Princess' Plane

Hundreds of spectators stood in a cold drizzle and thousands more lined the roads to London airport for the farewell ceremony.

After saying goodbye to Margaret within the privacy of the luxuriously-fitted airliner, the Queen, the Queen Mother and the duke waved aside suggestions from officials to shelter in the lounge and watched the take-off on steps leading to the observation roof.

The plane was checked thoroughly Monday morning and placed under a heavy security guard. Every precaution was taken before and during the flight to avoid a mishap.

REPORTS EVERY ½ HOUR

Capt. Peter Fair, 48, formerly of Montreal and Kingston, Ont., was at the controls for the Atlantic crossing. He reported his position to London airport every half hour as he winged across the ocean.

Escorting RAF planes—one in front and one behind—took the royal plane halfway to Canada. In mid-Atlantic, they arranged to hand over escort duties to RCAF planes.

Union Jacks and bunting decorating Trinidad's Piarco airport for Margaret's arrival were taken down mysteriously Sunday night, despite the 24-hour police guard there. Workers were busy restoring them Monday. Authorities declined comment.

The princess' party includes two ladies in waiting, Miss Iris Peake and Lady Elizabeth Cavandish, Queen Elizabeth's private secretary, Capt. Oliver Dawnay, and Brig. Sir Norman Gwatkin, assistant comptroller in the Lord Chamberlain's office.

There was cautious hope that a cease-fire in Formosa strait could be arranged. But the delegates felt grave anxieties about the possibility an accidental collision between the U. S. 7th Fleet and the Chinese Communist could touch off a major war.

Formosa and the Pescadores are the islands the United States is committed to defend.

Churchill opened the conference with a wide-ranging review of the world situation. Conference sources said he told the other prime ministers the Formosa question was an extremely delicate one and urged great care in any joint efforts to ease the tension. Aides said he emphasized the need for a quick cease-fire. He was also reported to have touched on his hope that the Western powers will be able to arrange a Big Four meeting with Russia next spring to try to ease the cold war.

An official statement after the meeting said the delegates had "concentrated more particularly on the position in the Far East," and said they would continue a review of the international situation today.

Eden also addressed the meeting and explained the legal differentiation Britain has accepted between Formosa, a possession of Japan for 50 years prior to the Second World War, and the offshore islands which have always been part of China power.

AIM TO HALT FIGHTING

Earlier in the day he told the House of Commons Britain will "continue to do everything in its power to promote agreement so that the fighting is stopped in this inflammable situation."

Besides Formosa, the Commonwealth leaders are scheduled to discuss a wide range of foreign questions grouped under four headings—Europe; the Middle East; South-east Asia and the Far East.

They also will review the economic, financial and trade position of the sterling currency area, to which all their countries except Canada belong.

The prime minister will be given a report on Britain's development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy, and will discuss the world disarmament problem.

ued, "but I urge the Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Agriculture to give the potato situation their close consideration. I suggest to them that if the United States is permitted to ship large quantities of potatoes into Western Canada, it is only fair that Eastern Canada be permitted equal privileges in the Eastern United States markets.

"Should the United States feel unable to agree on this proposal, I believe this country should impose a duty on U. S.-grown potatoes of 37½ cents per hundredweight which would enable the Canadian producer to compete on something like equal terms."

Mr. MacLean was supported by Gage W. Montgomery (PC—Victoria-Carleton) who said U.S. potato exporters selling on the Montreal market earned $30 more a carload as a result of dollar exchange rates. He suggested that was an unfair trade policy.

LOCAL UNEMPLOYMENT

Mr. MacLean noted that very brief reference only was given in the Throne Speech to unemployment. Unemployment is very serious in the Maritime Provinces at the present time, he said. History was repeating itself inasmuch as once again, young people from the Maritimes were obliged to go elsewhere to find jobs for themselves. He noted that at present, there are 2,265 jobless in Charlottetown, a figure just a little less than in January 1954.

"This is a state of affairs," the Queen's member said, "that cannot be allowed to continue indefinitely." He urged the federal government to take such action as would change the economic climate of the Maritimes and encourage the development of industry in the east coast areas.

Mr. MacLean voiced approval of the government's plan to amend the War Veterans Allowances Act to increase benefit and raise the ceiling on permissive income. He also approved the system of pensions for the totally disabled and the lowering of the age of eligibility for blind pensioners. He noted however that there is a two-year gap between the top age for family allowance and the proposed lowest age of eligibility for a blind pension.

Security Council

withdrawal of U.S. forces from Formosa.

The council voted 9 to 1 to invite Red Chinese representation in subsequent discussions.

Nationalist China voted against the invitation and Russia abstained because it was linked with the New Zealand proposal.

The council also voted 10 to 1 (Russia) to discuss first the New Zealand rather than the Russian proposal. This ensures the Western idea of a prompt cease-fire will not become tangled up in discussions of the Soviet withdrawal plan.

The council then decided 10 to 1 (China) to adjourn until Peiping replies to the invitation.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, whose term as council president expired Monday, proposed that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold extend the invitation to Peiping. He was supported by U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge and Henri Hoppenot of France.

BLASTS RED PROPOSAL

Lodge called the Soviet proposal "the standard Communist line" and said it left no doubt that international communism would like to take over Formosa "or any other place in the world."

"If the Communists really are opposed to war and violence, as their statement affirms, they can easily demonstrate it by joining the peace-loving nations of the world in supporting a cessation of hostilities. That is why we of the free world are here today."

In submitting the New Zealand item, Munro said "the threat and the danger of the Formosa situation can only be removed by putting an end to the fighting altogether."

27-Inch Fall

In New Brunswick the mercury hovered around zero. Woodstock, in the potato-growing county of Carleton, finished up as the week-end's coldest cold spot with a reading of 28 degrees below zero.

LIGHT SNOW AT YARMOUTH

Oddly enough, only an inch of snow fell on Yarmouth in western Nova Scotia.

The weather office said the storm was moving slowly off to the east and clearing skies should follow.

The blizzard dumped six inches of snow on Charlottetown between midnight and 9 a.m. Monday. Hundreds of workers and school children reported in late for work.

HEAVY DRIFTING

Winds reached 30 miles an hour and drifts filled in most roads across the island's three counties.

The temperature dipped to four below zero at Moncton at nightfall and to three below at Saint John.

The weather office took time to figure that January had produced less sunshine than any in the last 15 years in southern Nova Scotia.

Former Mayors

Messages of regret at being unable to attend due to adverse travel conditions were received from mayors of the Provincial towns: Henry Weage, Summerside, Bruce H. Yeo, Montague, Bruce L. Stewart, Souris, P. L. Boudreault, Georgetown, Willard Laird, Borden, Waldron Darrach, Kensington and Hilton Barbour, Alberton.

Seated at the head table with the former mayors were Premier A. W. Matheson, Lieut. Col. F. J. Storey, centennial chairman, Lieut. Col. Leo F. MacDonald, vice-chairman, and Councillor E. C. Johnstone.

Mayor Stewart introduced the guests and in the course of his remarks paid tribute to the splendid service rendered to the city in past years by those whom the city now takes pleasure in honouring and also those who have passed on since Charlottetown was incorporated one hundred years ago.

In proposing the toast to former mayors, Col. Storey said: "Far sighted men have done a tremendous lot of work down through the years as evidenced in our splendid church buildings, schools, hospitals and other commendable objectives, which make our a city a nice place in which to live."

Hon. B. Earle MacDonald, Minister of Health and Welfare, in responding to the toast, said he felt highly honoured to be privileged to speak on behalf of former mayors who had played an unselfish voluntary role in the development of the city. "I feel humble tonight as I realize more than ever how really unimportant we all are as time passes". Mr. MacDonald paid tribute to the staff at City Hall whom he said were "doing an excellent job in the offices and on the streets in perfect harmony and with understanding."

E. C. Johnstone, senior member of the present council in proposing the toast to former councillors said the city was under a deep debt of gratitude to those who had so served the city. "Those who survive may look back tonight and reflect on service well rendered," he said.

Mr. Alban Farmer, Q.C., in responding traced the records to indicate the civic development here.

"Charlottetown has richly benefitted by the contribution made by about 350 councillors who have conducted the affairs of the city since incorporation as a town," Mr. Farmer said. "Many of these have advanced along the line of service, as for instance we have here tonight Lieut. Governor Prowse and Hon. B. Earle MacDonald, Minister of Health and Welfare, both of whom entered public life by way of the City Council."

Lieut. Col. Leo MacDonald proposed the toast to former Water Commissioners, and made reference to the change over "from the old bucket-and-well days and primitive fire fighting equipment to the modern conditions under which we live". June 1887 marked an outstanding advance in the life of the city when the first Water Commissioners were elected and started on a job which has continued to be a source of great satisfaction to the people, a bountiful and healthier water supply.

W. D. Gillis, speaking briefly on behalf of former Commissioners said he esteemed it an honour as well as a pleasure to represent them in expressing appreciation at this time. "I am grateful to the people of the city for the opportunity given me in the past to do what I could for Charlottetown, and that is the way we all feel, I am sure."

Following the souvenir presentations to former Mayors, several spoke briefly. Dr. Blanchard recalled the horse and sleigh election days of February 30 years ago in humorous vein.

Mr. P. W. Turner believed that an inherent characteristic of city mayors was a deep sense of responsibility and loyalty, which paid good dividends to the citizens in worthwhile achievements.

Lieut. Governor T. W. L. Prowse was in a reminiscent mood as he recalled his entrance to civic politics as a councillor in 1922. "Being Mayor was a very interesting experience which left me with a deep appreciation of our citizens whom I always found kindly disposed to those whom they place in authority."

Mr. Norman W. Lowther was grateful for the opportunity to express thanks for former councillors "We do appreciate this gesture of 'good will, and assure all concerned that it is all very nice from our point of view."

Don Messer and His Islanders furnished the dinner music which was featured by the initial hearing of the "Charlottetown Centennial Breakdown" as written by Don. Messer and played on the piano by Waldo Monroe. Barry MacGillivray in full Highland Costume added color and zest to the opening as he piped the head table guests to their seats. The proceedings concluded with "The Queen."

Fly Vaccine To Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — An RCMP plane flew north to Labrador Monday with enough distemper vaccine for more than 1,000 of the region's critically ailing huskie dogs.

Resources Minister Fred W. Rowe said the first plane-load, which had been delayed by poor flying weather Sunday, was delivered to a string of villages on the Labrador coast between L'Anse au Clair to Red bay.

Labrador's huskie population has been dwindling alarmingly for several weeks because of a widespread outbreak of distemper. The epidemic is all the more serious because so many communities depend on the animals for transportation.
