In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty." E. M. CHAMBERS, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

To the Electors of Charlottetown.

GENTLEMEN,—At the request of many of my fellow citizens I place myself in your hands for re-election to the honorable position of Mayor, and respectfully ask for your votes.

Should you again do me the honor to elect me, I shall co-operate in maturing and carrying out all measures having for their object the good of the community as a whole, and, as in the past, my best efforts shall be given to the administration of the affairs of the city.

I refer you to the City Report for my views on taxation, and I would only add that I am fully satisfied that the ordinary expenditure of the city can be met by a reduced rate on real estate and personal property, which rate, with the other sources of available income, will yield a sufficient revenue to meet the liberal basis of expenditure of the past year, and that no department of the public service can suffer thereby.

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
W. E. DAWSON.

jan27—135

To the Electors of Charlottetown;

GENTLEMEN—In compliance with the wishes of a large number of citizens, and in response to the numerously signed requisition presented to me, I have decided to nominate for the Mayorality at the forthcoming Election, and would take this opportunity of soliciting your support.

If elected, I shall endeavor at all times to act impartially, giving justice to all, favors to none. It shall be my aim to see that the affairs of this City are conducted with the strictest economy commensurate with its requirements and that the rate of taxation be kept down to the lowest figure consistent therewith.

I shall continue to stand up for the citizen's rights both as regards the Roadway to Victoria Park and all other questions which may arise. I believe that all laws at present in force, or that may hereafter be enacted, should be faithfully carried out.

I am opposed to the expenditure of an public moneys in defiance of the well understood wishes of the people.

As I publicly stated two years ago, I believe that good government in civic affairs can only be assured by having a change in representatives from time to time; and having served four years as Councillor, I now respectfully solicite your votes for the office of Mayor.

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant.
HORACE HASZARD.

To the Electors of Ward Five:

Having been asked by a large number of the electors of your Ward to nominate for the coming Council, I have decided to do so, and now beg to solicit your votes.

I shall not be able to see you all, but having many years' experience in the Council, you may depend on me in the future to protect your interests as honestly as I have done in the past. I am

Respectfully yours,
THOS. MORRIS.

DOES DRINK MAKE MURDER?

FACTS WHICH SHOW THAT MURDERS BY DRUNKARDS ARE UNPREMEDITATED.

Mental States Due to Liquor—The Mind is Easily Inflamed and Quick to Avenge Fancied Insult by Violence.

England is discussing the statement of a well-known physician of Liverpool, that murder is largely due to drunkenness. He says the number of instances of murder would be reduced by one-half if the evil of drinking to excess could be stamped out. Many men, he says, who commit this fearful crime are peaceable enough in their rational moments, but seem to undergo a perversion of nature as soon as their minds are confused and excited by liquor.

The testimony of all physicians who have made a careful study of the effects of drinking on the brain goes to show that liquor does not, as so often erroneously stated, "bring out a man's true nature." The doctrine of "in vino veritas" is not sound. Some men, it is true, only excite their natural propensities by over-indulgence.

A naturally garrulous man will often be so acted upon by the drink that his garrulousness is increased tenfold. He will talk until he is absolutely powerless to speak further. A man of solemn temperament will usually be moved to tears. A man of belligerent tendencies will defy the world to mortal combat when in his cups. A man of poetic fancies will rival Milton in his imaginative eloquence.

In support of the English doctor's theory many instances have been cited from the police records and the "family histories" of murderers have been closely examined. The result is a powerful argument for temperance. In seventy-five cases out of a hundred it has been found that men who have committed an apparently uncalled-for or unprovoked murder have been quiet and well-behaved citizens in their sober moments, but had been drinking to excess just before committing the crime. In the other cases the crimes could be attributed to some set motive. The motive which largely predominated was robbery.

An analysis of the cases in which drunkenness has preceded the commission of murder seems to show that an excessive use of liquor produces a condition of nervous tensity. The drinker, no matter what his previous and normal temperament may have been, suddenly grows excessively irritable. He is annoyed to the pitch of desperation by trivial causes.

In an insignificant remark he detects an insult. The playful banter of a companion is interpreted as serious hostility. A friendly slap on the back is regarded as a challenging blow. The inflamed mind, like the law, has no room for trifles. Everything is magnified. A slowness to obey on the part of one who is accustomed to obey is construed as a defiance of authority.

In fact the drinker pays no heed whatever to the probable results of his violent acts. Whatever the fancied cause of his sudden wrath may be, it turns him into a frenzied beast.

While under this fearful influence he has been known to kick his wife in the breast and stomach until she dies (a by no means infrequent case), to beat his mother to death, cut the throats of his children, to gouge out the eyes of a companion. Such acts do not constitute murder in the sense that murder is a crime involving premeditation. It is no doubt true that in very many instances of the sort the unfortunate person had no idea whatever of committing a murder two minutes before the violent act was accomplished.

A case which illustrates the force of the proposition that murder is due often to drink occurred some months ago in England. It is only one of thousands of similar cases that have occurred in this country, but is especially interesting from the fact that the judge in his charge to the jury lamented the many cases on the calender which were plainly due to intemperance.

The prisoner was a militia man, who had just been discharged from his annual training. The victim was a domestic servant, to whom he had been paying attention, and whom he had treated with the greatest kindness up to the day of the murder. On that day the prisoner, the deceased and others were drinking together. One of the company, a married woman, let fall out of her pocket a razor, which she had kept to prevent her husband doing harm to himself or any one else.

The prisoner picked it up and put it in his pocket, saying that he would take care of it for fear of danger. Later, the prisoner, who had pawned his coat to pay for more liquor, became annoyed because the servant refused to come downstairs when he called her, and, going up, he forced open the door, dragged her downstairs and cut her throat with the razor.

The medical evidence showed that the man had been in a frenzy of excitement when the murder was done. There were two cuts, penetrating to the spine, severing all the large vessels and causing almost instantaneous death.

At the trial Medical Officer Beaman, of the prison, made a rather curious statement which, if true, throws valuable light on this subject from the point of view of phrenology. He said that there were three depressions on the right side of the prisoner's head, and that persons having such depressions in their heads were more "susceptible to drink" than ordinary people. Whether this is true or not will bear investigation. If so, it would be interesting to know exactly what causes a connection between such depressions and a desire to drink.

A Sensible Sermon!

A City Clergyman Speaks About Physical Restoration.

Paine's Celery Compound Does a Marvellous Work in a Populous Church Parish in Montreal.

HUNDREDS MADE WELL WHO WERE PRONOUNCED INCURABLE BY THE DOCTORS.

The Only Medicine in the World Heartily Indorsed by the Clergy of All Denominations.

THE GREAT DISEASE-BANISHER A NATIONAL BLESSING.

The sick people of the great church parish of St. Anne's, Montreal, have been greatly blessed and benefitted by the life-giving and health restoring virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. The clergymen of St. Anne's Church know of the grand work accomplished amongst their parishioners, and at all times accord unstinted praise to the great curing Compound. Rev. P. Rioux, one of St. Anne's most popular priests, writes as follows:

"I am fully convinced, both by personal experience and by the statements of many parishioners intrusted to my care, that the celebrated medicine Paine's Celery Compound deserves a high recommendation. I therefore willingly indorse the testimonials already given in its behale."

A UNITED CLERGY.

With One Consent Clergymen of Leading Denominations Speak in High Terms of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

In matter of doctrine and creed the clergymen of the various religious denominations will differ. It has been said, however, that in this day the trend of religious thought through all denominations is towards union on the main essentials. It is certainly the case that the clergy seem well of one mind regarding the merits of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. In the Episcopal Church, the Bishop of Toronto, Rt. Rev. A. Sweatman, D.D., D.C.L.; the Rev. John Langtry, M.A., D.C.L., and the Rev. W. R. Williams, names familiar to everyone, have spoken in warm praise of this excellent specific for cold in the head or catarrh. This medicine has been used in the home of the Rev. A. H. Newman, D.D., LL.D; Rev. T. Trotter, B.A., and Rev. Malcolm S. Clark, B.A., prominent members of the Faculty of McMaster University, and like their Episcopal brethern, they say good things of it. A kindred opinion has been expressed over their own signature by leaders of the Methodist Church, like the Rev. A. S. Chambers, L. L. B.; Rev. William Galbraith, L. L. B., and the Rev. W. H. Withrow, D. D. Just as heartily the Rev. S. Nicholls, of Olivette Congregational Church, Toronto, writes of this medicine, and so the list might be extended.

One short puff of the breath through the blower supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves in ten or fifteen minutes, and permanently cures catarrh, hay fever, colds, headache, sore throat, tonsolitis, and deafness. 60c. Sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of 10 cents in stamps or silver. S. G. Detchon, 44 Church st., Toronto.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT

Take Hawker's balsam for coughs and colds.

You have often thought of trying it. Try it now. It will cure.

One of Canada's best known piano makers, on a winter railway journey, contracted a cold and became so hoarse he could only speak in a whisper. One bottle of Hawker's balsam of tolu and wild cherry cured him. The hoarseness was entirely removed within a few hours.

His experience has been like that of very many public speakers and singers.

But it is in the home, among the little ones, who so easily contract cold and are worried at night by a racking cough, that this remedy is of the greatest value. It is the mother's friend, soothing her little ones to peaceful slumber, and curing them of their ailment. It soothes and heals the irritated organs of throat and chest, and for all bronchial affections as well as in ordinary colds, is an invaluable remedy. It is sold by all druggists and dealers, in 25 and 50-cent bottles, and is manufactured only by the Hawker Medicine Co. (Ltd.) St. John, N. B.

THIS ONE THING I DO.

South American Kidney Cure will Relieve Distressing Kidney Trouble in Six Hours.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so manifest and painful that no description of them is needful in the public prints. All who are afflicted know how much distress and inconvenience is caused them. The important matter is to know how to secure relief and a radical cure. The particular work of South American Kidney Cure is to give the needed relief. It does not undertake to do anything else, but no medicine has been discovered that so completely and quickly cures kidney disease of whatever kind. The world has reason to feel joyous that the discoverer of this great remedy saw the light of day.

NEW IDEA IN POSTAGE.

A Substitute for Stamps by Which Business Firms Will Pay Their Mailing Bills at Intervals.

The postage stamp has a rival. A new device has recently been adopted by the German postal authorities, which does entirely away with the traditional postage stamp. For it is substituted a machine which registers by dies the time and date of preparing each letter for the mail, and marks on the letter the number of the person or firm who is using the machine, and also the rate of postage the letter should pay. Each commercial house or individual who makes use of the system has a machine and with it stamps letters as fast as they are sent. At the end of the week or month the local postoffice authorities will figure up each customer's account and send him a bill, having provided, in all probability, for the payment of it by getting a substantial deposit ahead.

The apparatus is in the shape of a box. In the front of it are several dials, looking very much like the dials of a gas meter, these showing units, tens, hundreds and thousands. Underneath the dials are six push-buttons, each bearing a figure corresponding to the value of the German postage stamps now in use, that is, 3, 10, 20, 25 and 50 pfennigs. The letters to be stamped are slipped in a long, narrow slot. Upon each letter put within this slot there falls a steel die representing a symbol, such as the arms of Germany, with the inscription, "Deutsche Reichspost," and an unchangeable number, the latter being the number of the machine, and that which, transmitted upon the letter, tells the postal clerk who has sent it out, and upon whose account it should go. There is also a stamp giving the date and the hour, controlled by clock-work, which is only accessible to the postal clerk who comes weekly to inspect the machine.

The six push-buttons control a wheel containing dies for the various values. A letter to be stamped is pushed within the slot, and a pressure of one of the push-buttons marks the envelope with the amount of postage required, at the same time imprinting the symbol and the hour, all with indelible ink. The apparatus is so finely adjusted that letter after letter may be pushed in and rapidly marked at a rate of speed that could not be reached except by a small force of clerks using the ordinary stamp.

Automatically the machine registers the entire amount of postage used by a firm, and the clerk inspecting it once a month can thus readily check off the accounts of the postoffice. The system is being looked upon with much interest in Germany, and has met with thorough approbation. It is known as a "postage adder," and the postal authorities see in it a great simplification of their duties.

A Warning Cry.

One of the most terrible warnings against cigarette-smoking was given not long ago by a choir-boy in one of the Brooklyn churches, who died in great agony at St. John's Hospital. This is the story as given in the Laws of Life:

Almost his last words were: "Let any boy who smokes cigarettes look at me now, and know how much I have suffered, and he will never put another into his mouth." He was a bright boy, an exquisite singer, and had many friends. He lived with his grandmother, and worked in a chandelier factory.

Here is his story as he told it to his nurse, Sister Cornelia: "To me he confessed that this trouble had originated from cigarette-smoking. Some days he said he smoked twenty cigarettes. At first he kept his grandmother in ignorance of his indulgence. As he continued to smoke, the appetite grew upon him with such force that he could not break it off, and it began to affect his constitution."

"Why," I asked him, "did you not stop when you saw what it was bringing you to?"

"O, I could not," he replied. "If I could not get to smoke I almost went wild. I could think of nothing else. That my grandmother might not suspect me, I would work extra hours instead of spending my regular wages for cigarettes. For months I kept up this excess, although I knew it was killing me. Then I seemed to fall to pieces all of a sudden."

His disease took the form of dropsy in the legs, and was very painful.

Sister Cornelia continues the story: "During all his sufferings, he never forgot what had brought him to this terrible condition. He kept asking me to warn all the boys against their use. A few days before he died, he called me to his bedside, and said that he thought he had not lived in vain if only those boys who are still alive would profit by his sufferings and death."

There is no other form of tobacco so dangerous as cigarettes, because the nicotine in the smoke is not absorbed in the loose tobacco, smoked clean up to the end, but is taken undiluted into the lungs. It was not the poison in the paper, but the poison of the tobacco which killed this unfortunate, and is ruining the health of thousands of other pale-faced boys.—The Congregationalist.

"An Adjective Letter" Party.

"An adjective letter" will give much amusement to a party of young people. The framework is a letter to be written by one of the number describing some recent event or familiar occurrence, possibly the entertainment in progress. As many names are introduced as is possible and each is preceded by a blank to be filled with an adjective. The writer asks for an adjective from each member of the circle in turn to fill the space. These are, of course, ludicrously inappropriate and when the whole is read it calls forth peals of merriment.—Ladies' Home Journal.

PECULIAR in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses great curative value. You should TRY IT.

ODDS AND ENDS.

In these days the milk of human kindness is soured by the thunderstorm of imposition.

IT DOES THE BUSINESS.

If you want to know what Miller's Emulsion of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil will do for a consumptive patient ask one who has tried it. Ask anyone who has used it in lung troubles of any kind. What they say about Miller's Emulsion shall be its recommendation. It is the finest preparation of its kind in the world, and is worth its weight in gold to a consumptive sufferer, whom it will raise from a bed of sickness to health and strength of body and mind, giving a new lease of life. Thousands testify to the value of Miller's Emulsion. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all Lung affections. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

Counterfeits

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adopted by imitators are as follows:

First—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third—To hook on the word "kidney" in naming cathortic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject for any trick.

So beware.

A penny saved is usually a penny earned for the benefit of some one with a scheme.

A Graduate of Toronto University Says:

"My children have been treated with Scott's Emulsion from their earliest years. Our physician first recommended it, and now whenever a child takes cold my wife immediately resorts to this remedy, which always affects a cure."

Unrequited affection, as a rule, is a misfortune rather than a fault.

Cure of Chronic Catarrh.

A remarkable Cure.—J. W. Jennison Giford, spent between $200 and $300 in consulting doctors; tried Dixon's and oll oth treatments but got no benefit. One box of Chase's Catarrh Cure did me more good than all other remedies in fact I conserer myself cured, and with a 25 cent box ad that.

British Empire League.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The lord mayor of London, Sir Walter Henry Wilkins, presided to-day at the inaugural meeting of the British Empire league, formed to continue the work of the Imperial Federation league. Sir John Lubbock, bart F. R. S, M. D., for London university, explained the objects of the league. The Duke of Devonshire was elected president. Among the speakers was Richards Dobell of Quebec, who referred to the loyalty of Canada, and said that the formation of the British Empire league would be hailed with great satisfaction in the dominion.

A Child Cured of Eczema by Chase's Ointment.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. The doctor advised the use of Chase's Ointment, and since using the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured.

Laid Low by Indigestion.

I was so run down I had to give up work.

Scott's Sarsaparilla the kind that cures.

Indigestion or dyspepsia is the bane of thousands, and is one of the most depressing of afflictions. It arises from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, which weakens the digestive and assimilative organs, rendering them incapable of performing their natural functions, and if neglected, the sufferer loses flesh, complains of exhaustion after slight exertion, and becomes rapidly debilitated.

Mr. Wm. W. Thompson, a prominent resident of Zephyr, Ont., in a letter dated Aug 12th, 1895, says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Scott's Sarsaparilla has caused a most remarkable change in my condition. I was so much run down I had to give up work and felt as if life were not worth living. Mr. Dafoe induced me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, and after taking four bottles I am now feeling as I formerly did years ago, and I want to say for the benefit of those suffering from indigestion and feeling, to use slang phrase, 'completely knocked out,' don't despair until you give Scott's Sarsaparilla a fair trial."

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a blood food, it stimulates all vital organs to healthy normal action, enabling them to throw off all poisonous and debilitating humors. Sold by druggists at $1, but there is only one Scott's. The kind that cures.

FOOLED THE DETECTIVE.

The Sharp Plan of a Forger to Make His Escape.

Detective Leonard Morris, of Chicago, when asked if he had ever allowed a criminal to escape, said: "I did once, and it was in Washington, too. I was on the track of a forger, and had traced him from St. Paul to Chicago, thence to Cincinnati, then to Wheeling, then to Washington. His name war Martin, but he was going under that of Lawrence. I caught a glimpse of him at Wheeling, and learned that he had come here. I traced him to the Ebbitt House, but there was no one registered by that name. As I stood at the counter, however, my man came in. Instead of avoiding me he walked right up and said: 'Are you not Detective Morris?' It took me off my guard, and I answered, 'Yes, sir.'

"'Well, my name is Adams. I want your services to get me rid of a most troublesome double. There is a man whose real name is Martin, but who goes by that of Lawrence, who I know to be a swindler, and he is wanted in Chicago. Now, he has woeked his nefarious schemes throughout this whole section, and I find it hard to sell goods because I am taken for this fellow. I ran across him at the McClure House, Wheeling, yesterday, and in order to catch up with him I got him to deliver a message for me to a friend in Pittsburg, where he was going. Then I wired the friend and he will answer when Lawrence gets there. I want you to go to Pittsburg and arrest him, and I will give you the circular to show that he is wanted.' He handed me a copy of the circular I already had, and in about ten minutes the telegram came from Pittsburg: 'Lawrence is here; stopping at Monongahela House.' Then I was convinced that Adams was an unfortunate victim of resemblance, and went to Pittsburg. When I got there I found I had been duped, and the real culprit had actually succeeded in sending me far enough away to enable him to escape. He has never been caught."—Washington Star.

New Uses of Aluminium.

Although aluminium has disappointed some of the brilliant expectations aroused by the discovery of cheaper methods of producing the metal, yet many new and important uses are being found for it. One of the most recent is the employment of this exceedingly light metal for the powder chamber of cartridges, thus enabling a soldier to carry 25 per cent. more ammunition without increase of weight. Another comparatively new use for aluminium is in the making of oil-cups for the crank pins of high speed locomotives. Formerly these oil-cups, made of copper, were frequently broken by the tremendous centrifugal force developed as they were whirled around. The aluminium cups weigh two-thirds less than those of copper, and consequently, having less momentum, can stand the strain. Baggage checks, shoe-pegs, cooking utensils and other articles in which lightness is desirable, are now made in large numbers of aluminium. Since aluminium gives off no sparks when struck, its employment for the metal work in powder mills has proved a source of great safety.—Philadelphia Record.

Reprove Not With Anger.

Be ever gentle with the children God has given to you; watch them constantly; reprove them earnestly, but not in anger. In the forcible language of Scripture, "Be not bitter against them." "Yes, they are good boys," I once heard a kind father say: "I talk to them pretty much, but I don't like to beat my children—the world will beat them." It was a beautiful thought though not elegantly expressed. Yes, there is not one child in the circle round the table, healthy and happy as they look now, on whose head, if long spared, the storm will not beat. Adversity may wither them, sickness fade, a cold world frown on them; but, amid all, let memory call them back to a home where a law of kindness reigned, where the mother's reproving eye was moistened with a tear, and she frowned "more in sorrow than in anger."

Lumber Exports.

The Manufacturers' Gazette says: "It is a somewhat singular fact that Canada exports several million dollars worth of lumber each year more to the United States than to Great Britain. Thus, in 1893 Canada's total export of forest products to Great Britain figured $11,105,482, while to the United States that aggregate showed $14,841, 455 worth. Yet with this enormous export of lumber to the United States and to Great Britain, the value of Canada's forest products is about $80,000,000 per annum, leaving a balance for local consumption of about $55,000,000 nearly 70 per cent. of its forest products, and equaling more than $11 per head of population. It is somewhat surprising to note that Canada uses twice as much lumber at home as she ships abroad. This is a similar fact to that which we have noted concerning the largely increasing local consumption of lumber in the New England States."

The Feet of Criminals.

Ex-Superintendent Byrnes, of the New York police force, says that a distinctive feature of a criminal, especially of a thief, is his foot, and that he can recognize it as far as he can see it. He says that no matter what sort of a boot or shoe a thief may put on, it will take on a rounded look and turn up at the toe. Generally the arch of the foot is low, but whether it be or not, the turning up of the toes is always there, and comes from the thief's characteristic method of walking. The superintendent said that he had spent many hours studying the feet of criminals, and that in nine cases out of ten he can tell a thief from an honest man by the look of his foot alone.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save use many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame." Civil Service Gazette
