Mathematical Instruments.

HASZARD & OWEN have received this day and offer for sale in sets at prices varying from 7s 6d to 24s, each, and also separately a large assortment of Drawing Instruments.

1st—The joints are formed with plates of half rolled metal, cut by machinery the required shape. These joints are made to fit, and work more smoothly than the old cast joints.

2nd—The Compass legs are formed of Tubes; conforming to the joints, straight, neatness, and uniformity in the fittings.

3rd—The Dividers have all fine hard steel; the points of the three-square iron points formerly used.

4th—The Drawing pens are made of the finest tempered steel, (pressed the required shape,) any being broken, they may be replaced by a new pen, without any loss of capillary attraction; enabling the Draughtsman to draw a fine or broad line with the same pen.

5th—These Instruments are more neatly packed in their cases; and are fitted up with colours, palette, and pencils complete, at a considerably lower price than any hitherto made.
