Bobby Doherty found the range and brought the Hennessey coached forces on even terms with the highly rated opposition.

Less than three minutes later Brian Foley stepped over the Fredericton line and rifled one high into the right hand corner to give Charlottetown a 2-1 lead in the opening game of the tournament. Doherty was back for his second of the night before the period closed and teammate Lowell Brown blasted a 20 footer into the Fredericton cage for the local pucksters while Sedgwick and Saunders replied for the visitors to make the score read 4-3 in favor of the host team when the siren went to end the first frame.

The teams battled on relatively even terms throughout the second period and Brian Foley relayed a shot from the point by Pat Walsh into the Fredericton net to give the locals a 5-3 margin on the only scoring play of the second period.

In the third frame the Fredericton lads wasted no time in establishing the fact that they were far from out of the game at this stage of the contest. They got goals from the sticks of Sedgwick and Harvey and tied the game at 5-5 before the one minute mark of the third and this made it a brand new hockey game.

YOUNG WHITLOCK STARS With the game all tied up at 5-5 young Bobby Whitlock, son of the hockey famed Roy 'Buck' Whitlock moved into the spotlight. At the 1:30 mark of the third period he scored his first of what was to prove to be four markers in the penalty studded third period. Whitlock was performing at centre between Bob Doherty and Paul Stanley and this line formed a deadly unit for the Charlottetown midgets as they connected for six of the teams nine goals.

The Fredericton team stayed on even footing with the winners in the goal scoring department in the third period as they got two goals apiece from the sticks of Harvey and Sedgwick.

Pat Walsh, captain of the Charlottetown team, played a standout defensive game for the Hennessey coached forces. He broke up the Fredericton attacking units time after time and led several well organized rushes out of his own zone. Action resumes at the local arena this morning with Antigonish scheduled to meet Fredericton at 11 o'clock and Charlottetown will tangle with the Nova Scotia champions in the nightcap. A win for the Lorne Hennessey coached aggregation over Antigonish would clinch the Maritime midget crown for the Prince Edward Island representative.

If the Island team loses, the championship will be decided by means of the best record with goals for and against by the respective representatives.

Carlos Ortiz Fights Tonight

PANAMA CITY (AP)—Carlos Ortiz makes his fifth defence of the world lightweight boxing title tonight as a surprisingly narrow favorite over his low-ranking opponent.

The 26-year-old Puerto Rican from New York is rated a 6-to-5 choice over hard-hitting Panamanian Ismael Laguna in the 15-rounder at National Stadium, which has been sold out for weeks for a gate of $137,000.

Laguna, a 21-year-old puncher who has just grown out of the featherweight class, has a 37-3 record with 25 knockouts. But he has faced few opponents of stature and had few fights outside his native Panama. The World Boxing Association ranks him only seventh among lightweight contenders.

Ortiz has won 12 straight fights over a four-year span since losing a junior welterweight title match to Duilio Lol of Italy. The well-travelled champion took the lightweight crown from Joe Brown three years ago in Las Vegas and has defended it successfully against Teruo Kosaka of Japan, Doug Vilant of Cuba, Flash Elorde of the Philippines and Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich.

Every player taking part in the playoffs ends up with something based on this breakdown: The winners of the two semi-final series get 18 $1,500 shares, or a total per team of $27,000. The losers get 12,000 in $1,000 player units.
